TO CANVASS EVERY HOME IN KINGSTON FOR MONEY FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Kiwianians to Undertake This Task—Sum of $10,000 is Wanted—Canvass to Take Place on the Last Four Days of the Year.

Kingston Kiwanians will visit every home in Kingston and Portsmouth on behalf of unemployment relief. The committee consisting of Elmer Davis, John McKay, W. Y. Mills, R. E. Burns and H. C. Nickle, reported at the regular weekly luncheon held in the Hotel Frontenac on Monday, upon the proposal to take care of the situation, and presented a comprehensive scheme by which the members of the Kiwanis Club will make a thorough canvass for funds and at the same time take a census of the entire city to discover the actual conditions respecting unemployment and the need of relief during the winter months. Each Kiwanian has a district assigned to him, and the work will start on Tuesday, December 27th and must be completed on Saturday the 31st. The funds will be turned over to the city unemployment relief committee together with the information regarding the families and individuals in need.

R. E. Burns reporting for the relief committee, explained the methods adopted and gave detailed instructions for the information of the workers. A plan of the city was subdivided into seventy sections, each section containing from sixty to one hundred homes and a member of the Kiwanis club was assigned to make a thorough canvass of each. In some cases the section is worked by pairs. The returns will be handed in to R. E. Burns and William Bearance, who will, during the campaign, occupy an office in the city hall. He stated that the British Whig and the Standard were co-operating with the club and each day's results would be announced and all subscriptions of $2 and over published. Mr. Burns provided a card containing a map of the district to be worked and a book to be filled out with the information obtained and returned when the canvass is completed. The information will be tabulated for the use of the city relief committee which will administer the funds during the winter. The Kiwanians will wear their badges in a conspicuous place in order that the people may know the object of their visits.

W. Y. Mills, John McKay, Elmer Davis and Mayor Nickle spoke on behalf of the committee and urged the importance of thoroughness in this work. Elmer Davis said: "In my view this is one of the most worthy objects the Kiwanis Club could identify itself with. It is of vital during the present conditions here, and must justify its existence by putting this thing over. The situation is the worst in a period of twenty-five years and people worthy of help, but deterred by personal pride from making their need known must be hunted out and given help."

Mayor Nickle spoke of conditions as he knew them, and showed that they were different from last winter when the locomotive works was open and the city spent $14,000 on sewer construction. "At present the city can only take care of forty workmen a week and by changing them each week they are being carried along longer. A great many of them are faced with eviction by landlords as they are in arrears for rents." Mayor Nickle urged upon all the importance of Kingston handling its own situation and being independent of government contributions.

Dr. R. J. Wilson said: "This is the biggest thing and the most heartening thing I have seen taken up by the citizens of Kingston, and I want to see this club put it over." (Applause.)

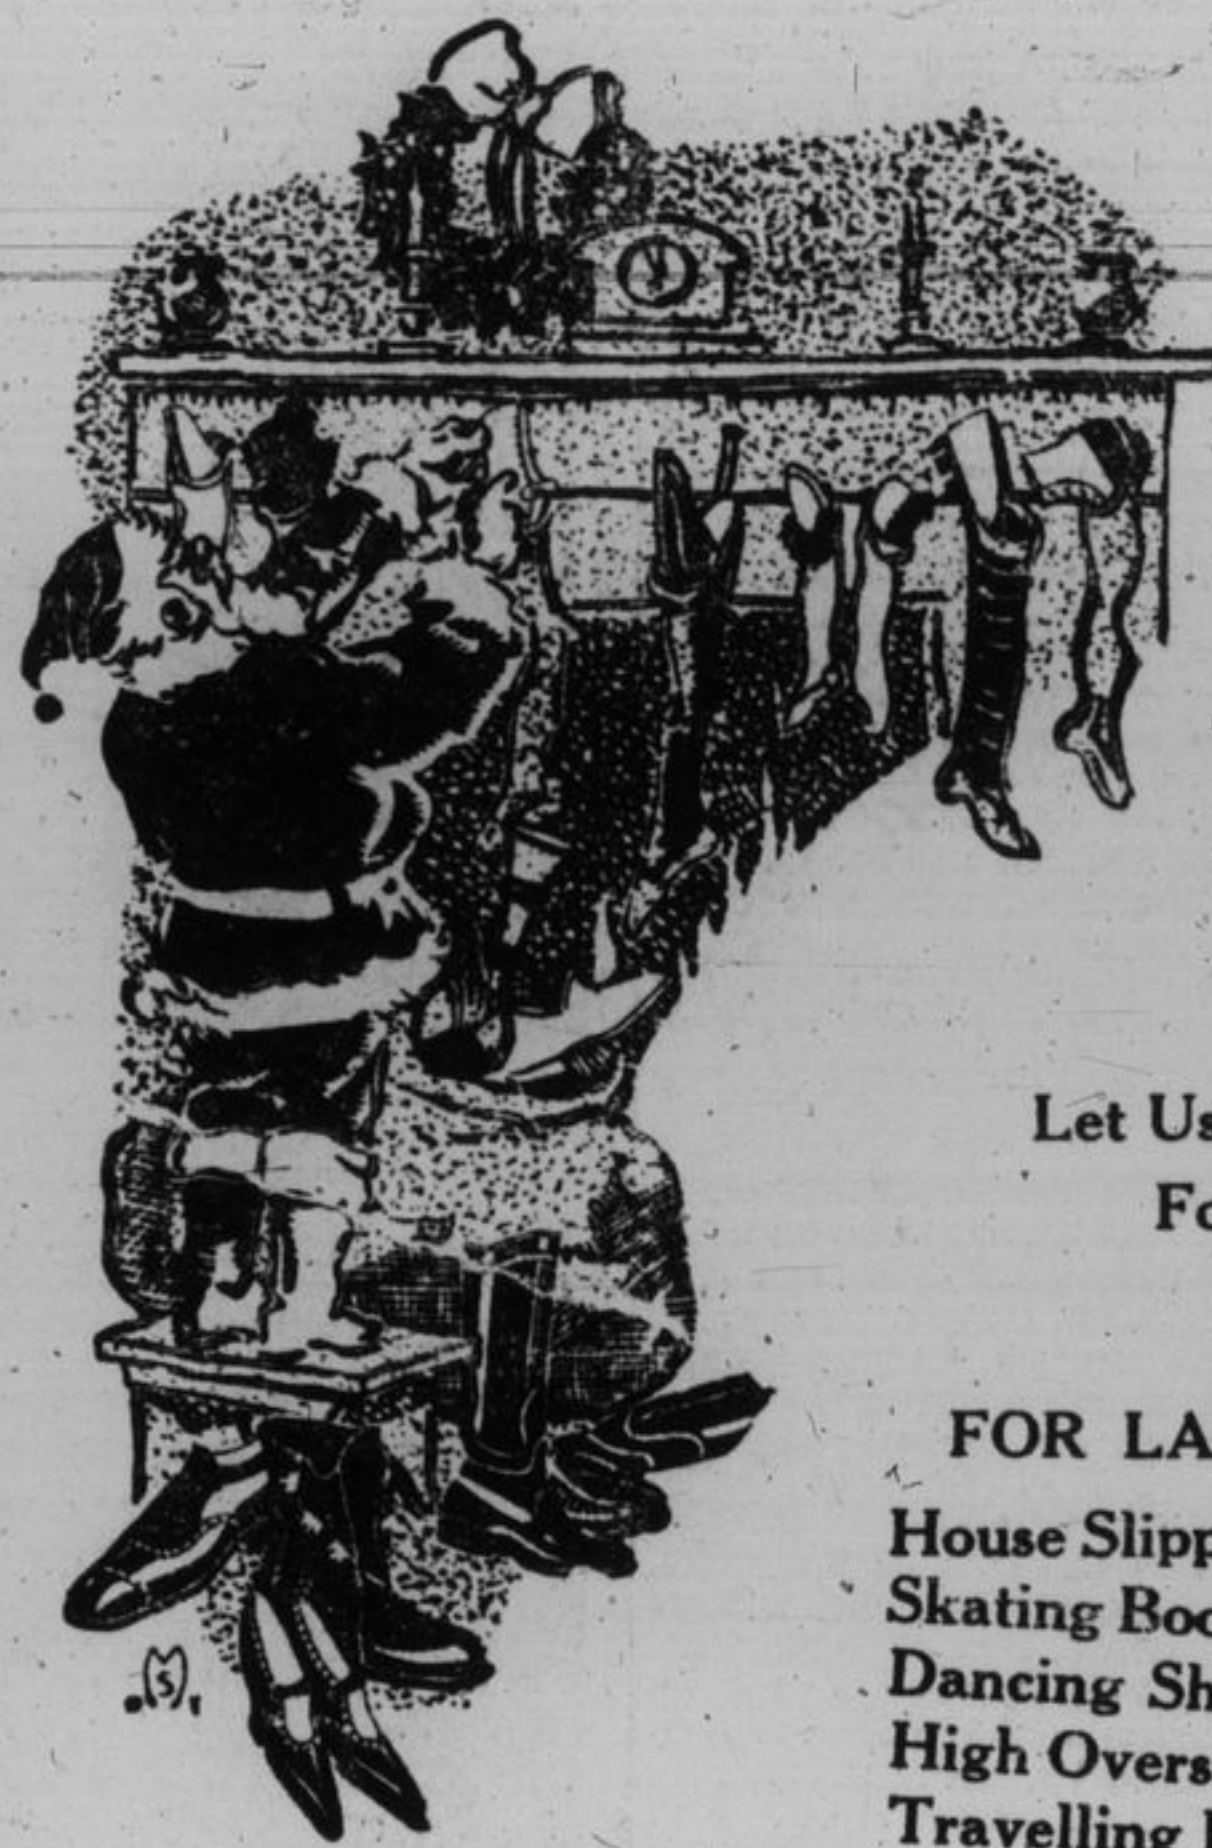

A Job For Every Man.
The principal speaker was Major

G. C. Weiss, department of labor, Toronto, whose subject was "A Job for Every Man, Prosperity for All." Major Weiss has made an exhaustive study of the unemployment in the cities of Canada and he said that in Kingston the situation was "not good, not bad, but not good." The work of the Ontario employment bureaus was reviewed and this showed that in our cities there were large numbers of men in certain out-door occupations who were, each winter, forced out of work by climatic conditions. These men must be taken into consideration. This was not to be done by individual cities, but by the individual man in each city who must help out. All must fall in line and help if anything satisfactory was to be achieved. Merchants, bankers, builders, farmers all must know what the situation is for it is a business problem, economic in every sense of the word. A common-sense view will bring results. Through the employment services of Canada the superintendents are in a position to get into touch with every organization and body that can stimulate the movement along."

Major Weiss spoke highly of the work of Mr. Stroud, the local agent. There are thirty towns to be dealt with, and it is the work of the officials to evenly distribute whatever work is available. In Kingston there are 1,200 men idle, two per cent of the population, and all of these should by every possible means be given work of some kind even if it be only for an odd week, a day or even half a day at a time. The Ontario government asks every man to think seriously with a view to lending the greatest possible co-operation in solving this problem. It is desirable to keep all local men in their own localities. No ideas are too insignificant to be overlooked for none is too small—the efforts of every man are valuable and every man in the community is a most valuable asset and must be kept going, even if the jobs lasts but one day or half a day of each week or each month. The speaker congratulated Kingston upon what had been done here and urged upon all to make the widest possible application of their efforts to provide employment. It was something that required the help of every man capable of utilizing the services of another.

At the conclusion of the address President Frank Hoag tendered to Major Weiss a hearty vote of thanks. Ernest Sparks announced that arrangements had been completed by which one hundred and ten families would be provided with Christmas cheer. The baskets would contain articles of clothing, toys, fruit, confectionery, etc. The names were provided by the poor relief committee and there would be no overlapping of the work of any other organization. Dr. R. J. Wilson and H. E. Richardson told what was being done by them outside of the Kiwanis Club.

The usual routine of the weekly luncheon was carried out and the guests were: George Revell, H. B. Card and A. Stroud. Marcus Oberdorfer, the silent booster, was introduced by R. E. Burns in a most eulogistic address, all of which was quite true, for Marcus is one of Kingston's most widely known business men. He was for many years associated with the Oberdorfer cigar factory which was opened in Kingston in 1857. Marcus is now agent for the Dodge Bros. motor vehicles, Chalmers and Franklin cars and has able assistants in H. B. Card and George Revell. In addition to donating

TROPHY WON BY ONTARIO FRUIT GROWERS.

In co-operation with the provincial department of agriculture, this was won at the Imperial Fruit Show at Crystal Palace, London, England, in October last. The cup was presented by the Fruit and Produce Exchange of Great Britain, Limited, to be won by the exhibitor in the United Kingdom or overseas section making the highest aggregate points in fourteen classes.

ing a souvenir bottle of automobile polish to each member. Marcus provided a number of very valuable prizes in the form of automobile accessories. They were won by F. M. Clow, F. J. Wilson, George Hanson, Bliss Barnum, R. E. Burns, W. MacCallis and Matthew Hanson.

During the roll call fines were imposed upon Gene Dennee, G. Lockett, W. K. Macnee, E. Ryan, Jack McKay, Bob Rodger, and Arthur B. Cunningham. The latter is a grandfather and in a moment of pride he announced the fact, and was called upon to pay the sergeant-at-arms the sum of twenty-five cents.

The unemployment committee that will administer the Kiwanis fund is composed of Mayor Nickle, (chairman), Mrs. J. Wright, Mrs. Eason, Adjt. Condie, A. Stroud, John Pollie, Miss Ida Roxon and Mrs. F. R. Robinson.

President Hoag announced that on Dec. 30th, the Rex Stock Company will give a free matinee at the Grand Opera House for the poor of the city.

Some Collisions.

The pavements around the city were very slippery on Monday, and many minor accidents occurred on this account during the day. Just before the noon hour struck, a new McLaughlin car belonging to Thomas Angrove had a collision with a "silver" at the corner of King and Princess, resulting in some slight damage to the running board of the former. About the middle of the afternoon, one of the Bryant company's trucks, which had been previously damaged, received the "coup de grace" at Wellington and Brock intersection. It was being towed to one of the local garages, and in making the turn at the corner, one of the hind wheels came off and precipitated the vehicle on the pavement.
