

THE ELECTORS OF KINGSTON

Some Reasons Why This Kingston-Born Alderman Should Be Elected to the Mayor's Chair on Monday.

The man picked by a great many citizens to win the fight on Monday is Alderman Sam. Corbett. In his inaugural speech on Friday, Dec. 23rd, Alderman Corbett outlined reasons which should persuade any voter that he will make a capable and efficient chief magistrate and one under whom the city of Kingston will prosper and grow during the year 1923.

Samuel S. Corbett was born in this city and has spent his whole life here. He is therefore in a position to know the needs and wants of the town and of its people.

He has sat in the City Council for five years, representing Frontenac and St. Lawrence Wards. During that time he has served as chairman of the city property committee and as member of the committees of finance, fire and lights, parks, and on the Board of Works. Thus he is familiar with every department of the city's administration.

In his inaugural address Alderman Corbett outlined his attitude on the various matters at present before the people. He claims that the mayor should be the servant of the people, rather than the master, and that this idea will be his guiding precept should he be chosen to lead them next year.

Fire Motorization.

On this matter Alderman Corbett, if elected mayor for 1923, would follow out a policy in accordance with the will of the people as revealed by their vote. He leaves the whole matter to their judgment.

City Police Alarm.

This question Alderman Corbett leaves to the people, while at the same time pointing out that, although it will cost $12,000 to protect the whole city, yet the smaller program of $8,000 is unfair to those living in the outskirts because they pay for the protection of the central area and derive no benefits.

Exemption and Bonus.

Both the renewal of exemption from taxes and the bonus for the Kingston Factories Ltd., to bring more work here for Kingston men and women, are regarded favorably by Mr. Corbett. He thinks that the Kingston Factories Ltd. is really a good proposition, but, in this, as in other things, his policy is that of the electors.

New Hotel.

Alderman Corbett intends to make the acquisition of a big new hotel for Kingston in 1923 one of his special works, should he be elected. He will give every energy to securing the advancement of this desired project, and of continuing the work along that line once the hotel is established.

Business Administration.

The affairs of the city should be administered in a business-like manner is one of his main contentions. The same principles which he would apply in personal business should be directed to the service of the city by a man holding office. So Alderman Corbett believes. With investments, careless plunging with the city's finances, and such practices, he condemns and advocates a careful consideration of every dollar spent.

The Man for Mayor.

Such a frank, open statement of his policies, considered with his long service and valuable experience, should earn the votes of the people for Alderman Corbett on election day and return him as mayor of Kingston for 1923.

T. Branigan, the local manager of the Grand, and the Rex Stock Company, with the co-operation of the Kingston Rotary Club.

The Rex Stock Company presented "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath." Rotarian Wray Vanluven was in charge of the transportation and provided cars for those who were unable to walk to the theatre. It was a great treat for all who attended.

An innovation in the ceremony of swearing in the new dominion cabinet was the fact that each man took the oath on a separate bible, in which was inscribed his name and the signature "Byng of Vimy." The bibles in question were "orthodox" to those to whom they were presented.
