Growing Legume Crops Will Help You Do It.

Clovers, Peas and Vetches Store Up Nitrogen From the Air-Good Bacteria Will Work for You-Determining the Need of Chomical Fortilizers.

(Contributed by Onterio Department of

Nitrogen costs money when purchased through the medium of the DINING ROOM FURNITURE, WILTON chemical fertilizer dealer, usually about twenty cents a pound. Some of our farmers are spending from ten excellent truck, cheap for cash, to forty dollars per acre a year for nitrogen to increase crop production. With ave million pounds of nifrogen QUEBEC HEATER FOR SALE; VERY floating as a gas over every acre of land such expenditure may not always be justified. That nitrogen is highly valuable as a plant food is appreciated by comparatively few of our farmers. If those who do appreciate its value are willing to pay twenty cents a pound for it, and those are the men working on small areas with intensive culture crops, why don't those larger area farmers who have a few billion pounds of nitrogen floating above their farms wake up and get at least a small quantity into the soil of their fields?

Legume plants such as the clovers. peas and vetches, together with the bacteria that are parasitic on the world beyond. Over 400 pages roots of this class of plants, form a Only 25c. post paid. H. With one million dollars' worth of nitrogen over every acre of land would it not be good policy to make sufficient use of legume crops and their parasitic soil bacteria to at least provide the needs of the farm in crop production. The nitrogen accumulated by growing legume crops is taken largely from the air, while the small quantity C. K.
