Absolute Evidence in Favor of Ground Cylinders

All high grade automobile engines manufactured in this country as well as in Europe have their cylinder bores finished by grinding. Some of the American cars that might be mentioned are:

Apperson	Hudson	Pearless
Brewster	Kissel	Pierce Arrow
Cadillac	LaFayette	Rolls Royce
Cunningham	Lincoln	Standard
Dorris	Locomobile	Stevens Duray
Franklin	MaFmon	Stutz
Haynes	Mercer	Templar
Holmes	Packard	Winton

In fact, 84% of all the manufacturers of pleasure cars use engines with ground cylinder bores, and 91% of the commercial motors are ground. Heald Machines are used exclusively.

Automobile owners we have one of these Heald Cylinder Grinding Machines, and can guarantee first class work. Ground Cylinders is a selling point with many cars.

PAROLE BOARD DOESN'T COMMUTE LONG TERMS

Deals Only With Prisoners in Institutions Whose Sentence Is Indeterminate.

In spite of the fact that it has nothing whatever to do with recent releases of serious offenders before completing their sentences, the Ontario Parole Board has almost invariably been looked to by the public for explanations, according to Dr. A. E. Lavell, secretary of the board.

Lately in the public eye have been the cases of two motorists, Harris Goldberg and Ernest Howard, convicted and sentenced for manslaughter, the first of whom was released on parole, and the second pardoned, after serving a month or less, of two and one year sentences respectively. And the other day Jack Lett who had put in three years of a ten year term for a large scale mail robbery was freed on parole. In none of these cases was the Ontario Parole Board concerned.

"We have in Ontario not one way but three ways by which a man under sentence can remain outside the walls of a jail or reformatory," says Dr. Lavell in explaining the confusion that has arisen. First of all, because widest in its scope, comes the so-called "ticket of leave" which is exercised by the dominion department of justice at Ottawa. This department has absolute power to step into any penitentiary or jail in Canada and to let loose any prisoner, who is required to report to the police once a month. There are occasions when the department of justice appears to the local police officials concerned to be acting rather arbitrarily in withholding its power to issue "tickets-of-leave." The cases cited above were the result of direct action on the part of the department of justice.

How Parole Board Works.

The second method is the "parole." The "ticket-of-leave" is often incorrectly described as a "parole" although the word "parole" does not occur once in the ticket-of-leave act. Paroles are granted, as would be expected, by the Ontario Parole Board and when an offender has been given an "indeterminate sentence" which usually consists of a definite term of say three months followed by an indefinite period described as "not more than twenty-four months less one day." The board may let the prisoner out on parole provided that it thinks such action is in the public interest, and there is definite employment awaiting the man outside.

The parole system, unlike the ticket-of-leave system does not apply to penitentiaries which are dominion institutions, but only to the provincial (Ontario) and municipal penal institutions in which the maximum sentence is two years. Every man who enters one of these latter institutions is considered, before his sentence is well under way, as to his fitness for parole. The matter is not allowed to depend on his own application or that of any friends he may possess.

Once paroled, the prisoner is under the absolute control and supervision of the board. He has to report once a month at least and is, besides, under the eye of some one of its representatives. He is expected to stick to his job and support himself—and his family, if he has one.

It is in cases of indeterminate sentences only that paroles are issued—the board cannot interfere with the definite sentence of a judge—but as indeterminate sentences are being made use of increasingly by judges and magistrates, the parole system is growing in importance. It appears to show a good measure of success as well, for last year—the most difficult year the police have known—212 paroles were granted and 201 of the recipients "made good." That is, 91 per cent. of them not only kept out of jail but established themselves in steady positions. From 90 to 93 per cent. have done so year by year since the board began work in 1910.

May Work Outside Jail.

The third way in which a man can be and not be a prisoner at the same time is through the Ontario "act for the extra-mural employment of prisoners under sentence," who provisions, unlike the parole, apply to definitely sentenced offenders.

Under this method the prisoner becomes a sort of "trustee." He is not paroled and not pardoned but held in safekeeping. While allowed to spend the day at outside work he must spend the night from 7 p.m. in some place of safe custody, usually a jail and he must, of course, report to the police daily.

Care to assure the safety of the public is exercised in granting these permits, none of which are issued without the co-operation of the local chief of police, and like the parole system, the permit system appears so far to meeting with success. Last year was its first year and out of 120 prisoners who received permits only one escaped.

IN THE HALLS OF QUEEN'S

Outside Universities Seek Information About Queen's Alma Mater Society.

A meeting of Queen's alma mater society was held in convocation hall Saturday evening at which a large amount of routine business was transacted. The director of athletics presented the financial statement for the past year emphasizing the fact that athletics at Queen's are being carried on on a big scale and have increased greatly during the year with the addition of the stadium and the rink. The financial statement of the alma mater society was also given. At the next meeting Mr. Awrey will be made an honorary member of the A.M.S.

A proposal will be made that the alma mater society meet but once every two weeks, the executive of the society meeting once a week and transacting any routine business. It is also the ambition of the executive to provide programmes for the meetings.

As an evidence that Queen's is known as a student governed university is the fact that the alma mater society has been in receipt of communications from universities in the states and western Canada asking for constitutions of the alma mater society of Queen's as they intend organizing similar bodies and wanted to know how Queen's students managed their society.

The students band is preparing for the winter season and will play at the university's games. Were it not for the fact that the student players have not the time to devote to the work it might have been available for playing for the skaters at the rink.

Vaccination is being enforced among the arts and science students of the university, the medicals having all been vaccinated last year.

The arts and science students have finished writing their examinations and will resume classes this week again. The results, some of the papers written being final, will be posted soon.

Some of the students have been after the athletic board of control to build another open air rink so that all the student teams may get opportunities for practice. All the year teams wish to use the one open air rink at about the same hours and as a result some of the teams have to do without.

As so many players were turning out with the junior team another team has been entered in the junior intercollegiate race and as the fourth team in the rugby schedule will be classed with K.C.I. and Regiopolis.

The annual dinner of the aesculapian society will be held on January 31st.

MAY OPEN MISSION HERE

Of New Testament Apostolic Church—Address by Rev. M. Rickard.

Rev. M. Rickard was the speaker at a meeting held in Ontario hall on Sunday evening in the interests of the New Testament Apostolic church, which is considering opening a mission in this city. Mayor S. S. Corbett occupied the chair and stated that there was a great need in this city of some mission similar to the Sailors' Mission which did so much good work for the unfortunate and needy in time of trouble. Inspector John Pollio of the Children's Aid Society, also made a few remarks.

Mr. Rickard outlined the principles of his church, and stated that he had studied theological ideas for a number of years and seldom had any two agreed on the exact interpretation of any one passage. A number of scriptural passages were read by the speaker, who claimed that he believed in the simple plain word of God. "We do not have to explain any of this scripture," said the speaker, "but merely accept it just as it is. I would rather have the comfort and promise of the bible than the favor of all men."

The speaker concluded by saying that the hour would soon come when the world will not be governed by human authority, but by divine authority, when Christ will return to the earth and set up a divine government.

Most people waste a lot of valuable time telling their troubles to other people, who are not even interested.
