"THE KID"

The boy or girl of to-day does not need to be handicapped in school from poor eyesight—many children who are backward at school and complain of the inability to study have headaches or eyepain, can be relieved by a proper pair of glasses.

Our examination will reveal the trouble if in the eyes and our glasses will enable them to keep pace with their chums, which is the ambition of most children.

THE COUNCIL OF WOMEN

The Annual Meeting Was Held on Thursday After-noon.

The annual meeting of the local Council of Women was held in the council chamber, on Thursday afternoon, Miss Lillian Mowat, the president, in the chair. After the minutes had been read and adopted the treasurer's report was presented. Balance for 1920, $49.26; receipts, $127.28; disbursements, $63.84; balance on hand, $63.44; Special fund, balance, $60.30; disbursements, $15.95; balance, $44.35. Total for travellers aid, $32.35; disbursements, $210; balance, $114.35. The reports of the affiliated societies were read showing the splendid work done in Kingston by its women. The Children of Mary does relief work, had helped 157 families, sent 42 Christmas dinners and 112 stockings. The Victorian Order of Nurses committee reported a successful year with the highest praise for the V.O. nurses and the work of Dr. H. E. Day at the welfare station. The Orphan Home committee hopes for the further interest of the citizens. The Y.M.C.A. has a newly appointed secretary and looks forward to a year of usefulness. St. John's Ambulance has issued 107 certificates for first aid during the year. The Red Cross carries on the visiting of the military hospitals as well as their peace time work, providing clothes for the needy. The Lavana Society gave an interesting report. The City Union of King's Daughters, now in its twenty-fifth year has done valiant work for Kingston during a quarter of a century. Twenty-seven years ago the charity circle opened its food and fuel club and in that time $27,154.16 has been collected from the poorer members and given back to them in food and fuel bought to the best advantage. Kingston's community workers gave a short report of work done in the city schools. Catarina and La Salle Chapters I.O.D.E. are represented on the executive. The Public Library's report showed an increased interest in the story hour and in the movies kindly given by the Strand theatre. Reports were read from the Women's Aid of the Kingston General Hospital, from the Teachers' Association, from the Infants Home, Queen's Alumnae and Mrs. Charles Wright, Travellers Aid, said she had assisted 548 travellers during the year, 385 of whom were young girls. Reports were heard from the standing committees.

The election of officers followed as follows: Hon. president, Miss Machar; hon. vice-presidents, Mrs. W. P. Nickle, Mrs. W. Cochrane; president, Miss Lillian Mowat; vice-presidents, Miss Muekleston, Mrs. J. Macgillivray, Mrs. H. A. Lavell, Miss I. Roman, Mrs. A. Strachan; recording secretary, Mrs. E. C. D. MacCallum; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. Wilford Kelly; treasurer, Mrs. A. Newlands. Standing committees: Agriculture, Mrs. Revelle; care of mentally deficient, Miss Mackenzie; child welfare, Mrs. Garrett Lockett; citizenship, Miss W. Gordon; education, Miss I. Bureau; conservation, Mrs. A. M. Rankin; finance, Mrs. A. Ellis; fine arts, Mrs. P. Devlin; laws for women, Mrs. Bruce Taylor; public health, Mrs. R. Robinson; playgrounds, Miss Wilder; woman labor, Mrs. A. L. Hughes; suppression of objectionable printed matter, Mrs. A. Kennedy; laws, Miss Mowat; press, Miss Goring.

"THE LITTLE MINISTER."

Barrie's Charming Story Shown in Motion Picture at Strand.
The beautiful photo dramatization of "The Little Minister," by Sir James Barrie, is a play one must not miss, even if having had the privilege of seeing its presentation on the legitimate stage. It was shown before a large audience at the Strand on Thursday evening. The setting of this famous Paramount production is the old Scotch village of Thrums, picturesque with quaint homes, and the surrounding woodlands. Among the dashing soldiers, charming women, gay gypsies, and the comely village folk, characters never to be forgotten, "The Little Minister" himself with his great goodness, courage and love, reaches the hearts of all who know him. The versatile and bewitching Betty Compton fills admirably the role of "Lady Babbie," while George Hackathorne is well suited to the part of "The Little Minister." Among those in the carefully selected supporting cast are Nigel Barry, William Willing, Guy Oliver, Fred Huntley, and many others with whom movie-lovers are acquainted.

"The Little Minister" will be shown at The Strand theatre Friday and Saturday matinee and evening.

TWICE TOLD TALES

News of Kingston

TEN YEARS AGO.

All local curlers are busy entertaining the visiting Scottish curling teams. Frontenacs defeated Varsity seniors here 7 to 4, winning by combination play. Mayor Hoag wants to see Junior Frontenacs defeat his brother's team in Trenton tonight. The department of militia will penalize any employer hindering men who wish to attend summer training camp. Nominations will be received tomorrow for the aldermanic vacancy in Frontenac ward.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

W. Harty, Jr., had the fingers of his right hand badly battered while playing hockey. Frontenacs seniors and cadets will not meet at Rockwood rink tonight as the cadets will not be able to get away. "Billy" Yule amused a large audience in the opera house, assisted by the Queen's Glee Club. The Kingston branch of the Y.W.C.A. is a useful and growing organization. Queen's representative hockey team leaves for New York tomorrow night under Capt. Curtis.

QUEEN'S AND DANCES.

The Journal Defends the Social Events of the Students.

When a Queen's notice board displays three dance placards and nothing else, is that a true expression of our college life, a fair advertisement of what Queen's has to offer? Or when newspaper headlines read like this—"Can't Stop Fussing," Dr. Taylor Declares, Society Functions Simply Won't Be Eliminated In Colleges"—Ottawa Journal, May 16th, 1921)—is a correct impression being conveyed of life at Queen's? In short, is our reputation among the undergraduates of other universities as an institution given over to dancing a well-earned one? There is only one answer to questions such as these: a negative one. No person with even an unsympathetic understanding of the present-day tendencies of the "younger generation" can say that Queen's students compared to young people everywhere, are amusement crazy or that our college is a dancing academy. The system of frequent but short social evenings and occasional formal dances does not allow of any excess of time being spent on the dancing floor. And, as Principal Taylor said last spring in his report to the trustees, "social activity cannot be condemned while a college remains sound academically."

"THE DEVIL" AT THE GRAND

A Splendid Play Presented By the Rex Stock Company.

The verdict of the crowded house which greeted the Rex Stock Company when it presented "The Devil" at the Grand Opera House, on Thursday evening was that it was one of the best plays which has been put on by that company since coming to Kingston five months ago. "The Devil" is one of Francis Molnar's plays and it was only by special arrangement with the author that Mr. Snelgrove was able to offer this production. The play is exceptionally well staged and the scenery was very fine. The electrical effects are worthy of special notice. A good lesson which might be learned from this play is that it always pays to be true to one's better selves and not yield to temptation no matter how attractive it might appear on the surface. The play demonstrates the power that the evil forces, as represented by the devil, have in breaking up what might be many happy homes.

Rex Snelgrove, who filled the role of the devil acted the part in a very creditable manner. Zana Vaughn played the part of the banker's wife, who was in love with the artist and who yielded to the love of her artist lover, William Seymour. William Yule, as the artist's servant did his part to perfection. The Park Kiddies delighted the audience between the first and second acts with a couple of real good song hits.

IN THE HALLS OF QUEEN'S.

New Election System by the Alma Mater Society.

A new form of student government to take the form of a parliament will be proposed by the committee appointed to consider the question of a new election system for the alma mater society. The suggested scheme is to have an assembly with representation from each faculty and officers to act as cabinet ministers to be also elected. The scheme will come before the A. M. S. at its meeting Saturday evening and as it is such a great change from the present system that it will likely arouse considerable discussion.

At a meeting of the Queen's branch of the Institute of Chemistry held on Thursday afternoon, the speaker was Dr. L. F. Goodwin on the subject "Chemistry and the War."

The Q.U.M.A. was addressed at its meeting on Thursday afternoon by Dr. W. G. Jordan, who is always popular with the students.

The arts and science students are receiving the results of the examinations which they wrote recently.

In a practice game of hockey played Thursday afternoon between year teams representing arts and medicine 24 the latter won by a score of 2-1. These teams were last year the strongest in their faculties.

No woman wants her husband to admire her so much that he will be content to see only her charms even though she is wearing last year's clothes.

PARIS BAFFLING MYSTERY SOLVED BY THE POLICE

Scion of French Nobility Arrested—His Pastime Was Burglarizing Houses.

Paris, Jan. 20.—With the arrest of a well-dressed, monocled young man in the act of leaving an apartment with a suitcase full of silver, which he had just stolen, the police have found themselves the captors of a veritable Arsene Lupin, who during the last year has committed a series of baffling robberies, including that of the home of General Edward Kirkpatrick, an American Civil War officer.

The solution of this series of criminal mysteries, however, has confronted the police with another psychological character. The thief, Sergio de Lenz, is the son of a distinguished and well-to-do family of noble origin, and is the recipient of a monthly allowance which permits him to live in luxurious style. Moreover, he is interested in an automobile concern, which provides an additional income. A handsome and debonaire young man, he has had an excellent social standing. His life has apparently been a joyous open book.

After the arrest, however, de Lenz freely confessed those of his robberies which he could remember offhand. Among the homes he had robbed are those of the Viscountess de Barbot, the Viscountess de Perthus, the Count de Chevigne, the Marquis de Coix, the Countess de Saint Alary and General Kirkpatrick, sometimes known as Baron Kirkpatrick because of his relation through his mother to the French nobility.

In all these robberies the young man showed himself a connoisseur in his selection of valuable paintings, books, lace, and art objects. The insignificant prices at which he disposed of his spoils tend to show that gain was not his motive. The members of de Lenz's family, with whom he lives at Neuilly, were unable to credit the news of his arrest and furnished the police with what they believed to be a full account of his habits and interests. The police say that he was arrested for burglary before the war, but escaped punishment through the amnesty law.
