"Boob McNutt."

An attraction that leads them all in the way of uninterrupted mirth and melody is announced to appear at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday, January 31st, matinee and night. This new musical novelty is called "Boob McNutt" and is from the prolific pen of Rube Goldberg, the great American humorist. From all accounts it is the final word in genuine laughter and is said to be replete with wholesome comedy, infectious music, pretty girls, stunning costumes and catchy song hits. This sparkling musical play is based on the cartoons of the same name now occupying the comic pages of the daily newspapers throughout the country. A splendid cast of Broadway comedians, singers and dancers will be seen in the leading roles. One of the many features of the performance is a winsome chorus of young misses who are described by the management as "The Perfect 36 Girls." Twenty tuneful musical numbers have been furnished by John Mulgrew and Charles Smith.—Advt.

"The Great Broxopp."

The Grand Opera House will have "The Great Broxopp" to offer to its patrons on Wednesday, Feb. 1st. "The Great Broxopp" is by A. A. Milne, author of "Mr. Pim Passes By," "The Dover Road" company. The comedy moves in from the Punch and Judy Theatre, New York, where it has been running under the management of Iden Payne and Lavrak. The former is playing the leading role. He also directed the production, and is one of its organizers. He is best known in this country as director for the Frohman enterprises, "Dear Brutus" and "Mary Rose" being two recent attractions put on by him.

As with the other Milne comedies the locality of "The Great Broxopp" is that of England, it being in a prologue and three acts, with a story dealing principally with the central character, an Englishman, "in trade," with a penchant for eccentric advertising and a perpetual love for his wife. All goes merrily in the family of James Broxopp—the great "Man From Lost River." A powerful photodrama of conflicting love interests, with its locale a Northwestern lumber camp, is promised, when the latest production, "The Man From Lost River," is shown at the Allen Theatre, for three days, beginning Monday. The story is the first original photoplay written by Katharine Newlin Burt, whose two previous pictures, "The Branding Iron" and "Snowblind," have been made into stirring motion pictures by Goldwyn.

"The Man From Lost River" pictures the trials of a powerful, patient lumber camp foreman in standing by the girl he loves while a weak nephew of a millionaire marries her, neglects her and eventually proves his utter unworthiness. An act of providence strips all the characters in the play to their fundamental fitness or baseness, at the same time that wickedness receives its just reward.

House Peters gives an exceptionally fine performance of the strong lumber camp foreman. Fritz Brunette is the girl who cannot see where her true love lives, and Allan Forest is a polished, cultivated weakling.—Advt.

George Melford, whose special Paramount production have a world wide reputation, is responsible for the superb production of "The Great Impersonation," the E. Phillips Oppenheim story featuring James Kirkwood which will be shown at the Strand Theatre next week for three days, beginning Monday.

Mr. Oppenheim writes for a big public—probably one of the largest claimed by any English or American author. "The Great Impersonation" is one of his latest tales of mystery, love and intrigue, and it has already gone through several editions.

James Kirkwood, the appearing player, has a dual role, appearing both as an Englishman and a German. In the leading female role is Ann Forest, while Alan Hale, remembered for his fine work in the stage play, "Friendly Enemies," is seen in the chief heavy part. The deceased Emperor Wilhelm, is portrayed by Lawrence Grant. Others in the cast are Fontaine La Rue, Bertrand Johns, Winter Hall and Truly Shattuck.—Advt.

"Wally" was formerly a member of the Frontenac Juniors in their "palm" days, and the fans in this city are not surprised at his success in such fast company.

With an Eye to Economy

Many people are being forced to exercise the most rigid economy, and demand the highest possible amount of protection at lowest net cost.

The Sun Life has devised a new Jubilee contract (non-participating), which represents the most efficient low-cost form of protection yet offered to the public.

The Sun Life Jubilee Policies not only give immediate protection, but are specially designed for the man who is unable at the moment to determine the exact type of contract that will ultimately prove to be best suited to his needs. Under their provisions the policy-holder is enabled, five years after assuming, to adjust his protection in the light of his possibly changed circumstances.
