"BECAUSE SHE LOVED HIM SO."

What Rex Himself Thinks of this Play Coming.

The following letter was received from Rex this morning. It explains the quality of the play coming the last three days of this week and Rex's own opinion of it:

Peterboro, Ont., Feb. 6, 1922.
D. P. Branigan,
Mgr. Grand Opera House,
Kingston, Ont.

Dear Dennis,
I want you, as a favor to me, to witness our opening performance of this week's play, "Because She Loved Him So," from the rise of the first curtain to the fall of the last.

Knowing well how you enjoy a really delightful comedy, one of those clean, wholesome, very human comedies, I don't want you to miss a line of it, because, between ourselves, I think "Because She Loved Him So" one of our best, if not our best effort.

Faithfully yours,
—REX.

EXCELLENT SERVICE.

Rendered at All Hours of the Day by This Stand.

Many people in town who are using taxicabs frequently have been remarking the excellent service rendered to patrons by the Dominion Taxi Service. "When I am doing night travelling," says one man, "I just ring up 116 and when sleep until it is time to go, for I have found that a call to the Dominion stand always puts me safe on my train on time with a minimum of trouble to myself." This voices the opinion of many satisfied patrons of the stand.

Only the largest and latest closed and touring models of motor cars are used by the members of the Dominion Taxi service and their reputation for efficiency and courtesy is daily growing.

ESOP'S FILM Fables

THE DOG AND THE FLEA

A dog was bothered by a flea who bit him very frequent-ly. Frantic, the dog jumped in a lake. The flea said, "Oh, for mercy's sake, Don't drown me; it was all a joke!" "Mebbee it was," the canine spoke, "But even granting it was such!" "Your bites annoyed me just as much!" "So-drown!"—The morals' clear enough.
—Don't go too far with comic stuff.
