IWO ADDRESSES GIVEN

By Dr. D. E. Mundell and Sir Edmund Walker Wednesday Afternoon.

On the occasion of the usual Wednesday afternoon lecture to the cadets of the Royal Military College, Dr. D. E. Mundell gave an interest- Collin's Bay, the farmers' auctioning history of the accomplishments of medical science in the last 4,000 years; and the college also had as a visitor yesterday, Sir Edmund Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The latter was a guest at the historic institution during the day, and gave a short address to the cadets after Dr. Mundell had concluded. The soldier-surgeon, in opening his address, remarked that the first fairly historical record of the medical profession was supposed to have been written about the year 2,000 B.C., and consisted of an encyclopaedia of 42 volumes. origin of medicine, synchronizes with the origin of civilization itself."

The speaker referred to the work of Hippocrates, commonly known as the pioneer in medicine, and stated that even now, his description of during the night and at eight o'clock many diseases may be clearly recog. Thursday morning it was two above. He pointed out that in the Mundell mentioned the discoveries with it. of Mr. Wells, the American dentist, The 19th century also brought a ations for a real birthday party. knowledge of germs; such men as to an investigation of the subject. sale. The conclusion they reached, that germs actually came from the atmosphere, opened up one of the greatest fields of treatment in the medical profession. This discovery led to a much smaller percentage of fatalities following operations, as the sterilization of instruments and disinfectant methods adopted served to destroy the microbe organisms.

Dr. Mundell stated that he considered that the 20th century would be prominent as era of preventative medicine and that the aim of the profession would be directed towards this end. He also pointed out the improvements adopted in combatting such diseases as typhoid, diptheria, etc. The speaker brought to notice of the cadets, the several Canadian universities which have medical faculties and paid special tribute to Queen's, "There are a number of colleges in Canada," remarked the doctor, "which confer degrees in medicine, such as Toronto University, Queen's and McGill. The classes at Queen's are limited to fifty students and under the new regulations the course consists of six sessions. If any cadet is thinking of following the medical profession, may I suggest that you do not look forward to it as a life of ease, as it is a life of hardship. My strong advice to you is to take up the work in small classes, such as prevail at Queen's, where a personal touch can be given in the instruction, and individual attention paid to each stu-

He congratulated the cadets on their work at the college and the great privilege which was their's to be in attendance.

Continuing, Sir Edmund "The spirit of the R.M.C. made the discipline and dash of the Canadian Corps, without a doubt, and you are now an integral part of an institution which laid the foundation of all that made Canada famous in the late war. As head of an institution (Canadian Bank of Commerce) which employs hundreds of young men, may I say that nothing is s much needed as obedience to superfor authority, and a sense of what discipline means. You cadets of the R.M.C. understand that discipline means manliness, and you have a knowledge of what your country has a right to expect from you in time of war. Canada is one of the greatest sections of the British Empire and I feel there is quite as much to be done for our country in the future, as Canadians have been privileged to do in the past. It is always a privilege for me to see young Canadians at an educational institution, and to have some vision of what the Canada of the future will be."

A Military Funeral. A military funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon for D. V. Davidson, a returned soldier, who lied in Sydenham hospital on Monay. The arrangements were made gun carriage, a firing party from the Royal Garrison Artiflery, and the R.C.H.A. band. The services were conducted by Capt. the Rev. W. B.

FEW CASES TYPHOID IN THE PENITENTIARY

Authorities Say It Is of a Mild Type-There Is No Epidemic.

There was a report on Wednesday afternoon to the effect that typhoid fever had broken out among the convicts at the Portsmouth penitentiary. Questioned by the Whig prison authorities admitted that there were a few cases of typhoid in the prison, but that they were of a mild type, and that there was no epidemic.

Since the first of January several ases of typhoid have developed. When questioned, Dr. W. G. Anglin, surgeon at the penitentiary, stated that there was no epidemic of the disease. The cases of illness were so mild that for some time it was not determined to be typhoid. It is a mystery how typhoid developed, he said. The water used for drinking purposes is drawn from a well one hundred feet deep and it is absolutely pure. The water pumped from the lake, however, is the water system of the institution, is not pure and never has been. The authorit ies have depended upon warnings to the inmates not to drink this water. The penitentiary has its own sewage disposal plant filter beds being used after the treatment of the sewage in tanks where the solids were precipitated and afterwards removed and drawn to the farm for fertilizer. It is not stated where the patients were employed.
