OBITUARY

Meeting a Church Problem. The problem of the older "teen" boys was discussed at the Sunday morning service in Chalmers church. Rev. Dr. Wilson referred to it during his sermon, and called upon Prof. John Matheson, acting superintendent of the Sunday School, to lay it before the congregation. Dr. Wilson asked for twenty persons who were interested to signify their willingness to meet with himself and Prof. Matheson and endeavor to find a solution.

AT THE STANDARD CHURCH. A District Convention is Being Held There This Week. A special convention of the Standard Church, with delegates from the surrounding district, was opened at the Sunday morning services of the church in this city. Three services will be held each day during the week until next Sunday, when the convention will be concluded. The object of the convention "is to get sinners converted, believers entirely sanctified, and for the anointing of the spirit on holy men and women."

Rev. G. L. Monahan, who is in charge of the week of special services, was unable to be present on Sunday, and Pastors A. Smith, Athens, and Mr. Tomlinson conducted the opening services. The speakers appealed to their congregation to live the true life of the believer in Jesus Christ, and told of the happiness which came to the sinner when he decided to become a convert of the church. A number of local laymen assisted in the service.

Canon Scott took away a "Crown and Anchor" board and gave the men a deck of cards to play poker. That is what made him one of the best-loved of the Canadian "padres." Read his story of the war, commencing in serial form in next Wednesday's Whig.

A Quartette That Has Won a Name in Highest Musical Circles.

For a string quartette to achieve fame is a much more difficult thing than for a violin virtuoso or for an orchestra, according to Adolpho Bettl, leader of the Flonzaley Quartette. The obstacles to be overcome, asserts Mr. Bettl, are none the less real for being more subtle and intangible.

"The reason successful quartettes are rarer than orchestras or soloists of the same celebrity," explains the Flonzaleys' distinguished first violin, "lies in the peculiar character of chamber-music. The quartette form is at once intricate and delicate, perhaps the most exacting of all in its demands. Not possessing the weight of tone and mass of color always at the command of the orchestra, the quartette is also without certain advantages which the solo performer enjoys. I think it is far more difficult for four artists to work together in perfect unison and accord and sympathy than for a hundred musicians under a gifted conductor; while the individual virtuoso is free to travel his own chosen path without hindrance or need to consider anyone but himself. The tax upon self-sacrifice, which the soloist escapes completely, and which the orchestra player, being simply a unit, does not feel, falls with force upon the members of a stringed quartette. The quartette member must be an artist of concert platform power, and willing at the same time to shackle his individuality to the demands of the ensemble. The combination is naturally not easy to find. In the case of the Flonzaley quartette, my colleagues and I work together in such perfect sympathy and understanding, that we sometimes feel that our personalities are actually blended."

The Flonzaleys' perfection of ensemble and interpretation has always awakened enthusiasm. Only years of study and unhesitating self-sacrifice could bring about the results so noticeable in their playing. A characteristic tribute was that recently bestowed by Pitt Sanborn, of New York, who declared that the Flonzaleys give to one's fleshy ears music as one might hear it with the ears of the mind and the imagination.

The Quartette will appear in Grant Hall on Thursday. In order to enable as many school children as possible to hear this wonderful organization students of the Collegiate Institute will be admitted for 25c, and younger children, accompanied by their parents, at 25c each for the family.

CAMPBELL BROS.

Kingston's Oldest Fur Store

The "help the other fellow" principle, which is the basis of Kiwanis thought and action, seems to be getting a stronger grip in Kingston. The closing days of 1921 saw the Kingston Kiwanians crowding their first year as a club by canvassing the city for the Kiwanis Unemployment Relief Fund, an effort which resulted in the raising of over seven thousand dollars. Now local Kiwanians are enthusiastically preparing for the second annual Kiwanis charity ball, which takes place on Wednesday. Both the Memorial and Ontario Halls have been requisitioned for this event, dancing to be enjoyed in the former and cards in the latter. Last year, it will be remembered, the first Kiwanis charity ball realized three hundred and fifty dollars, which was used to purchase a water-heating apparatus for the General Hospital. This year the net proceeds will be given to the regular Kiwanis charity fund. Gentlemen's tickets, two dollars; ladies', one dollar, may be obtained at Sargent's Drug Store, George Van Horn's, McCall's Cigar Store, or from W. Kent Macnee, Board of Trade.

Addressed Y.M.C.A. Class. Dr. G. H. Ettinger was the speaker at the meeting on Sunday morning of the boys' bible class at the Y. M. C. A. His subject was "The Quest of the Best," being some sound advice as to the care of the body, and a sketch of many of the advantages enjoyed by those who have a healthy system. An interesting comparison was made between the telegraph, electric car, etc., all of which, remarked the speaker, had been copied from the wondrous human system.
