ADDRESS ON "QUACKERY" INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

By Dr. L. J. Austin Before the Royal Military College Cadets.

The speaker at the Royal Military College on Wednesday afternoon was Dr. L. J. Austin of Queen's, who chose as his subject "Quackery." In opening his address he briefly reviewed the history of medical science from the days of the Greek physicians and pointed out that the history of quackery was synonymous with that of medicine. When the Roman Empire fell, all learning in the science went to Constantinople. Europe then settled down to the Dark Ages and medical science disappeared from the Continent almost entirely. Later, it was through Italy that it was returned to Europe.

"It does not matter," continued Dr. Austin, "to what particular point of medicine you refer; it has always attached a secret remedy, or what is commonly known as a patent medicine. Running all through the ages and indeed to the present time the patent medicine has attracted the public. For centuries in the East there has been a patent medicine known as "HEIRA" and you will find that remedy today in the bazaars at Damascus and throughout the cities of the East. This medicine is nothing more than aloes."

The speaker then referred to an ancient patent cure-all known as Venice treacle, which contained about 400 drugs of various sorts all mixed together, and also discussed the classes of stores to which the superstitious attach a curative power and which at one time had a ready sale, such as the BEZOAR stones, Toadstones, etc.

To the virgin Queen of England belongs the responsibility of having first legalized the sale of patent medicines. Poor Elizabeth was always "hard-up" and she hit upon the lucrative scheme of obtaining revenue from a tax on each bottle of patent medicine or stone sold.

Coming to the present time, Dr. Austin asked how it was possible that, when all the skill of the medical practitioner, all serum work and all tests had failed, the patient could decide the nature of the sickness and select a suitable cure out of a newspaper.

"The hope of long life, the fear of death and the dread of pain are the reasons why these remedies have such an enormous power. The amount of money spent in the United States in a recent year in advertising secret remedies was forty million dollars, and you may rest assured," added Dr. Austin, "that money would not have been spent unless the patent medicine vendors would get it back with from 200 per cent to 300 per cent interest."

"All must be familiar with the advertisements. There are certain patent medicines which do as they say, as for instance some preparations extensively advertised as containing no potassium, bromide, Novamine or sodium bromide or a drug of that family and the caption is simply camouflage readily believed by the public."

The speaker then referred to the patent medicines advertised to "guard against appendicitis." "If I could tell you why we get that malady," he said, "I would be known throughout all time as the physician who discovered the cause of appendicitis, but, if the cause is still unknown, how can it be guarded against," he enquired.

"Another advertisement reads that 90 per cent. of the medical profession are agreed that constipation is the cause of all diseases, and the public swallow this statement just as fast as they swallow the remedies."

Continuing Dr. Austin, pointed out that there were three types of secret remedies which were immensely harmful and he wished to warn the gentlemen cadets of their danger. These he named as headache remedies, V. D. G. remedies and cancer cure medicines. He described cancer as practically an incurable disease, only a very few cases presenting themselves where rays which would help were found.

Dr. Austin loudly applauded for his most interesting lecture, the next speaker is to be J. M. Campbell who will give an address on "The Deep Waterways Scheme." It is believed Mr. Campbell intends to prepare individual maps for each cadet so that each detail can be closely followed. As the R. M. C. cadets come from all over Canada, there is no doubt that the deep waterways scheme will be heard of in every Province and its benefits to the country explained by the cadets to their friends at home.

THE CARPETER.

George Muller Ready to Perform That Service For Kingston.

There are muleteers, musketeers, gondoliers, and on the sport page, basketballers, but few have heard before of a carpeter. A carpeter is a man who cleans, lifts, relays, plans out, and generally looks after carpets, and such is the new branch of work which has been started by George Muller, the well-known bicycle and repair man on King street, east of Princess street.

Mr. Muller has secured the largest type of vacuum cleaner manufactured by the Hoover Company and can transport it to any part of the city to do thorough cleaning, in two or three weeks many people will wish carpets cleaned or moved and a phone call to 1032w or a card or personal visit to 371 King east will do the trick.

The boxer's fist and the singer's lips must be in constant training.

Newman & Shaw

"The Always Busy Store"

Play Well Presented. "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse," was presented at the Grand Opera House by The Acme Play Co. on Wednesday evening and it was highly creditable to the performers. Special reference should be made of the splendid acting of Jean McAlpin as Mrs. Saunders, Isabel McMinn, the daughter-in-law, Irene Harper and Ann Browning. James P. Houston in the character of Judge Joshua Billings was perfect, while Burton Mallory as Eban Halt, Jack Harvey as James Watson and Fred E. Strong, the officer, were central figures who were all well chosen. The scenery and costumes left nothing to be desired. The audience was gripped by the fine emotional acting of Jean McAlpin and Burton Mallory which this gave to this famous New England play the touch of pathos that is its chief merit.

At Oso Station. Oso Station, March 1.—Ernest Dart Kingston, is visiting at William Conboy's. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Warren and son James and Oscar Chambers and Miss Mildred Butler and J. Bourk spent Sunday at W. Kimberley's, Sharbot Lake. A number from here were sorry to hear of the death of Edward Noble, Kingston. Josie Warren and George Butler spent Sunday at George J. McPherson's. Mr. and Mrs. John F. Bourk and family spent Friday evening at Joseph Warren's. Joseph W. Bourk attended the funeral of E. Noble, of Kingston. Ernest Dart and Laura, Ethel, Arthur Conboy spent Sunday evening at Joseph Warren's.

Was a Splendid Show. Verona, Feb. 28.—Bert W. A. Johnston's big magic and fun show arrived in town today and appeared in the Grant hall to a big house. To say the audience was pleased is putting it mildly. The show is first-class in every respect. Mural the woman who knows, is truly wonderful, her mind reading being superior to anything ever seen in this vicinity. Bert Johnston and his big mystery surely puzzled the audience and made a big hit with his super-for magic. Salvia, the card king, is a master manipulator of the cards and gives one of the best and most mystifying acts ever seen here.

We never knew a man to marry a woman to reform her.
