> Gay Hats For Girls. Here are a few hints for the young girl who wants to start something original this spring. We'll begin with hats. When purchasing your spring hat, see if you can't find something with a bit of of color, something that will match those lovely blue eyes of yours or the pink in your cheeks! Try flowers! Who better can wear spring's lovely flowers than the young girl? A poke effect of leghorn faced in black with a garland of your favorite posies about the crown with a blue bow drooping at one side gives a youthful effect. Red straw with the front brim upturned and inerusted with red currants lends a striking combination when used with a touch of velvet ribbon. What can be more charming than a soft blue hat, with a rather wide brim faced in the palest of lavender and trimmed with sweet-faced little pansies of blue and lavender tones?

Try ribbons! Tiny silver edged ribbon in varificolors shirred in round pinwheel design on an off-the-face brim with a cluster of ribbon ends falling at one side will be youthful and flattering the young miss. The pink hat trimmed in black ribbon moment, should be becoming on dark bobbed head. Some of the dress hats of horsehair braids are trimmed only with a band of ribbon about the crown. Who could attempt this but young girl in her teens or one who still wishes to be considered in her teens?

When a train of thought tries to pass through some men's brains it is dways ditched.
