The Ford Sedan

If you want to know the comfort of the cosy Ford Sedan, That can give you all the pleasure that the bigger fellows can, Just telephone a Dealer with the universal sign, And he'll make a demonstration if it's snowing, rain or fine.

As you sink back in the cushions you will notice with a smile That it has the splendid finish and it has the splendid style Of the most expensive models that you see upon the street And it's every bit as handy and it's every bit as neat.

When the demonstrator starts it with the starter at his heel And you hear the motor singing with a song that's always real, And you settle in the cushions just as soft as eiderdown You will know you're in the coziest, finest car in any town.

When you notice all the power it has and how it climbs the hills— It has lots of pep and action if it hasn't any frills— Then you notice that it's raining, and it's blowing half a gale But you never need to worry if it even turns to hail.

You are dry and warm and cosy just as if you were at home And you laugh and make a promise, "No more rain shall hit my dome, "When I ride out in the morning or I ride out in the night, It's a Ford Sedan I'll ride in—for I know the price is right."

And the wife can always use it and the children always ride For it's always warm and cosy, like a furry nest inside. They can use it for their shopping, they can use it for their fun, They can use it any weather, rain or snow or summer sun.

Oh! the Ford Sedan's a beauty, there is not the slightest doubt, It's the finest little closed car that was ever runabout. When you're touring in the summer, or on business in the fall, It's that splendid Ford Sedan of yours that always beats them all.

Queen's Intermediates Win Championship

A Toronto despatch says: Queen's Intermediates won the second hockey title of the season for the Kingston university, when they annexed the championship of their series of the Intercollegiate yesterday afternoon by defeating St. Michael's college by 3 to 0.

The tricolor won at Kingston by 10 to 6, and yesterday's score makes the total on the round 13 to 6. On the play the winners deserved the victory. There was considerable rough stuff, and Referee Mike Rodden kept the penalty time-keeper busy during the latter part of the game.

The winners had more speed than the locals, and while their game could be classed as a defensive one, they made enough attacks to keep St. Mike's defence busy. For the winners Reynolds and Carroll were best, although Boucher played well when he was on the ice.

Queen's University hockey teams have won the junior and intermediate leagues for two years in succession. The Junior Intercollegiate rugby league honors were also won last fall, which means three championships in one year.

TO OPERATE IN KINGSTON.

A New Salvaging Business Formed For Automobiles.

The Lansdowne Securities Corporation, investment brokers of Kingston and Toronto, has issued a prospectus for $30,000 for preferred shares at par in the George A. Palmer's Used Car and Salvage Company, Limited, of Kingston, Ont., of which the head office is on the corner of Queen and Bagot streets in the same city.

The authorized capital of the new company is $50,000, of which $30,000 is divided into 300 preferred shares at par and 400 shares of common stock at fifty dollars per share. The men behind the proposition, promoting it and putting up the preliminary capital are all well-known citizens of Kingston and their names appearing on the prospectus are: George A. Palmer, president; dealer; Thomas H. Sargent, president; Arthur E. Ryerson, broker; Robert H. Watchorn; Earl L. Martin; all of this city. The officers named are: George A. Palmer, president and general manager; Thomas H. Sargent, vice-president; Earl L. Martin, secretary.

The Whig secured an interview with Mr. Palmer this morning and he informed the representative that the company would continue to sell and handle cars, on a somewhat larger scale than formerly, but its attention is devoted to the salvage business.

There is no other company between Toronto and Montreal giving its entire time to the salvage and used car business, and the new project should be successful to a great degree, especially since it has a running start by reason of Mr. Palmer's four years' experience in the used car market of this district already.

Many citizens are expressing great interest in the new concern and it is not likely that the limited issue of stock will be on the market for a very long time.

PASTOR DENOUNCES HIS CONGREGATION

Rev. W. S. Webb Resigns Galt Baptist Charge "Among False Brethren."

Galt, March 4.—At a meeting of the congregation of First Baptist church the resignation of the pastor, Rev. W. S. Webb, was unanimously accepted, and will take effect within three months from last Sunday.

In his letter of resignation Mr. Webb intimated that his relations with the congregation could not endure long. He gave as his chief reason for his decision "the tragic lack of co-operation with which my efforts have been met."

He referred to opposition to his efforts to have slight alterations made in the choir stalls, and to the fact that his request for financial help to make publicity possible in connection with a special series of sermons was met but half-heartedly. He also complained of not receiving the support he should have during an evangelistic campaign.

Mr. Webb charged that he had been brought here from Whitman, Mass., last May under false pretences, having been told that a parsonage would be built. He had also been refused a telephone in the house. Instead of co-operation it had been a case of "perils among false brethren."

Since the first war year, March has always inaugurated the acutest food shortage period. The present month is no exception. Potatoes have already begun to give out. Bread prices will be increased 60 per cent, in the near future and hunger, unrest and suffering are developing among the masses.

A new high cost of living wave is beginning to engulf Germany. Breadstuffs have almost reached the level of world market prices. Wheat is 6,000 and rye 5,500 per cent higher than before the war.

An increased basic coal price is shortly to become effective, together with increased freight rates, and an increased cost tax will make coal 6,500 per cent higher than it was when the war started.

Bread and coal are the principal pace makers in Germany's rapidly increasing cost of living. But the rise will continue all along the line and is certain to entail far-reaching economic, social and political consequences.

Prices of pig iron and steel have just been boosted. Berliners learned today that on April 1st they will have to begin to pay three marks for a street car ride—a 3,000 per cent increase over the pre-war rate. About the same time gas water and electricity rates will be raised another 10 to 15 per cent.

The rapidity of the living costs increase is gaugable from the index figures for wholesale prices, which in January was 3,596 and soared to 4,309 in February, 100 having been the basic index figure for 1913. The dollar is popularly blamed for this paper mark cost of living increase.

THE DELEGATES RETURN

From Big Toronto Liberal Convention and Are Greatly Pleased.

The Kingston delegates to the Ontario Liberal Convention have returned to the city and are greatly pleased over the result. The election of a provincial leader was the chief business and the selection of F. Wellington Hay was a cause for general satisfaction.

The spirit of the convention was optimistic and the immediate outlook for Liberalism is regarded as most favorable, indeed there is good ground for the conviction that at the coming elections the Liberal party will sweep the province. Discussing this, one delegate said:

"The Drury U.F.O.-Labor combination has done its best, but it could not have done much worse. It has almost bankrupted the province in a period of three years and has been utterly unable to put into practice the ideas of economy they were pledged to. There has been a riot of expenditure and the highway and road policy has raised a universal complaint that the government can do nothing to relieve it. It must either force the municipalities to pay the assessments direct or pay it out of the revenue of the government. Either way makes little difference, for the money has got to be raised. The people are looking for a change from inefficiency to efficiency, and the record of past Liberal administration was a splendid one."

The delegates all came away feeling benefited and carrying back with them confidence in the party and its new leader.

The annual meeting of the Kingston Liberal Association takes place this month and there will be several speakers who will deal with organization, etc.

MARCH IS THE CRITICAL MONTH IN GERMANY

It Has Heralded Revolutions Since the End of the Great War.

Berlin, March 4.—If Germany runs true to form, this March should see the commencement of the annual spring revolution season. It has almost become a fixed tradition that machine guns must pop and blood flow round Germany in March.

March, 1919, saw the second Spartacist troubles in Berlin and red rule in Munich. In 1919 there was the Kapp counter revolution and red outbreak in the Ruhr. Last year it was the red uprising in Hamburg and central Germany. Therefore natives today are undeniably nervous, being convinced that March this year will live up to its bad reputation. Alarmist rumors are prevalent. These have not so far found their way into the press, though they are widespread among the public, so that the government has been forced to issue the quieting statement that no revolution is in sight. Insiders, however, know that the security police have orders to exercise increased vigilance every night this month.

Since the first war year, March has always inaugurated the acutest food shortage period. The present month is no exception. Potatoes have already begun to give out. Bread prices will be increased 60 per cent, in the near future and hunger, unrest and suffering are developing among the masses.
