CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH FOR THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

It is Considered That This Edifice Would Be the Best Place.

An effort is being put forth to secure the First Congregational church building for a public library. This building is for sale, and it is considered that a better place for a library could not be secured. It is understood that a proposal has been made to the executors of the George Y. Chown estate that they should permit the sale of the building at the corner of Bagot and Brock streets, offered as a public library, and arrange that the proceeds should go towards the purchase of the Congregational building, part of which is already being used by the public library board. The balance of the cost could be met by the city. It is desired that the library should be known as the George Y. Chown memorial library. The hope is expressed by many interested that this scheme will go through.

J. M. CAMPBELL SPEAKS TO CADETS OF R.M.C.

"Deep Waterways Scheme" Was His Subject on Wednesday Afternoon.

The weekly lecture on commercial subjects at the Royal Military College was held on Wednesday afternoon when J. M. Campbell spoke on "The Deep Waterways Scheme," and outlined in detail the proposals being considered by the International Joint Commission. The speaker had provided maps for each of the gentlemen cadets who followed the address with great interest.

In introducing Mr. Campbell, the commandant said that it was always a great privilege to hear anyone speak who was an acknowledged authority on any given thing. Mr. Campbell was acknowledged all over Ontario to be the expert on the deep waterways project, an enterprise which should be of interest to all Canadians, whether we believe in it or not.

The speaker opened his address with a brief resume of the organization of the International Joint Commission, composed of three Canadians and three Americans. The commission appointed consulting engineers to thoroughly investigate the proposed deep waterways system and to report on the advisability of adopting the matter from an engineering and from a commercial standpoint. The reports of the engineers were favorable, and notwithstanding opposition from New York, Montreal and Quebec, whose shipping might be affected should the plans materialize, the commission recommended it for the favorable consideration of the Governments concerned.

Mr. Campbell pointed out that according to the present plans, the deep waterway system would be constructed to the south of Kingston, passing Cape Vincent, but that could be overcome by the dredging of the flats at Wolfe Island, thus making Kingston harbor a possibility for the big ships.

He then discussed in detail the chief points which make the proposal so attractive from a commercial standpoint as to justify their very serious consideration, and outlined how the several dams and power stations would be constructed.

An interesting statement was that the village of Iroquois, being below the level of Lake Ontario, would be practically under water, and to counteract this, it was proposed to put a dam around it and make it a sort of Kuyder Ze. Similar action would also be necessary at Morrisburg, which is also situated on low ground. The total cost of the whole project, for navigation, including the development of power at Long Sault, would be $252,000,000 with an additional $18,000,000 for increase in depth of 30 feet.

The speaker strongly endorsed the statement of the premier of Quebec that Canada must be for Canadians, and that power produced in Canada must remain for the use of the Canadian people.

At the close of the address, Mr. Campbell was loudly applauded, and the commandant expressed to him the thanks of the gentlemen cadets for an interesting address. "This century," said Sir Archibald, "is Canada's century, and whilst it will not interest me very much, for I will soon be an angel, singing hymns, it is a fact which should be very deeply impressed on the minds of every gentleman cadet of the R.M.C. This century belongs to Canada and the progress which will be made by Canada will astonish the entire world. The deep waterways project is one of the great enterprises which will materially benefit the Dominion, and I urge every cadet to study the matter closely."

The speaker next week will be T. J. Rigney, K.C., who will take as his subject "The Legal Profession."

The Late Edward Whitty.

Edward Whitty passed away at the General Hospital on Wednesday after an illness of four weeks from blood poisoning, the result of an injury to his hand. The deceased was a farmer and resided at Harrowsmith. He was sixty-seven years of age and had retired from active farm work. He was brought to the hospital one week ago for treatment, and everything possible was done to combat the progress of the disease.

MONDAY, MARCH 13.

Date of the Re-appearance of "College Frolics of 1922."

In response to many requests of the people of Kingston, and for the benefit of those who were unable to obtain admission to the first performance of "The College Frolics of 1922," the Theatre Night committee has arranged a second performance to be held in the Grand on Monday, March 13th.

Based on the experience gained from the previous productions, the programme has been revised slightly and the committee promises an even better entertainment that that which delighted the large audience last week. Each and every act is sure to go bigger and better than ever and the citizens of Kingston are offered an opportunity of attending a first-class vaudeville performance, which plays continuously with no wait between acts.

Many of the acts are in themselves a whole show and the composite programme is a bill of such merit as is rarely seen outside of New York. Citizens of Kingston! This is your night. The Rotary and Kiwanis clubs have lent their patronage and the students hope to further cement the bond of good fellowship that exists between them and Queen's.

THROWN FROM SLEIGH

A Young Grocery Driver Suffers a Fractured Arm.

John Thompson, a young man employed by Caverly's grocery as a driver, is in the General Hospital with a fractured arm, as the result of a runaway accident on King street early Wednesday afternoon. The young driver was near the city park when his horse became frightened at a street car. In his endeavor to quiet the animal and at the same time to avoid an approaching auto, Thompson was thrown from the sleigh, when the horse made a sharp turn in an unexpected direction. Some passer-by caught the horse, and the boy was driven to the hospital, where he is now resting very nicely. No other injuries were suffered except a rather severe fracture to the right arm, and a bruised hand.

GET YOUR MARKERS OR PAY IN COURT

The Police Are After Autoists Not Fitted Out For 1922.

Owners of automobiles who not yet secured their markers for 1922, has better get busy, for the police are out with a big stick after all the guilty parties.

In the police court on Thursday morning ten autoists were before Magistrate Farrell and of this number but one case was dismissed, and this was due to the fact that the citizen had secured his marker but he had not placed it on his car. All the others were called upon to pay the costs of the court. Another batch of offenders have been summoned for Friday morning's session of the court.

DID SHE COME TO KINGSTON?

Prominent Kitchener Young Woman Has Been Absent a Week.

A young woman residing in Kitchener is missing, and the Kingston police have been asked to keep a look out for her in case she came this way. The missing young woman is Jean T. Moore, about thirty years of age, and has been missing from her home a week.

It is stated that Miss Moore left her home at 8 o'clock in the evening, and took nothing with her but the clothes she was wearing and her purse containing between $40 and $50. She also left an uncashed cheque on her dressing table, and this supported the relatives' belief that she would return.

Miss Moore is a popular Kitchener girl, moving in leading society circles. Her father was the late J. D. Moore, late register for the county of Waterloo.

The theory that the girl may have been picked up by an automobile and kidnapped is supported by some, while others seem to scout this idea. The case is one of the most baffling mysteries the Kitchener police have had in some time.
