"THE GREAT WAR AS I SAW IT."

By Canon F. G. Scott, C.M.G., D.S.O., of Quebec, Senior Chaplain of the First Canadian Division.

The Second Battle of Ypres was the making of what grew to be the Canadian Corps. Up to that time, Canadians were looked upon, and looked upon themselves, merely as troops that might be expected to hold the line and do useful spade work, but from then onward the men felt that they could rise to any emergency, and the army knew they could be depended upon. The pace they set was followed by the other divisions and, at the end, the Corps did not disappoint the expectations of General Foch. What higher praise could be desired?

My billet in Vlamertinghe was in a neat cottage owned by an old maid, who took great pride in making everything shine. The paymaster of one of our battalions and I had a cheerful home there when the poor old lady fled. Her home, however, did not long survive her absence, for, some days after she left, it was levelled by a shell. The church too was struck and ruined. Beside it is the military cemetery within which lie the mortal remains of many gallant men, amongst them the two Grenfells, one of whom got the V.C. There I buried poor Duffy and many more. The other chaplains laid to rest men under their care.

One picture always comes to my mind when I think of Vlamertinghe. In the road near the church was a Crucifix. The figure was life size and hung on a cross planted upon a rocky mound. One night when the sun had set and a great red glow burst along the horizon, I saw the large black cross silhouetted against the crimson sky, and before it knelt an aged woman with grey hair falling from beneath the kerchief that was tied about her head. It was dangerous at all times to stay at that place, yet she knelt there silently in prayer. She seemed to be the embodiment of the old life and quiet contented religious hope which must have been the spirit of Vlamertinghe in the past. The village was an absolute ruin a few days later, and even the Sisters had to flee from their convent. The Crucifix, however, stood for a long time after the place was destroyed, but I never passed by without thinking of the poor old woman who knelt at its foot in the evening light and laid her burden of cares upon the heart of Eternal Pity.

TO UNSEAT MAYOR OF SMITH'S FALLS

Quo Warranto Proceedings Taken on Alleged Implication in Contracts.

Smith's Falls, March 9.—Mayor W. H. Code was served with a writ in quo warranto proceedings having as their end his unseating and disqualification. Dr. W. S. Murphy, a member of the local Hydro Commission, is the petitioner.

Mayor Code is an ex-officio member of the Hydro Commission and the two are at odds as commissioners. It is held by Dr. Murphy that Mayor Code has profited in a pecuniary way from his position as mayor, in that a company of which he is said to be a member has had municipal contracts.

Mr. Code will defend the action. He challenges Dr. Murphy to resign from the Hydro Commission and run against him for the Mayoralty, offering to pay the expenses of an election if defeated.

Youngest Bootlegger Is Due For a Spanking

Davenport, Ia., March 9.—The world's youngest bootlegger has been found. He is Marion Abney, 5 years old.

Gladys Barry, six-year-old playmate of the Abney boy, came home under the influence of liquor. And just like the grown-ups she endeavored to protect the source of supply when confronted by her parents. She said she had secured the drinks at a jewelry shop. D. T. Jones, the proprietor of the shop, was arrested on information filed by the girl's father. In court, Marion Abney was the star witness, and his testimony cleared the jeweler.

"I gave Gladys two glasses of wine when mamma was away and she drank it all," testified the five-year-old lad.

A mission will be held in St. Mary Magdalene's church, Napanee, next week, conducted by Rev. R. H. A. Haslam.

According to report the Frost & Wood Co. will be represented in the town league this year by a strong baseball nine.

A rolling rumor gathers lots of listeners and repeaters.

WHEN NERVES ARE NEAR EXHAUSTION

A Tonic Should be Taken to Enrich the Blood.

When you become so exhausted after a day's work that you cannot sleep, or sleep fails to refresh you, it is time to look after your health. Failure to act at once means a steady drain on your health reserve, which can result in but one thing—a nervous breakdown.

Do not wait for a breakdown. The treatment is simple enough if you do not let your condition become too far advanced. The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring an effective tonic. As the nerves have to be nourished by the blood, the vital fluid must be built up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in nervous troubles.

Mrs. Mary McAdam, Sydney Mines, N.S., is one of the many who has proved this tonic treatment. She says: "Last winter my health completely gave out. I was all run down and my nervous system in a condition that greatly alarmed me. I often had nervous headaches, and at times severe pains in the region of my heart. I felt as though I would never be well again. My husband got me a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and before the second box was finished I began to improve, and under a further use of the pills I felt as well as ever. I would advise all weak and nervous women to give this medicine a trial."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MARGOT A FIBBER.

Lord Lee Defends the Women of the United States.

London, March 9.—Lord Lee, of Fareham, First Lord of the Admiralty, addressing the English-Speaking Union at its luncheon welcoming him home from the Washington Conference, said he had not planned to mention prohibition in the United States or the British coalition. In view, however, of the reported utterances of one of his famous countrywomen in New York, to the effect that drunkenness was prevalent among both sexes in the United States, he desired to state, he said, that, after thirty years of observation in America, including the prohibition era, the English woman's statement was "as ludicrous as it was true and untrue."

Lord Lee's reference was to Mrs. Margot Asquith's comments on returning to New York the other day from her western tour.

Helping Union Along.

Cobourg, March 9.—The Presbyterian and Methodist churches at Millbrook are helping union along by deciding to hold special union evangelistic services. They will begin next Sunday, March 12th. Rev. Mr. Wood and Mr. Hamilton of Toronto will assist the local pastors, the former being the special speaker, while Mr. Hamilton will have charge of the singing.

Little Unemployment Here.

Campbellford, March 9.—Campbellford's enviable condition of employment was reflected in the report by the special relief committee, composed by Councillors Metkettlejohn and Cole, showing disbursements of charity amounting to only $13.28.
