Miss Annie Walsh, Cobourg, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Lambert, Clergy street.

Miss Rhea Rice, Detroit, is visiting her friend, Mrs. F. R. Maybee, 9 St. Lawrence avenue.

Mrs. T. D. R. Hemming, who has been in Toronto with Major and Mrs. G. S. Bowerbank, returned to town on Monday.

Major and Mrs. Ernest Harris, William street, who were in Montreal for the Badminton meet, have returned to town. Major Harris, who played with the Quebec team, was most successful.

Miss Florence Colson, Toronto, who has been in town for several months, returned to her home today. Miss Alice Saunders, Smith's Falls, spent the week-end at the Y.M.C.A., Johnson street.

Mrs. T. H. Renton, King street, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Connolly, Yarker.

John McKelvey and his daughter, Mrs. Henry Wilkinson, who have spent the winter in California will return to town on Saturday.

Mrs. William J. McCrudden, Sillsville, has returned home after visiting her sister, Mrs. Fred Harper, Kingston.

Miss Alma Wood, Smith's Falls, spent the week-end at a house party in Kingston.

Mrs. W. H. Milap and two little sons, Napanee, spent the week-end in Kingston.

Miss Rubie Bowen, Napanee, returned home on Saturday from Kingston, where she has been spending a month visiting friends. She was accompanied by Mrs. Ronald Wallace and her little daughter, Elsie, Kingston, who is spending a week the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bowen.

Mrs. W. L. Macfarlane, Ottawa, spent several days in Kingston during the past week, the guest of her daughter, Miss Eleanor Macfarlane.

Wilder D. Bancroft, professor of physical chemistry, Cornell University, will give a public lecture in Convocation Hall on Saturday, March 18th, at 8.15 p.m. Subject, "Structural Colors in Feathers."

Classical and interpretive dancing, which had its vogue of recent years with such artists as Maud Allan, Thaddeus Dumson and Lady Constance Stewart Richardson, is again coming into prominence as an art that has ever been popular with all cultured and artistic people. The poetry of motion as interpreted by our modern classical dancers, appeals to the aesthetic and artistic tastes of the present day audiences, as an aid to the complete appreciation of the higher forms of music.

Miss Phyllis Strathy, the gifted and talented Canadian girl, whose appearance at the R.C.H.A. symphony concert is so eagerly looked forward to, is perhaps one of the few Canadian artists whose natural talent, beauty and temperament have received the appreciation and favorable attention of critics in Canada and elsewhere.

He who complains most is not the most hurt.

GIRLS! USE LEMONS TO WHITEN HANDS
Press the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter-pint of harmless and delightful lemon-bleach lotion to soften and whiten red, rough or chapped hands. This home-made lemon lotion is far superior to glycerin and rose water to smoothen the skin. Famous stage beauties use it to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, because it doesn't irritate.

Household Necessity

Make Gillett's Lye your household assistant. Use it for making soap for washing dishes for cleaning sinks for washing greasy pots and pans. It cleans and disinfects.

What the Editor Hears

That Victory Chapter, I.O.D.E., whose members are among the younger of Kingston's "Daughters" have given $1,000 to the War Memorial Fund founded by the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire for the higher education of the men who have served overseas, or their sons or daughters.

That the young people societies of St. George's Cathedral are taking an active interest in the mission to be held in the parish this month.

That the Kingston Badminton players who won two out of the five cups at the Montreal meet, have pretty little-cups to keep always in memory of their victory even when some other club win the splendid silver trophies now in the possession of the Kingston club.

That the small turban and broad slightly drooping shade hats are the two favorite spring models.

That the Levana Society of Queen's College has some exceedingly clever dancers among its members.

That the newest engagement rings have emeralds or sapphires set in diamonds rather than diamonds alone.

That "Princess Mary and Viscountess Lascelles" as is her official title wore a moleskin coat and a blue hat as she left London with her husband for a trip to Italy.

That the members of the Local Council of Women are looking forward to Chief Armstrong's address on the subject of fire protection.

"SNOBS"

The word "snob," used in the sense of one who is not a gentleman, and who, therefore, over-estimates the value of rank and position, has a history as interesting as any word in the English language; it really belongs to the same class as "nob," being an abbreviation of a distinctly unwieldy Latin phrase.

During the latter part of the eighteenth and the early part of the nineteenth century, a number of the "exclusive" schools laid great emphasis upon the fact that the majority of their pupils were from the ranks of the nobility, in some cases being even of royal birth. This, of course, had the effect of raising the school in the estimation of those who, while wealthy enough to send their sons there for education, did not have the prestige of a title.

In order to differentiate between the scions of the noble houses and those of lesser birth, it was customary to enter the names of the latter classes upon the school register, with the notation "s. nob.," this being an abbreviation of the Latin "sine nobilitate," or "without nobility."

It was from this source that Thackeray coined the word, which afterwards slipped into the language as a simple and easy definition of one who, through his wish to appear a gentleman, views rank and position with so much reverence that he clearly betrays his more humble origin.

It is to my faults that I owe my virtues.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman

Answered Letters.
Mother-of-Four: "I would like to know if painted kitchen furniture is harder to care for than oak? My cabinet and tables are oak and I have been thinking of doing them in white, but if it would make them harder to care for I do not want them that way."
Answer: Yes, white paint on kitchen furniture requires a good deal of care. But if I were in your place I would paint the pieces putty-color. This does not show every smudge as white paint does, and yet it gives the sanitary effect of a gleaming white kitchen.

Interested Reader: "Our house has deep old-fashioned windows. Should the curtains hang on a line with the wall, or should they be set in the jut-out where the window is? If the latter, how could one put up valances? Each sill is as broad as a window seat."
Answer: The so-called "glass curtain" (that is, the white scrim or muslin curtain) should be hung very near the glass in the jut-out. The cretonne or silk valance and long side-curtains should be put around the opening on a line with the wall—not sunk into the nook containing the window. You will find this effect very pretty.

Anonymous: "How can I remove stains from a white table cloth caused by spilling Worcestershire sauce?"
Answer: This is a very difficult stain to remove. Try Javelle water (which most druggists sell), following the directions on the bottle. After applying the Javelle water, dip the stained part in a little water to which you have added a few drops of ammonia, then rinse in cold clear water.

P.S.: "Kindly give me a good fudge recipe."
Answer: Here is an excellent one sent in by another reader: Molasses Fudge: Melt one-fourth cup of butter in a large saucepan. Mix together in a bowl of 1 cup of white sugar, 1 cup of brown sugar, one-fourth cup of top milk or cream and one-fourth cup of molasses. Add this mixture to the melted butter in the frying pan and stir till it comes to a boil, then let it boil two and one-half minutes, still stirring. Add 2 squares of unsweetened chocolate finely shaved, and let boil up for five minutes, stirring frequently. Take from fire, add one and one-half teaspoons of vanilla, beat for about two full minutes—or until it is quite thick—and pour it into a buttered dish or pan. Cut into squares when almost hard. (One cup of cocoa-powder may be added instead of the shaved chocolate, if desired.)

A Reader: Please print directions for dyeing a mouse-colored fur neck piece black.
Answer: Fur cannot be dyed at home.

B. Z.: "How is white French ivory cleaned?"
Answer: With either denatured or grain alcohol—never with water.

A. M. E.: "How can I darken small areas on an imitation leather davenport where the leather finish has peeled off?"
Answer: Buy a small tube of artists' oil paint at an art-supply store, and paint the bare areas with this. If necessary, soften the paint with a little naphtha or gasoline.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE
By Genevieve Kemple

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 15.
This promises to be a very satisfactory and successful day, reading the forecast from the astral testimonies. There may be lively conditions in all that relates to writings, and publicity of every character, and letters, agreements and documents may play a large part in the conduct of affairs. Trade, merchandise, bargaining and selling should be the force of enlivening planetary configurations. All business may increase and prosper, and financial prospects are particularly reassuring. But it may be advisable to postpone all important changes or journeys.

Those whose birthday it is are under excellent promise of gain in business and increase of money, but they should make changes or undertake journeys with caution. A child born on this day will be clever, industrious and successful in its undertakings. It will be generous and popular, but may be somewhat erratic unless carefully trained in early life.

"It always pays to advertise."
Bridal Showers at Elginburg.
Elginburg, March 11.—On Monday evening, March 6th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myles Stover and on Friday evening, March 10th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Frazer, their friends and neighbors met to welcome the brides of last week to this vicinity and to shower the two young couples with gifts which were both costly and useful. Miss Edith Pitley had returned to her home in Kingston after spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. John Silver, Yarker, recently visited friends here.

Mrs. W. Cordukes and Mrs. T. Allison, who suffering with colds, have been under the doctor's care the past week, are improving. Mrs. Murphy is home caring for her mother, Mrs. E. King, who has been ill for some weeks. The sale at A. Gordon's was well attended and fairly good prices were received for the stock
