As concerns color, black will always hold its own, and sand and russet are very much in vogue with tweeds, but the popularity of the new French blue home-spuns has spread to hats, and many models show the delightful smoky blue that has been dubbed "periwinkle."

The riotous tangerines and Morocco reds and flames of last year are less prominent, tomato red being a favorite.

While the woman who wishes to have that delightful consciousness that what she is wearing is positively the last word will contrive to become the owner of a large graceful drooping hat with some floral trimming in orchid shade, if the drooping hat is not becoming, let her acquire one of the possible variants, a modified Kate Greenway style, with the brim broad in front and practically non-existent at the back.

Do You Know

That a questionnaire recently issued to thousands of college women asking what they read brought out the fact that the majority per cent. read the store advertisements?

Do You Know

What this means to you, Mr. Merchant?

It Means

That the modern young woman not only knows what she wants and when she wants it, but she knows, and is still learning, where to get what she wants. The young girls just entering college learn to read the store advertisements from the seniors, and by the time they graduate they will know where to get what they want.

Big thing, isn't it, what these young folks are reading? IMPORTANT TO YOU!

What Queen's Girls Are Doing

The annual meeting of the Q.W.C.A. was held on Wednesday afternoon, when the new executive was installed. Miss Dorothy Sutherland will preside during the coming season.

Many of the girls attended the R.C.H.A. concert last week, and thoroughly enjoyed the music and Miss Strath's dancing.

Friday night the L.A.B.C. entertained at a social evening in honor of the Yale boxers and wrestlers. Each of the visitors was provided with a fair partner who looked after his programme. The Sympathy Six provided excellent music and light refreshments were served from the platform in Grant hall.

The final meeting of the Polecon club was held on Friday night at the home of Prof. Morrison. Mr. Knox, Miss MacCallum and Mr. Drummond were appointed as a committee to re-organize the club in the fall.

The girls' hockey team played the Juniors on Thursday afternoon. The men played a one-handed game and were not allowed to body-check, as a handicap. All the spectators were highly entertained.

Arts '22 held its final Year dinner on Thursday evening in the Levana room. A very pleasant evening was spent though a note of sadness prevailed throughout. The poem, prophecy and history were read after the dinner. The speeches were excellent and thoroughly enjoyed.

Quite a number of the girls attended the boxing and wrestling exhibition in the Jock Hart rink on Saturday evening.

Miss Mary Clarke entertained a number of her Levana friends at the tea hour on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. J. D. McNeill, entertained the members of the Q.W.C.A. cabinet at tea on Friday afternoon.

What the Editor Hears

That matchmaking mammas used to investigate a young man's pedigree, nowadays all that really interests them is the make of his car.

That pearl necklaces were sent to each of Princess Mary Viscountess Lascelles' eight bridesmaids as a memento from Viscount Lascelles.

That bobbed hair is no longer in vogue in Paris and a great deal of half-grown hair is seen, but it takes a Frenchwoman to arrange these unruly locks with charm for somehow she manages it by curling them and fluffing out the short ends over the ears, and twisting what is left into the semblance of a chignon at the nape of the neck.

Old, wilted vegetables are poor sources of vitamins. Select your vegetables young and fresh, cook them just enough to make them tender, and remember when you throw away the water in which they have been cooked you are pouring down the sink virtually 50 per cent. of the iron and other minerals, as well as much of the vitamin content.

The juice from canned peaches or apricots makes a delicious sauce for cornstarch or blancmange pudding. It is profitable to wash and dry all silver and steel pieces as soon after using as possible.

Three Good Home Suppers. The following menus are suitable for either lunch or supper: Macaroni A L'Italienne Oatmeal Baking Powder Biscuits Tea Apple Sauce Macaroni A L'Italienne: Break up one-fourth of a pound of macaroni in short pieces (unless you have the elbow macaroni, which comes already broken up) and boil until tender.

Oatmeal Baking Powder Biscuits: Sift together one and one-fourth cups of bread flour, one and one-half teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons of granulated sugar. Stir into this one and one-third cups of dry, uncooked oatmeal, and with the fingertips, rub in 3 tablespoons each of butter and lard. Add enough water to make a soft dough (about one and two-thirds cups of water) and roll out to one-half inch thickness on a floured board. Cut with a biscuit cutter and bake for 20 minutes in a greased pan in a hot oven.

Boston-Tomato Toast Boston Brown Bread Cocoa Prune Whip Cheese Tomato Toast: Turn the contents of a one-quart can of tomatoes into a saucepan and when hot add to it 1 cup of diced American cheese and 2 well-beaten eggs. Season with 1 tablespoon of grated raw onion and salt and pepper to taste. Serve poured over slices of buttered toast.

TO-DAY'S FASHION By Vera Winston.

Blue Crepe de Chine and Pink Bows Form Pajamas for This Small Child. Pajamas, whether they be of crepe de chine or flannelette, are a most practical and always-becoming style of night apparel for the small child.

This is a season of the greatest diversity in underwear materials, and pajamas may be made flowered, plain or checked. If plain, they are sometimes piped narrowly in checked gingham.

Three Minute Journeys

WHERE TO REJECT A WOMAN'S PROPOSAL BRINGS A BEATING By Temple Manning New Guinea has advanced less than perhaps any other land? than perhaps any of the other islands of the Pacific, even if it is the second largest island in the world, and near Australia.

cup of yellow cornmeal, one cup of graham flour and one-half teaspoon of salt. Now dissolve three-fourths of a teaspoon of soda in two cups of sour milk; or if you prefer to use sweet milk instead of the sour, dissolve one-half teaspoon of soda in one and three-fourths of a cup of sweet milk. Last add three-fourths of a cup of molasses, stir until well mixed, and turn all into a mold or can that has a tight-fitting cover. The can or mold should not be more than three-quarters filled with this mixture, as otherwise when the mixture rises it forces off the cover of the can. Tie on the cover with string even with the can three-fourths full of the mixture. Set this can or mold in a large pot which is half full of boiling water, and let the water boil up around it for three hours. It is then ready to serve.

Baked Cracker-Cheese Dish Johnny Cake Tea Preserves Baked Cracker-Cheese Dish: Either cottage or American cheese may be used. Soak 2 cups of cracker crumbs in 2 cups of milk for 30 minutes, then add to this one and one-half cups of finely chopped cheese, 2 slightly beaten eggs, and salt and pepper to suit taste. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and sprinkle the top with more cracker crumbs. Bake until firm in a moderate oven.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters. All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question—The editor.

watchful waiting sigh with relief when the man of her choice finally "pops the question." Nor does the New Guinea maiden go into a convent because the love of her life has not asked her to be his.

On the contrary, in this wild and uncivilized country the New Guinea woman is even more progressive than the average western woman. The New Guinea woman doesn't wait for a man to woo her. She looks over the village, and then decides which young man she fancies for a husband. Then she wastes no time in asking him to marry her, but there's nothing shy or shrinking about her proposal.

This young woman knows that when she marries, although she is the one to choose, she automatically becomes the man's slave—absolutely his slave—to be treated as a slave, to do a slave's work.

Perhaps this is the reason—because she is offering a great deal when she asks him to marry her—that the entire family of the New Guinea woman are so incensed and vindictive if the gentleman declines her proposal.

On this barbaric island the family of a rejected young lady beat the young man into a state of unconsciousness.

Left-over canned pineapple will retain its fresh taste for another meal if put immediately into an air-tight glass jar. Left in an open dish pineapple acquires a peculiar stale taste. Painters and poets have liberty to lie.
