BOXING PRELIMINARIES AT THE R.M.C.

Thirteen Bouts With Three K.O.'s—Cadets Mickles, McLeod and Hughes Good.

The boxing preliminaries were resumed at the Royal Military College on Thursday afternoon, after a "rest" period of several days during the preparations for the annual minstrel show.

Novice Heavy—Catch Weight. Vokes vs. McMahon—Vokes pressed all the way, and he won the decision on points.

Heron vs. Fair—These boys took things fairly easy in the opening session, but later mixed things up considerably.

Lane vs. Brown—Lane was given the decision at the end of the first round to save unnecessary punishment to Brown.

H. G. Hughes vs. J. Turner—Turner was sent away by the K.O. route early in the first round.

Novice Intermediate—150 Lbs. Roy vs. Fleming—Fleming won after a hard-fought battle with a worthy opponent.

J. Ross vs. Mickles—This was the hardest fought and most evenly matched bout of the afternoon, and Mickles made a wonderful showing.

Open Heavy—Catch Weight. C. S. M. Williams vs. Cadet Grant—This bout went an extra round, finally going to Grant.

Open Middleweight—147 Lbs. Cadet Hamilton vs. Sergt. McLeod

These two old hockey war-horses battled for three rounds with McLeod mostly on the aggressive.

Open Lightweight—135 Lbs. Kirby vs. R. M. Carr-Harris—This bout was very doubtful to the end.

G. E. R. Smith vs. Acer—Smith received the decision in the fourth round, though Acer gave him a fine run for the money.

Creighton vs. MacCaul—This bout saw-sawed back and forth until the finishing go, when MacCaul piled up points.

Gill vs. Chadwick—This was a case of a hard fighter up against a weaker, though more talented opponent.

THE STANLEY CUP.

The famous Stanley cup, which has passed back and forward over the continent and once to Seattle, will find a resting place with St. Patricks for the summer.

This trophy was donated by Lord Stanley in 1900, and was played for by amateurs until 1908, when the professionals usurped it and made it emblematic of the world's professional hockey championship.

In 1919 at Seattle, with the series even between Canadians and Seattle, the games were called off owing to the "flu" epidemic that cost the life of Joe Hall, of Canadians.
