"The Maple Leafs."
The "Maple Leafs" is booked for a return engagement at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday, April 4th, for the one night only. This announcement by the local management is made with every assurance that the return of this famous troupe of war time entertainers in their new 1922 version of "Camouflage" will be received with general acclaim. Under Captain Plunkett's direction, the company have attained a high point of proficiency. The company have taken the greatest pains with their work, and nothing but the best will do to present to their patrons. It was in France where the company made its first big hits, repeating them in England and for the last two years in Canada. The fact of the company coming back here is a tribute to the versatility of their revue. It is only the best which may be seen two or three times and appreciated and the "Maple Leafs" are easily among that number. Men like Harry Ashton, the famous female impersonator, Pat Rafferty, a comedian of great ability, Hughie Williamson, Ben Allen, Morley Plunkett, Jack Challes, Ernie Petch and others, do their parts as if they had been in the theatrical profession for years.—Advt.

The Boston English Opera Co. Manager D. P. Branigan of the Grand Opera House takes pleasure in announcing that he has secured a return date of this gifted company of singers in Balfe's beautiful opera "The Bohemian Girl" for Wednesday, April 5th, for one night only. The Bohemian Girl is the most popular of the world's operas; its ballads had that fascinating combination of

Its humor is pungent without being offensive—others may bring their children, men their sweethearts to the Bohemian Girl free in the knowledge that they will be entertained without being offended, that they will hear music that will live in their memory, songs that they will sing in their homes with pleasure, especially after hearing them by such gifted artists as "Helena Morrill, Norman Arnold, Edward Orchard, Henry Kungs, Dorothy Bott, etc."

To hear the artists sing "I Dreamt I Dwell in Marble Halls," "Then You'll Remember me," "Bliss Forever Past," "The Heart Bowed Down," and "Fair Land of Poland," to hear the famous wondrous chorus in "All's Fair in Love," "Our Lady Moon," to see Edward Orchard in his impersonation of "Devilshood" chief of the gypsies all combine to make a treat which does not come very often to anyone outside large music centres.—Advt.

At the Allen.
If all is fair in war, even though General Sherman was right, it certainly is fair in love, it is one to judge by the latest farce-comedy, "All's Fair in Love." In fact, the game of war is gentle pastime compared to the battle of hearts, if the new Goldwyn picture, which comes to the Allen theatre today and Tuesday is any criterion. It is the laughable tale of an amateur vamp who practices her wiles upon her own husband, contrary to the usual method. May Collins, who is already a familiar figure in the public prints, Richard Dix, Stuart Holmes and Raymond Hatton, head an unusually capable cast.—Advt.

"Way Down East."
"Way Down East" in the picture spectacle form that D. W. Griffith has built up on the story of the familiar play for the first time will be seen here for the first time at popular prices, commencing a special local engagement of four days. "Way Down East" had phenomenal runs in New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and other cities. The local engagement will be as nearly an exact duplication of the New York presentation, as the management of the Allen Theatre can make it. The orchestra will play the accompanying score which is an important feature of the show. The greatest cast ever gathered for a regular stage or screen production is seen in the picture.—Advt.

George Arliss in "Disraeli" Opens at Strand Today

When George Arliss first played "Disraeli" in Louis N. Parker's great stage success he took the theatrical world by storm, his interpretation of Queen Victoria's favorite prime minister being unanimously acclaimed as a masterly piece of character acting. Of late years the public, in many parts of the English-speaking world, have expressed a desire to see the play adapted for the screen, with Mr. Arliss in the title role. This has been accomplished, and the picture, like the play, is pursuing its triumphant way from city to city. To-day this masterpiece of screen production will be shown for the first time in Kingston at the Strand. A charming love story, the fascinating workings of international diplomacy, vivid pictures of life among the potent personalities of the mid-Victoria era, with Disraeli himself as the dominant figure, all enter into the composition of one of the most "different" pictures of the season. Mr. Arliss is supported by a cast of rare strength. Mrs. Arliss herself taking the part of Disraeli's wife. The Strand management have done another good turn to the people of Kingston in securing this fine picture for three days. It is one that should not be missed.—Advt.

Deceased had lived on a farm near the village for years, but recently had sold the farm and moved into the village. She had been spending a short time with her daughters in Kingston, when the end came. She was of a sweet and amiable disposition, a faithful member of the Anglican church, and will be greatly missed. The funeral proceeded from her home here to the Methodist church, where a very impressive sermon, where a very impressive sermon, was preached by Rev.
