Peggy Plans A Party

"Pieces of eight! Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum!" said Peggy.

"Yes," Peggy nodded, "that's the one. He had his 'gang' in for the party."

"What kind of party did you say it was?" her mother asked.

"One game was 'hide the booty.' Some one was sent outside and a big brass button was hidden in some unlikely place."

low when he was far away and whistling louder whenever he got near to the 'treasure'.

"The refreshments were regular boy stuff—thick ham sandwiches and coffee, ice cream and cake."

"They gave the party in their barn, but of course a big living room would do for such a party if it were cleared out."

"One game was 'hide the booty.' Some one was sent outside and a big brass button was hidden in some unlikely place."

ONE REEL YARNS

THE DOG UNDER THE SEAT

Johnny McDonough hadn't ever traveled much, and when his mother told him one morning that they were going to New York City to stay a week he was the happiest boy in town.

The day of departure came, and Johnny's parents and he left for the depot. When the train came in, not only the McDonoughs clambered aboard, but also two other men, whom Johnny had never seen before.

A long dispute followed, for the men insisted that they would never allow the dog to be put in the baggage car.

"WITS" OF HISTORY

By Mark Stuyvesant.

How Beau Brummel Condescended to Practical Jokes.

A man whose mind is filled with humorous kinks and who is witty very often has a tendency to play practical jokes. Such was the case with Beau Brummel, the most fashionable figure in London society at the beginning of the last century.

By bribing the valet, Beau Brummel managed to mix some finely-powdered sugar in the powder always used for the cherished wig.

Beau Showed Surprise.

His wig was perfection. Its whiteness rivalled the snows of Greenland. His grace sat down to enjoy the toast and marmalade which were before him—and for which the flies also had a liking.

But the flies soon found a new field of endeavor. They were attracted to the sugar-soaked wig.

Beau Brummel arose to his feet most courteously as his host passed his chair and showed greater surprise than any one else present.

So, one night at dinner he voiced his estimate of the champagne which was being served, by calling out to the butler in his most elegant manner and perfectly modulated voice:

John, bring me some more of that elder!

The next evening another and better brand of champagne was served.

Lives Without Water. Patagonian llamas live for years without tasting water, and a particular class of cows bred near Losers, in France, and noted for the richness of their milk, take it very rarely.

London's Births and Death. Fifteen Londoners are born every hour, and nine die, the total excess of births over deaths a year being about 55,000.

The world is large enough to contain all the people.

HAD A FEW RIBS CRACKED

While Travelling on Horseback—Man Buys Horse and Sells Car.

Northbrook, March 31.—Sleighs are again out in numbers and more snow fell on March 30th than during any storm in the winter.

Mr and Mrs. A. E. Fletcher are expected to-day from Buffalo. They will motor down. Mrs. Wye, New York, has been overseeing putting their home in readiness and is awaiting her sister's arrival.

The auction sale of Curtis Selman's stock, machinery, etc., on March 30th was well attended and good prices were obtained, cows ranging from $25 to $45 each.

The many friends of Mrs. Gus Wood are glad to learn she is convalescing after her serious attack of pneumonia.

George Slater had a few ribs cracked when trying to travel by horseback.

William Anderson is erecting an implement barn on his newly purchased farm. Mrs. W. Cassada is in very poor health.

Many Whig readers comment upon and enjoy the "Efficient Housekeeping" page and one notes a number of improvements in the past few years which have, we think, put the Whig school gets a chance at him. During these early formative years the future character of the child is being built. It is in this plastic period that traits such as tenacity and zeal for accomplishment must be cultivated.

veloped in childhood, these qualities become part and parcel of the personality. If the child does not acquire them until he goes to the school, where they are too often brought into play in order to earn a gold star or a kind word from the teacher, they are veneered on and do not become ingrained.

CURRENT STRENGTH.

The flow of water may be expressed in gallons per second, which indicates to us the RATE of flow or the STRENGTH of the current. The term "coulomb" has been given to the unit for quantity of electricity and roughly corresponds to the unit "gallon" in the case of the water. It could, be said, then, that the strength of flow of electric current may be expressed in coulombs per second.

If there are three coulombs of electricity flowing past a given point in a circuit each second the current strength is three amperes. At the end of sixty seconds the quantity of current which has passed the point chosen is 180 coulombs (three coulombs times three seconds each second). But it must be particularly noted that during the sixty seconds the cur-

C.C.M. Bicycle Prices Reduced

"HURRAH, fellows: You don't need to hold off buying your new bicycle another day."

"C.C.M. Bicycle prices have been fixed for this season and they are right down to bed rock."

The 1922 C.C.M. Standard Adult Models are: $15 Below "Peak" Prices $10 Less than Last Summer

"This certainly gives us Canadian riders a generous reduction and a square deal. I'm told that bicycles of equal quality cost more in the United States than C.C.M. Bicycles do in Canada."

"Remember, C.C.M. prices didn't advance anywhere nearly so much as most products, so they hadn't as far to come down."

"And C.C.M. Bicycles are even better now than before the war."

"You know, the best steels and materials were reserved for war purposes, and the best mechanics put on war orders. Now, the best steels and materials are again obtainable, including English Seamless Tubing for C.C.M. Frames. The best mechanics are on the job again with their skill improved as a result of the accuracy demanded in their delicate time fuse work."

A Nifty New Pedal "And, say fellows, they've put a new pedal—called the Gibson Pedal—on the 1922 Men's Models, and it's a bird!"

"The Gibson pedal has an Aluminum frame that looks like silver and won't rust. Wonderfully light, yet very strong. Some class to it!"

"The easy-running Triplex Hanger and the sure-acting New Hercules Brake are on the new models, too. No extra charge, either."

"But I almost forgot to tell you the new low prices this year. They are only: $50 and $60 For Standard Adult Models According to Equipment"

"This means that a C.C.M. costs only about $5 or $6 a year, as a C.C.M. Bicycle easily gives 10 years of service. Many have given 15 years and longer."
