GAVE ELOQUENT ADDRESS

Rev. Dr. Charles W. Gordon at Queen's Theological College Convocation.

An eloquent address by Rev. Dr. Charles W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, featured the proceedings of the convocation of Queen's Theological College, held on Monday night, in Convocation Hall, Queen's University, at which Principal Dr. Bruce Taylor presided.

During the proceedings, R. G. Fry, of Kindersley, Sask., W. J. Walker, of Brockville, and L. B. Smith, of Brockville, were licensed to preach by the Kingston Presbytery, Rev. Dr. Ramsay, of Belleville, moderator of the Kingston Presbytery, officiating. Mr. Fry was also ordained.

Rev. Dr. Malcolm Macgillivray and Rev. Dr. R. J. Wilson conducted the devotional exercises.

Prof. Morgan announced the winners of the scholarships, and the presentations were made by Principal Taylor.

Quite a number of the members of the Presbytery were present, including Rev. R. J. Craig, the clerk.

Address to Students.
 "You represent the church," said Dr. Gordon, addressing the students of the college. You represent the great church universal. You will stand where men can see you, and the church you represent functions in religion.

"You are experts in religion. You will meet experts in science and other lines, but you are experts in the science of religion—a science of living right—that which will fit a man to be a man all round—to be that which God would have him be. Man's chief command was to make of himself the best. Religion is to show him how to play the man. Religion helps a man to be a good son and brother, to fulfill the expectations of God. A man who relates himself with God cannot go wrong in any relation to man. Our business as teachers in the church of Jesus Christ is to try to bring such influence to bear upon others that they might think rightly about God. What wrong thoughts we have of the world today. No wonder there are many people who do not come to God. But they will not keep away from God when they know Him.

"Man's chief end is to glorify God. And we should live in a way to bring honor to God, who sent us forth to live. In the great war the men of Canada made Canada noble. No man had cause to be ashamed of the name on his shoulder. These brave men glorified Canada.

"I congratulate you all on your profession," continued the speaker during his address. "I am glad that you are going to give yourself to this great enterprise—that you are going to try and help your fellow countrymen to live worthily of their God."

The speaker declared that the great job of the men in the ministry was to 'change the heart of a man.' This was God's work, and it was the work of the ministry.

L. B. Smith, moderator of the Theological Society, was called upon to deliver the valedictory for the graduates, and he delivered a very fine address, in which he returned to the teaching staff for the splendid training, and for the many warm friendships formed at the college. Those who passed through the college owed everything they possessed to the learned and sympathetic teachers. The speaker advocated the establishment of a theological residence at the college.

Dr. W. S. Dyde, principal of the theological college, gave a survey of the work of the year, and also took occasion to thank Dr. Gordon for his visit and address to the students.

Survey of the Year.
 In his address, Principal Dyde said: "With soldiers graduating, and a soldier addressing them, we are not likely to forget the war. To add us in remembering the great past, and to go what is in our power to honor those who died for us and civilization, this tablet was erected last fall by the board of management of Queen's Theological College. Those whose names are carved there are not dead—"Vivant fortes, orbis pacatores"—the brave live on, the peace-makers of the world. . . . "The session just closing will be held to be noteworthy for another reason. There are many thoughtful people who fail to understand why the Bible should continue to be taboo in our educational system. Of

WHAT MRS. PARLEE SAYS OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Sussex, N. B., Woman Who Suffered From Many Forms of Kidney Trouble Sings the Praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sussex, N. B., Apr. 10th. (Special)—Mrs. L. Parlee, who lives on Broad Street here, is another of that great army of Canadian women who are always ready to say a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills. Every one of them has a reason.

"I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills of good value to me," Mrs. Parlee states. "I had typhoid and it left me with milk legs. I suffered also from cramps in the muscles, headache, headache and heart fluttering. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing; I was always tired and nervous and I had dark circles under my eyes.

"I took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they have done me a lot of good. I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills the best I ever used." Mrs. Parlee's troubles came from the kidneys. Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the most reliable of all kidney remedies.

HEADS THAT ACHE AND PAIN

It is hard to drag along with a head that aches and pains all the time. In nine cases out of ten, persistent headaches are due to poisoned blood, the blood being rendered impure through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels, but no matter which organ is to blame the cause must be removed before permanent relief can be obtained.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS which has been on the market for the past forty-five years, removes the cause of the headache by starting the organs of elimination acting freely, and when the impurities are carried off from the system, purified blood circulates in the brain cells, and the aches and pains vanish.

Miss Clara Murphy, Centre Dumfries, Ont., writes:—"My system was greatly run down and my blood out of order. I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head, which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health. I took another bottle and it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to some of my friends, who were in a similar condition, and they all say it is a wonderful remedy."

course they know of the rivalries and emulations of sects in times past, and deplore them. But that day of religious strife is fortunately passing, and one of the signs of its passing is the introduction of the Bible as literature and history into the university courses. The session just closing is the first session in Queen's, I think, in which a knowledge of the Bible could count for a B.A. degree; and the classes were in the able hands of Dr. Jordan.

"The years of the war were a drain on the theological students of Canada, who being of mature years enlisted almost to a man. It is to their perpetual glory. As a consequence, we have had lean years in theological classes all over Canada. But when the cause is honorable, the evil consequences are temporary; and already there are marked signs of recovery. More applications were sent in this year to the home mission committee for summer work than the church could finance, and excellent men were disappointed. Also, the numbers in arts having theology in view are increasing steadily. No one gets a fat living out of the Church; but the days when a call was received to preach the redemption of mankind are not yet over, nor is real life measured by extent of possessions.

Bright Days Coming.
 "The work of the year was carried through with the same staff as last year, that is to say with one man short. Owing to the action of the Assembly last June in postponing all appointments for twelve months, Prof. Watts, appointed a year ago to the chair of practical theology is still in his church in Ottawa. However, he was able to give a course of lectures, which was supplemented by another course given by Professor Eakin of Montreal, to whom and to Principal Fraser, of Montreal, our thanks are due for their generous assistance.

"I cannot venture on any general remarks. We are looking for better and brighter days ahead. Seventy-eights of the Forward Movement donation of $50,000 has been received, and what disposition to make of it is being carefully considered by the board. The mists of confusion which followed the war seem at last to be evaporating. The old message of peace and good-will is being proclaimed with new energy. All agencies, pulpit, press and platform, are being inspired by a common aim to work more effectively together for human betterment.

"You young men who are leaving us, now that your college life is over, may the blessing of an all-wise and all-loving Father be with you and your loved ones and inspire you in all your work. We count on you to continue to play your part in the big game, as you have already so well done, and we will not, I am sure, count on you in vain."

Principal Taylor added a very few words of commendation to the men leaving the college, and the proceedings were brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

His Greatest Gift.
 New York Globe.
 The girl had worked in the hospital during the war, and when she broke her arm a month ago, she made a sling of a sailor's heavy silk handkerchief, to wear when she went out.

One day she met a sailor whom she had nursed through a bad attack of flu, and they stopped and talked for a few moments.

The next afternoon he appeared at her house with a small package. "This is my handkerchief," he explained. "I've worn it ever since I've been in the service—for nine years, and it's never once been untied. I want you to use for your arm."

At first the girl protested she knew how much a matter of pride it was to the sailors never to untie their 'kerchiefs, and nine years!

"I'd rather you used it, miss," he insisted. "It isn't much to give you but at least it means a lot."

So she took it—and though some people might not think it a thing to cherish, it is among her most favored possessions.
