DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally That Nobody Can Tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

HER AILMENTS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lake, Michigan. — "About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish." — Mrs. MARY SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing the merit of this well-known medicine.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

NEW, TRUE AND NO LOVE

"Sweet, So Sweet" The $7,000,000 Coffee King's widow, who recently married Joseph Schwars, opera baritone, told an enraptured interviewer that "Last love, I think may be the more beautiful of the two—" having been asked to judge between first and last love, she having had three husbands. "Last love is chosen more wisely." And, she says, theirs was a romance.

Considering that her father left her an Hawaiian sugar fortune, while her second husband left her that $7,000,000 "sugar," and her new husband is full of roset music, wouldn't you say "pretty sweet for her"?

She Had a Crust! Mrs. Ruth Harris, suing Pauline Lord, the actress for $50,000, charging she alienated the affection of husband, Mitchell Harris, offered in evidence letters alleged to have been written by the defendant. One baby-talk missive inquires of the man: "Is you my pie?"

The answer should be: "Is you got dough?"

Love? Watt? Watt? Two illuminating experts declare that poorly-chosen house lights have broken up homes and blighted loves. This assertion is based on psychological light tests of 2,000 persons.

The idea is: Tired business man after hard day, irritated by harsh library or dining-room light, notes by pitiless glare that wife is not so young or attractive as she used to be. Crash! goes home. If you don't install lights shaded properly to imitate moon glow, or stick to "the light that lies in women's eyes."

Cupid's Arrow Tips The high cost of loving has invaded Darkest Africa, announced Sir Thomas Dewar at a London gathering. He said "In the Sudan a wife cost four spearheads before the war, now a wife costs eight spearheads."

A sharp advance in the market, you'd say, and several good points in a wife's favor.

Can't Make Match Stick Naming two correspondents in her suit for divorce, Mrs. Ethel Eddy called her husband, Ezra Eddy, "a living Judas." One of the women named as correspondents furnished the wife with an affidavit setting forth that Hubby had made love away from home. Eddy inherited a fortune from his grandfather, a match manufacturer of Hull, Canada. The wife seemed to think their match was not made in Heaven, but in—uh—Hull.

Lorelei Busy Love is another line that the busy Germans are now speeding up. Apparently the stipulations forbidding retaining weapons failed to reach the winged boy with the bow-and-arrow. Anyhow, annual report announces that the Prussian marriage rate has doubled since the year before the war.

After that war, nothing scares some men.

May Become Church Belle Judge Haas of South Chicago, Ill., denounced nineteen-year-old Tillie Buchanan as a rump and sentenced her to attend church, all services, for six months. Also to join in congregational singing. If she forgets the words, can she vump?

As a joke, after six months of sermon about Delilah, Jezebel, Sheba's Queen and other noted strays, perhaps Tillie's life will be revamped.

Love and Law Plaintiff counsel in a case decided for the defendant in the Superior Court, Spokane, Wash., has applied for a new trial alleging that the jury foreman sent "mash notes" to an 18-year-old girl witness for the defense.

If love makes the world go around, it certainly ought to be able to reverse a trial.

The Older, the Easier The Hungarian government, at this session of the National Assembly, advocated a new electoral law depriving women under thirty of the vote because they are "romantically inclined" in favor of the deposed sovereigns.

A good movie title could be made of "Hungary Hearts," but where do those solemn statesmen get the idea that women over thirty are not "romantically inclined"?

To Make You Smile

Head, He Loses Husband: "Where is my hat?" Wife: "On the wringer, dear." Husband: "What on the wringer?" Wife: "What ridiculous thing I shall find it on next!"

Got His Wish "And you tell me several men proposed marriage to you?" he said, savagely. "Yes, several," the wife replied. "Well, I only wish you had married the first fool who proposed."

Be Specific Doctor: "It's a boy, professor." Absent-Minded Professor (looking up from his work): "What is?"

She Fools 'Em "And also, Geraldine, I hope that no young men ever kiss you by surprise." "No, mother, they only think they do!"

Light Wanted Willie: "Mamma, when the fire goes out where does it go?" Mrs. Gayboy: "I don't know. You might just as well ask me where your father goes when he goes out."

Sounds Like It Johnnie: "Say, mamma, was Baby sent down from heaven?" Mother: "Why, yes." Johnnie: "Um. They like to have it quiet up there, don't they?"

Playing Safe He (cautiously): "Would you say 'Yes' if I asked you to marry me?" She (still more cautiously): "Would you ask me to marry you if I said I would say 'Yes' if you asked me to marry you?"

Too Much Footage Movie Director: "The lion pursues you for 600 feet. No more than that. See what I mean?" Hollywood Harold: "Yes, I understand, but does the lion?"

White Organdie and Net Combine With Blue-and-Orchid Ribbon in This Little Girl's Frock.

White is lovely for the child's party frock and it attains added charm when trimming in pastel tints is used to relieve the white.

Of sheer organdie, combined with net, the frock above follows out this use of pale colors in the two-tone ribbon of blue and orchid which defines its lowered waistline. Soft ribbon flowers are used across the front, while ties of the ribbon form sashes at either side.

The same frock can be worked out in fine batiste of white or some pastel tint such as yellow, orchid or pale blue.

Natural Question. Kris—The doctor has granted me a new lease of life. Kross—That's fine. Will you be able to meet the rent?

"WITS" OF HISTORY

By Mark Stuyvesant.

The Reason Napoleon Feared Mme. De Stael.

Napoleon was afraid of few people — one was a woman. This woman was Madame De Stael.

Napoleon was the greatest man of his day in France. Madame De Stael was the greatest woman. Elbert Hubbard sums it up when he says: "France was not big enough for both of them."

So keen was Madame De Stael and so vivid was her wit that she could win anybody. To gain a favor from a statesman or to arrange some diplomatic coup, all that she had to do was to invite the gentleman to call. When the arose to depart, her point had been won.

Napoleon knew that Madame De Stael had her finger on the public pulse and that her hand was in touch with every wire of politics. He recognized the fact that she was so influential that she could accomplish anything which she set out to do.

The great general and the author of "Corinne" and "Delphine"—for they were Madame De Stael's most prominent works—were enemies. But Napoleon was clever enough to know that he needed Madame De Stael's influence. Some of Napoleon's friends mentioned the fact that she did not attend his receptions. To this she replied:

"If he wishes to see me, he knows that I am at home on Thursdays."

The fair authoress made a great mistake in her book, "De l'Allemagne," when she failed to mention Napoleon's name. This was the real reason why Napoleon exiled her. She took great pride in the fact that she had the distinction of being the only woman exiled from France and the only woman Napoleon feared.

When Napoleon left for Elbe, all of his generals and friends gathered around him and were effusive in their leave-takings. It was a touching scene as the great man kissed them each good-by in turn. Many tears were shed.

The incident was related to Madame De Stael by one of her friends who had witnessed the departure. In her charming manner and with her biting wit, she remarked:

"You see, my dear, the difference is this. While Judas kissed but one, the little man kissed forty."

TURN OF FASHION'S WHEEL.

To brighten the black frocks still in vogue the French modistes suggest a visit to grandmother's jewel case to see if you can find amongst its treasures some bits of bright red coral, beads, bracelets or even old fashioned brooches.

Then too you may have the good luck to discover a patsley shawl, even a wall worn one will make the desired touch of color on your hat or frock; and the new pink is the old pink that was the fashion about fifty years ago. So you may find the picot edged ribbon so much worn now, trimming a gown laid away for half a century. The old jet and bead trimmings too may be utilized in various ways. No beads made now have the brilliance of the old cut beads of our grandmother's day. And lace so much used for evening and daytime gowns will be sure to be laid away ready for you to be smart and up-to-date in the selected garments that were lovely in their day and with the aid of clever fingers will be as lovely again in a new way.

A Matter of Luck. (From Judge). "Rastus," said the judge, "I want you to come clean. Were you in that chicken coop?"

"Ah was, boss; deed Ah was. But Ah did nothing wrong?"

"Didn't you steal a chicken?"

"Yes, Ah did. Ah counted thirteen birds and Ah 'cided that was an unlucky number fo' the man to have."

A Chance for Success. Patron (in cigar store)—Can you let me have penials, dimes and nickels for this $50 bill?

Proprietor—I'm sorry, sir, but I can't. I'm almost entirely out of change. But you might get what you want on the next corner from the blind man.

When Will There Be A Disarmament of Dining Tables?

Suppose everybody would recognize the fact that there's no gain but much loss in keeping up hostilities with the stomach!

Suppose the ancient aggravation of improper food on indignant digestive organs should be settled with guarantees of sensible diet and tranquil digestion!

The saving would be beyond all possibility of counting.

Yet millions go on declaring war on the stomach and accepting war in return—loading up on starchy, heavy, unbalanced and highly-seasoned food at breakfast or lunch—and wondering why comfort, happiness and efficiency are out of reach.

Grape-Nuts makes a friend of the taste and an ally of the stomach.

There's a charm and satisfaction to this delicious food which prompts appetite to say, "There's a meal!" and digestion to answer, "Thank goodness, here's peace at last!"

Grape-Nuts is the perfected nutriment of wheat and malted barley—sweet, crisp, and wonderfully nourishing. It digests quickly, and provides the necessary elements, including the vital mineral salts, for body, nerve and brain.

Order Grape-Nuts from your grocer today, and let a delighted taste pass a treaty of peace along to an enthusiastic digestion and assimilation.
