THE ROTARY CLUB LUNCHEON ADDRESS

 newspaper man like myself. Naturally I felt quite at home, and enjoyed that luncheon immensely.

The Convention Itself.
 The business meetings were held at Jefferson Junior High School, Exeter Park, where a large auditorium and stage were available. Within the building there was no lack of good cheer. Boy scouts, which you will remember did such fine work at the Rotary meeting at Brockville last year, met the delegates at the doors with a courteous good-morning and held themselves ready to give information or run errands. The assembly hall was decorated with yellow and white bunting and with Rotary and international flags. Across the platform extended a banner with the Rotarian motto, "Service Above Self." The official welcome was delivered by Vice-president Eugene Raines, of the Rochester Rotary Club, and Mayor Van Zandt, District Governor Hart I. Seely, a well-beloved Rotarian as you fellows who heard him on his official visit to this club will gladly attest, responded to the greetings, and afterwards presided at all the conference meetings. In speaking of the progress that had been made during his year of office he said there had been an increase of 1,000 in the membership of the Fourth District and that the attendance contest had increased the record of attendance at the weekly luncheons eleven per cent. in nine months.

He announced that the cup offered for the best attendance record in clubs of Class A, having a membership of 300 or over, had been awarded to the Utica club. In class B, the cup was awarded to Niagara Falls, N.Y. The class C cup went to Owen Sound, Ont., and the class D cup to Niagara Falls, Ont. A year ago the Buffalo club offered a cup for the best attendance record of the year among all clubs of 300 or more, and Toronto won this cup. The Toronto club is the largest in the Fourth District, having a membership of 375, and during the past eight months this club has had the record for attendance among the Rotary clubs of the world. Thus, out of five cups put up, the Canadians, I am proud to tell you, carried home no less than three.

So many excellent addresses were delivered during the course of the conference that it is impossible to even mention them in a brief report like this. You will be glad to know, however, that it was unanimously decided to publish them in pamphlet form and to send each Rotarian in the district a copy. May I ask each of you, that, when your copy comes to hand, you will read it thoroughly? It, alone, will be an education in Rotary that will repay you. As a newspaper man, I have listened to many, many addresses in my life, but I can truthfully say this: That I never had the privilege of listening to such wonderful eloquence, such inspiring messages, such appeals for international good-will as fell from the lips of those Rotary speakers.

But there was one address that I must not permit to pass without some notice, I refer to that delivered by our international president, Crawford McCullough, of Fort William. We Canadians are proud of him, and justly so. He has risen to high eminence in International Rotary, and the reception given him by his American brothers was no less hearty and genuine than that so vociferously tendered by his Canadian compatriots. He spoke of the unprecedented growth of the Rotary organization which had started seventeen years ago, with one small club and to-day has 1,150 clubs in twenty-two countries of the world. Such development as this would not have been possible without some good reason, he said, and the stability of growth and progress can only be explained by the fact that Rotary has embraced a very simple truth and founded its whole organization and life upon it. Truth cannot be limited by political confines or boundaries, President McCullough said, and therefore the movement has spread over the whole world and is constantly growing. Rotary is based on the truth that true happiness can only come through unselfish service, and each club bases its work on this principle. The three objectives of International Rotary during the coming year are the interpretation of Rotary principles in business practice; the growth of a higher conception of the obligations of citizenship among its members, and the development of work for its boys, especially along the lines of training them in the ideals of citizenship so that they may be ready to take their place in the community. He also emphasized the part which Rotary may play in promoting international good-will among the nations of the world.

Entertainment Provided.
 I feel that I would be remiss in my duty to you and in my obligations to our hosts, the Rotary club of Rochester, if I were to omit reference to the splendid manner in which we, as visitors, were entertained. Scores of automobiles were placed at our disposal; recitals were given by wonderful orchestras; the work among crippled children was demonstrated by Rochester teachers in a manner that won heartfelt praise; the governor's luncheon and ball on Friday night defied description; the "get-together" dinners at the various hotels on Saturday night were well arranged and most enjoyable; and above all, that spirit of good-fellowship and genuine comradeship that knows no national boundaries marked every moment of our sojourn in Rochester. Perhaps that which impressed me most was the manifestation of friendship and good-will on the part of the Americans for the Canadians. They were like brothers. If the great mass of the American people could get the viewpoint and the vision that these Rotarians possessed and exemplified, we would not to-day be so doubtful of the future; for we could rest secure in the knowledge that the English-speaking peoples of the world would present a united front to their enemies no matter from what quarter they came. And that is just what Rotary is trying to accomplish—to establish good-will among all peoples.

"Till the war drum throbs no longer and battle flags are furled
 In the parliament of men, the federation of the world."
 You will be glad to learn that that prince of good fellows, "Bill" Cairns, past president of the Ottawa club, and god father of our own club was unanimously recommended as the next governor of the Fourth District. That recommendation will be endorsed at the Los Angeles convention in June. "Bill" was one of the most popular officials at Rochester, and every Canadian was proud of him and his record.

There are many points that I have not touched upon. I am sorry that I have neither the time nor the ability to elucidate them all, because they are all equally interesting and profitable. Next year the convention meets in Montreal—and you will understand the implication when I tell you that every single, solitary American I met said: "I'll be there." I hope every member of this club will be there, too. No Rotarian should ever miss an annual convention. If you attend one, as I was privileged to do this year, you will know why I regretted to see the Rochester convention come to a close, because to me it seemed like the end of a perfect day. As the official programme so finely expressed it:

Now we come to end of these Rotary days,
 Which should long remain in our thoughts,
 And so we'll each go our separate ways
 With the joy that these days have brought;
 For Rotary means service at work and play,
 And friendships that never fade,
 And we grasp at the end of these Rotary days
 The hands of the friends we've made.

Hotel Dieu Nurses Home.
 A new nurses' home is about to be erected in connection with St. Joseph's Training School for Nurses, Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston. The building will consist of five stories, dimensions 100 x 40, and will include, in addition to sleeping and other accommodation, class rooms, demonstration rooms, and an assembly hall capable of seating two hundred and fifty people. At present the nurses, some forty in number, are housed in cramped quarters, not at all suitable for the purpose.
