Insurance and Your Estate

No matter what your wealth, unless you leave some life insurance your heirs are bound to suffer.

Life insurance will provide your heirs with ready money immediately and so will remove any necessity for selling securities in what may be an unfavorable market. You can take out insurance to be used to pay the succession duties on your estate, and thus have it kept intact.

As a business man, the value of insurance to your estate must be apparent.

Let me have a talk with you on business insurance.

SYDENHAM LAKE RISING

And There is Now Sufficient Water for the Power Service.

Sydenham, April 15.—The water in the lake has been steadily rising, so that there is now sufficient for power. The length of light service has been extended an hour, and the power now remains on until twelve o'clock (midnight).

Matters relating to Sydenham cemetery were discussed at a meeting held in the township hall last Saturday night. H. W. Halferty acted as chairman, and R. G. Guess as secretary. New trustees of the cemetery were elected as follows: Charles Truscott, J. E. Barrett, W. J. Walker, E. B. Sills, P. H. Roberts, Charles Truscott. In making a few remarks, stated that a gravel road should be built into the cemetery from the main road. A letter from Rev. T. Leech was read regarding the building of a cement walk up Church street to the cemetery. It was the opinion of the meeting that something should be done, as the present board walk was in a bad condition. A resolution, moved by W. J. Walker and seconded by R. G. Guess, was passed, asking the township council either to build a new walk or improve the present one. The meeting was not largely attended.

The schools here closed on Thursday for the holidays, and will not reopen until Monday, the 24th. Term examinations have been going on in the high school during the past two weeks.

Mrs. J. E. Babcock, who lives southwest of the village, broke her arm on Thursday as a result of falling down stairs.

A meeting of local baseball enthusiasts was held in the township hall last Wednesday evening, when the annual business was transacted. The officers elected were as follows: President, Dr. M. Tovell; vice-president, J. H. Sedgewick; secretary, R. G. Guess; treasurer, F. Stine; and manager, S. W. Alexander. Securing a playing field was left in the hands of the executive. It is likely that a strong team will be placed in the league this year.

"Jack" Martin is erecting a frame house east of the railway station. Work on the building is going ahead well. Miss Fannie Knight is spending the week-end in Ottawa with friends. Out-of-town teachers, including Misses Edith Truscott, Ivey Lake, Marion and Kathleen Clew, are home for the Easter holidays. Mrs. Lynn, Westport, is spending a few days with her brother, A. Thompson.

Rev. R. W. Armstrong, Harrowsmith, preached in Grace Methodist church on Sunday last. George A. Pound, Kingston, is taking the services in the church this Sunday.

Impossible!

In the backwoods of America, while Leary was waxing warm in an argument, a preacher stepped up to him and said: "Don't fight, Leary. Don't you know that you should love your enemies?"

"Can't be done," said Leary, with conviction.

"Why not?"

"Well, I shot the last one just before lunch."

Expensive Game.

"Did you wife belong to that whist club where the members had to pay a fine of a cent for every word spoken?"

"She did, but I made her resign. I couldn't afford it."

ARMY RECORD OF CRIME AN ABSOLUTE SECRET

Facts About Misconduct or Bad Health Will Never Be Divulged.

Any misconduct of which you were guilty in the army can never be officially proved against you without your express permission. For the motto of the militia department of Canada is that war records are confidential between the King and the ex-soldier.

In the military records office at Ottawa there are complete confidential records on every one of Canada's 500,000 citizens who joined the army. Their health, their conduct, their share in the war, all fully documented and filed for eternity.

Naturally, this would be a mine of priceless information to insurance companies, bonding companies, banks and countless other organizations that require facts as to a man's character and health. And shortly after the army returned home, insurance companies began demanding the medical history sheets of their clients who had been overseas. These medical history sheets were a complete record of each soldier's health, including not only a most thorough original medical examination but all serious diseases and injuries he suffered during his enlistment. But the militia department ruled that this be refused the insurance companies.

The divulging of information relating to character is more sternly forbidden. Banks and bonding companies are given statements of a man's army record only on the written permission of the subject of their enquiries. In connection with character, women have actually applied to the department for clean bills of health for their fiancés, but this information has also been refused as being a breach of confidence.

One unfortunate young fellow who had been sent to prison by court martial for refusing to obey an order secured a splendid job on his release at the end of the war, and in his references gave as the date of the conclusion of his military service the date he was discharged from military prison. The company he was employed with tried to confirm his statements, and if that had been possible, they would have found out about his disgrace, which, even though it bore little or no relation to his real character, would have lost him his job.

There have been cases of people deliberately trying to ruin others on the strength of the military records. There was someone they wanted to "get," and they saw no reason why they should not be permitted to run through the man's war record to that end.

Another common effort is that made to discover whether a man has venereal disease. Even in the case of a deceased soldier, where the army had to make a financial statement to his next of kin, information as to venereal disease was never disclosed, the pay forfeited while he had the complaint being shown as otherwise disposed of.

In the army, men are peculiarly at the mercy of the government.

These confidential records at Ottawa are necessary in order to protect the government against all sorts of fraudulent claims in time to come. But it is comforting to know that they are kept in strictest confidence.

No Work To Do. There's thousands who are starving and have no work to do; Most of them have families and when the rent is due

They cannot pay the landlord for money they have none. It's time we got together for something must be done.

There's thousands who were soldiers and overseas they went. Amidst the spoils of wars four years and more were spent.

They have to go a-begging because there is no work; When in the midst of battle, these boys they did not shrink.

Stops Pain Instantly

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in two forms—a colorless, clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in extra thin plasters. Use whichever form you prefer, plasters or the liquid—the action is the same. Safe, gentle. Made in a world-famed laboratory. Sold by all druggists.
