AMBITION

The mainspring of the world's progress is ambition. You want to do something fine, you want your children to be fine, you want a fine business so you are ambitious for your children, your business and yourself. If you have sufficient self confidence, or confidence in your children and your business, the things you are ambitious for are obtainable.

Lack of confidence is a rock of ages and a stumbling block of unthinkable proportions. The merchant who lacks confidence, who is a timid advertiser, shares the fate that is meted out to the half-hearted in every walk of life. He never realizes his dreams—his ambitions become dead things.

It was so yesterday, it is so to-day, and it will be to-morrow. Advertising in the right newspaper will do the business. It will make your visions and ambitions materialize.
