MOTHER'S PRESENTIMENT SAVES CHILDREN'S LIVES

Intended to Float Down River on Raft—Strong Warning Came.

Peace River, Alta., April 28. — A presentiment of impending tragedy saved a mother and her seven children from a terrible death beneath the grinding ice wall of the loosened Smoky River early Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. William Green, of West Peace River with their seven children, all under eleven years of age, were planning to float down the Peace River behind the ice run this spring, making the trip to Great Slave Lake on a large raft that the father had constructed. The raft with its cabin and $3,000 worth of settler's effects was built on an island in midstream at the junction of the Peace and Smoky rivers with the idea of launching it as soon as the ice went out. Late Saturday evening Mrs. Green alone on the raft with her children felt a strange presentiment. Gathering up her brood she made her way across the ice to a friend's home several miles away. At four o'clock Sunday morning the waters of the Smoky river rose with a rush and the island was covered under thirty feet of ice blocks by daylight. The father returning from looking after live stock thought at first all his family had been wiped out. As it is the family has lost all its possessions. The ice jam at the junction of the Smoky and Peace rivers is of record dimensions.

F. R. Anglin, president of the "Y," acted as chairman, and a special committee of ladies from the auxiliary served refreshments. The programme included selections by McAuley's orchestra; violin solos, Miss Jean Douglas; selections, Kiwanis quartet; readings, John Smeaton; duet, Miss Pearl Nesbitt and A. Middleton; solo, S. G. ONE FIREBUG RESPONSIBLE

For the Fire in Sydenham Street Methodist Church Basement.

The police authorities and the officer from the fire marshal's department at Toronto, after making a very careful investigation, are satisfied that the mysterious fire which took place in the basement of Sydenham street Methodist church on Thursday morning, April 20th, was started by one man. When the police constables were put on the case a week ago, a couple of hours after the fire was discovered, they found foot marks in the flower beds on the William street side of the church. The flower beds, which had been recently refreshed, were badly trampled. When the foot marks were measured it was found that the boot worn by the fire bug was ten inches in length. There was a rubber heel on the boot. For a time it was thought that two men were implicated in the plot to burn the church, but this does not seem to be founded on facts. During the time that the fire marshal's officer has been in the city, some very close investigation, has taken place. The remains of the lumber, which was burned in the cellar, was looked over and the authorities are satisfied that more than three hundred feet was burned. Some of the city churches have been taking precautions against fire bugs and special watchmen are doing night duty. The authorities at Sydenham street church are taking no chances on the fire bug returning, and for that reason they have placed new screen netting on all the cellar windows.

GENERAL TURNER HERE; PRAISES 21ST BATTALION

Kingston May Well Be Proud to Erect a Memorial to it.

Lieut-General Sir Richard Turner, V.C., etc. was a visitor in the city on Thursday, being a guest of W. F. Nickle, M.P., during his short stay here. The general came solely to see his son, Cadet Turner, at the Royal Military College, who is now trying his recruit year examinations. When interviewed by the Whig, in connection with the 21st Battalion memorial which is to be erected in the near future, the general expressed pleasure concerning the project, after briefly sketching some of the fine work of this battalion, whilst he commanded the 2nd Canadian Division during 1915-16. On the Somme, Sept. 15th, 1916, the 21st had the hardest task of any of the battalions engaged in the attack, stated the general, also having around 800 casualties. "Any city which can claim a battalion for its own, with such a fine record as the 21st holds, may be indeed proud of itself," remarked the general. "And when the subscription list for the memorial opens, I will feel highly honored to be allowed to contribute my mite to such a worthy cause," the distinguished soldier concluded, with real feeling. General Turner left at noon Friday for his home. He will be present for the ceremonies in connection with the erection of the memorial.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of my dear husband, H.S.M. P. S. Flinter, D.C.M., and my two dearly loved sons, Mervyn and Brian, who were snuffed to death by fire at their home in Pembroke, on the 25th of April, 1920. Another year has passed, since my loved ones were laid to rest. They are safer in His keeping, for 'tis He who knows best, Altho' my heart is aching, for a glimpse of them to see. Am patiently waiting, when in Heaven I hope, to meet all three.

'Tis God alone, who knows the hour, I lie awake at night, And think of those three dear ones in that land so pure and bright. I would not wish for them to be on earth again. For I know that they are free from sorrow, grief and pain. Sadly missed by a loving wife and mother. April 28th, 1922.
