HUMOR PLAY WORK

ONE REEL YARNS

GENERAL ON THE LOOK-OUT Bliff had been with the Big Show ever since he was a boy.

Bliff, however, was short and dumpy and did not make much of a show in a fancy suit.

General was a bedraggled white horse. Like Bliff, he would never get anywhere because of his looks.

Then one day General suffered his first great trouble. Bliff came up to him and patted him on the neck.

So General went through his tricks all the day mechanically with his new rider.

The new horse seemed to do well, and General felt easier. Next day, however, he noticed something wrong.

The audience saw an old white horse leave his place and his rider, and trot over to the snorting horse.

"This is a put up job," said the man who was trying to hang the picture.

She huddled over folded hands like a temple virgin shivering on her knees before the thin warmth of a braiser.

Kennecott rose quickly, sat on the couch, took both her hands. 'Suppose he falls—as he will! Suppose he goes back to tailoring, and you're his wife. Is that going to be this artistic life you've been thinking about?'

'Yes.' They passed a moaning clump of trees and splashed along the wet road. He tucked her hand into the side-pocket of his overcoat.

KNAPSACK RACE Dear Sneezy: I don't think much of this spring house cleaning stuff, do you, Sneezy? Most all day I been helping round the house carrying things up to the attic that was busted and taking rugs out to the yard and beating them, and ashes and old cans and things like that. I don't see why houses can't be clean all the while and then there wouldn't be any house cleaning.
