In a small town a man is known by the things he tries to conceal.

Russia may yet have to pour oil on the troubled international waters.

As a rule, a grouch is just the triumph of a yellow streak over good nature.

It occurs to us that whatever may be the matter with the world it isn't gray matter.

The trouble is that many a man looking for an opening for his talents has his mouth open too much.

A knocker is a despicable creature and a bore unless he happens to be knocking the things you don't like.

As we remember it, Lenin didn't complain that relief shipments were a violation of Russian sovereignty.

France isn't alone in her trouble. A lot of credit men in this country know how to sympathize with her.

The headlines indicate that the list of hazardous occupations may include that of being a husband.

When one reflects on the kind of money they have one cannot blame the Russian delegates for asking for gold.

German school books do not refer to the war, probably because such reference would necessarily be painful.

Germany faces another crisis. The government cannot print paper marks fast enough to meet the demand.

Too many people in this vale of tears think they are independent just because they are habitually insulting.

After all, the only difference between a rebel and a liberator is the fact that the liberator gets away with it.

Perhaps Bryan thinks his ancestors were mud because his name has always been that, politically speaking.

A lot of people have the notion that culture consist in knowing the name of the piece on the other side of the record.

In some countries a form of salutation is to place cheek against cheek. In this country it is a form of competition.

This is the happy season—the income tax has been forgotten temporarily and it is not yet necessary to dig up vacation money.

It is difficult to understand Europe's complaints when one reads that the governments are making money as never before.

At the present rate of consumption, the movie press agents will precipitate a world shortage of adjectives within a few years.

Doubtless you have noticed that a speeder's movements are very conservative when he gets back on the job of earning his salary next day.

Gonon Doyle expects to have spirits communicating over the radio in four years. By that time everybody will have forgotten his prediction.

NEW MOTORING REGULATIONS.

Hon. F. C. Biggs is determined to make the way of the law breaking motorist as hard as he possibly can make it, and if the amendments to the Motor Vehicles Act, which he has brought forward, become law, then will come a period of greater care in driving by the automobile owners of the province.

Both of these amendments are of a drastic nature, and although the knowledge of them will tend to make motorists more careful, there is good cause for doubting their wisdom. In the first instance, as some of the opposition members of the Legislature pointed out, there is grave reason to doubt the wisdom of giving constables, many of them with limited experience, such wide power as is conferred on them by the amendment.

The second amendment mentioned above, however, is the one which is likely to bring about most protest from the car-owning public. It provides a prison term for the third offence against the Motor Vehicles Act, no matter what the offences may be.

All right-minded citizens will support the department of highways in their efforts to make travelling safe for the public, but there will not be many who will agree that this lack of discrimination is a wise thing. For some offences the motorist should be given a jail term the first time, while, for others, such as having dirty markers, parking a car an inch or two too far from the sidewalk, being behind the time allowed in securing new markers each year, prison terms are absurd.

THE CATTLE EMBARGO. The statement appearing in the press and attributed to Lord Ernie, former British minister of agriculture, in which he hints at the cause of the ban upon Canadian cattle, sheds new light upon a subject that is of interest both to the cattle industry in this country and to the consumers in Britain.

Walt Mason THE POET PHILOSOPHER

JOKING BARRED. My old friend Voistead looked so sad, I asked him, "Are you feeling bad?" And he replied, "It's pretty raw, the way they joke about my law; I'm weary of the ribald jeers of journalists and pamphleteers, of tin-horn lawyers in the courts, and all the cheaper grades of sports.

Never Take the Count. If trouble knocks you flat, it's tough, I know—but then the things for you to do is just get up again.

Observations of Oldest Inhabitant. I kin remember when slates were known as something for children to do their school work on, as well as a ticket prepared by the politicians.

These Poor Men I. "Pa, what is self-determination?" asked Clarence. "It's something a married man lets his wife do for him, son," replied Pa.

What Has Been—? Of the man who was going to simplify our eating problem by putting up feasts and banquets in tablets so we could carry them around in our vest pockets?

Oh, You Babe and Kenneth! The stock of kings has dropped! Since Europe's last big fun, but home-run kings, you bet, still make a hit with us.

Foot Questions. F. R. T. asks: "When money talks does it talk in figures of speech?" Dunno—no anything about it as it never talks to us.

This Has Us Guessing. "Speaking of styles, is there any particular one of the past you'd like to go back to?" asks Charles Lewdy. And in running over the list we have passed by the hoop skirt, the bustle,
