"It is very difficult for anyone in these times to speak concerning temperance without being misunderstood," he said. "That is, unless one is in full accord with the supporters of prohibition, but I feel that a solemn duty lies at the door of the Anglican church, the duty insisting on Christian liberty and temperance rather than prohibition."

Credit to Union For Change in School Plans

On Tuesday evening the Stonecutters' Union met and considered the clause in the Eastern daisy school plans, whereby Indiana stone was to be used in the construction of the new building. They decided to protest against this, and to advise the government at Toronto to substitute Kingston limestone.

The specifications also call for the use of Queenston stone for the steps of the building. The union is now endeavoring to have this changed to Kingston stone, so that still more employment may be given to Kingston stonecutters. It was the union which first saw the discrimination against local material and men in the specifications and which took up the question with the government. To them is due the credit for alteration in the plans.

THIS BISHOP SCORES TACTICS OF O. J. C.

He Advises Col. Hendrie to "Be a Man"—Not Wave "Big Stick."

Toronto, June 1.—Writing from Bishopthorpe, Prince Albert, Sask., Right Rev. G. E. Lloyd, Bishop of Saskatchewan, under date of May 23rd has addressed the following letter to Col. William Hendrie, president of the Ontario Jockey Club:

"I have just received through the post your seven-page circular on 'Race-track Gambling.' 'On page six I notice that you have come down to the usual 'big-stick' argument always used by those engaged in doubtful occupations: 'Other well-known organizations, etc., will be made to suffer.' 'For a body of people who claim to be the soul of sport this mean little touch is surprising. You are afraid you cannot punch the man, but, at least, you can smack his children. That was but characteristic of the Germans—they could not beat our armies, but they did take it out of the prisoners.' 'Come, Colonel, be a man, tell the directorate of the Ontario Jockey Club to play the game, but don't be mean.' 'The subject under discussion is 'race-track gambling.' It is quite open to you to call it raising thoroughbreds, but it is a low-down trick to threaten hospitals, churches, relief of the poor and such like institutions with your dollar stick, because we are going to beat you out on 'race-track gambling.'"

Among other amendments included in the bill is one providing that superannuation before the full lapse of allotted time may only occur on occasion of ill-health and incapacity. The Premier explaining that a wide-open clause might be subjected to abuse. Where superannuation for ill-health takes place the board may recall an employee upon his full recovery; if the employee does not comply with the order, his superannuation may be cut off.

The insurance requirements under the old act are reduced from $5,000 to $2,000; where an employee retires voluntarily before the time when superannuation allowance could be granted him, the sums which have been deducted from his salary shall be returned to him, with interest at 5 per cent.

OPPOSE RETIRING CIVIL SERVANTS AT SEVENTY

The Old Age Limit Does Not Find Favor in the Legislature.

Toronto, June 1.—Included in Premier Drury's superannuation bill amendments is a clause providing for compulsory retirements of civil servants at the age of 70. In the legislature, H. H. Dewar, K.C., expressed himself as diametrically opposed to the clause. Hon. Mr. Ferguson thought it needed some modification, and the premier himself said he was not exactly enamored of it, and that the government would not object if the clause were amended in committee.

Second reading of the measure, on the understanding that it would be subjected to full discussion in committee. Among other amendments included in the bill is one providing that superannuation before the full lapse of allotted time may only occur on occasion of ill-health and incapacity. The Premier explaining that a wide-open clause might be subjected to abuse. Where superannuation for ill-health takes place the board may recall an employee upon his full recovery; if the employee does not comply with the order, his superannuation may be cut off.

The insurance requirements under the old act are reduced from $5,000 to $2,000; where an employee retires voluntarily before the time when superannuation allowance could be granted him, the sums which have been deducted from his salary shall be returned to him, with interest at 5 per cent.

Another important clause, from the standpoint of the civil servant, is that which repeals the old section disqualifying his dependents from participation in funds under the Mothers' Allowance Act. Sheriffs are to be deemed employees under the act, as also are permanent staffs of permanent boards or commissions, which led Hon. Mr. Ferguson to ask if that meant employees of the Gregory Hydro Commission. Provision is also made for the extension of the provisions of the act to other employees.
