R.M.C. TABLET UNVEILED

In the College Grounds—Baccalaureate Sermon Preached in St. George's.

The closing exercises of the Royal Military College included impressive services on Sunday. At 10 a. m. a tablet was unveiled on the college grounds to the memory of all graduates who fell in action during the late war. Dean Starr officiating. The tablet is located between the eight birch trees that were planted in memory of eight cadets of the graduating class of 1910. The ceremony was attended by the entire staff of the college, the gentlemen cadets and many visitors.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Seager, Trinity College, Toronto, in St. George's Cathedral at 11 a. m. where, a special service was held by Dean Starr.

The chancel was beautifully decorated with red and white flowers provided by the graduating class and special music was rendered by the choir, the hymns being selected by the cadets. It was a full choral service and Holy Communion was celebrated, over one hundred and fifty cadets partaking. The service was most impressive and spectacular as the cadets formed two long lines in the center aisle extending from the altar rail through the chancel and down to the nave. The scarlet tunics, crimson sashes and gold braid contrasted vividly with the sombre hues of the edifice, and made the scene a brilliant one long to be remembered. In addition to this the cathedral was crowded by young ladies, garbed in the height of fashion, and whose presence was attracted by the greatest social event of the season, the June ball, that takes place this evening.

The Royal Military College staff under Major-General Sir A. C. Macdonell, the commandant, was present in full dress uniform. The cadets marched from the college under command of Major E. de L. Greenwood, staff adjutant, and presented a very fine appearance, the white helmets and scarlet tunics of pre-war days giving the battalion a very distinctive and picturesque charm that the service khaki does not have.

Dean Starr in introducing Rev. Dr. Seager who was to preach the valedictory sermon, said that many of the cadets were attending the cathedral for the last time and there was a special message for them.

Rev. Dr. Seager took for his text, Math. VI:9—"After this manner therefore pray ye: 'Our Father which art in heaven,' and emphasized the fatherhood of God revealed in the life of Christ.

"I would like anything I have to say today," said he, "to take the form of a message to the cadets and especially to those who are graduating or any who have already graduated. There comes to us in the words of the text a revelation of God's fatherhood, and the suggestion of love, obedience and loyalty. We have always assumed the fatherhood of God as a fact, but we would never have known the fatherhood of God in this sense had it not been revealed in the life and character of Jesus Christ, His Son. It is when you see Him in the character of father, in the gathering together of His disciples, and at Calvary, that you are assured. The Hebrew genius for religion never reached the height of the fatherhood of God. In the Psalms you have tender expressions of the love of God, but that is not the general impression you get from reading the new Testament. Isaiah saw God in power and might sitting upon a throne and he expresses the Hebrew thought of God in fear and dread that filled their souls. How different when you pass to the New Testament where the sole conception of Jesus Christ is 'father.' His life is obedient to the father's will as when he says: 'Into Thy hands I commend my spirit.' You and I are beckoned to enter into the eternal heritage of God where the soul lives in the atmosphere of the fatherhood of God; and when trained in the warm life of the fatherhood of God will develop a type of character like that of Christ. What Christ became through much crying and tears so can our measure according to our faith—we too shall become Christ-characters as the type of Christian character. 'We know that when He shall appear that we shall be like Him for we shall know Him as He is.' The speaker mentioned that the type of Christian mentioned was without fear for Christ showed that he possessed the power to cast out fear. To live in the love of God, is to possess all the might, wisdom and power of God, as expressed in terms of love—and beneath us are the everlasting arms. Moreover a character without fear is a character unselfish in purpose which is the key to the whole life of Christ. If we live a life with Christ we will develop the Christ-like character. It is not a weak and effeminate character, but the attainment of the highest point in heroic courage. We learn dependence upon God. Self-reliance is but nonsense, for no man or woman is fundamentally independent. Attempts at independence bring disaster and the husks of the prodigal in the parable. The noblest thing you can do is to live so close to Christ that something of His beauty and His power can come into your life. He calls you and me to life."

ONTARIO MOTHER HELPS DAUGHTER

Mothers—watch your daughter's health. From the time she reaches the age of twelve until womanhood is established she needs your care and advice. Many women have suffered years of ill-health through lack of such care during this time.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for girls and women. For nearly fifty years it has been helping mothers and daughters. Let it help you and your daughter.

Hamilton, Ontario.—"When my daughter was thirteen and until she was fifteen she suffered every month so that she could hardly move around the house and when she would have the pains in school she would have to be carried home. Both the pains and the irregularity she also had headache, dizziness and faint in her back. I saw your advertisement in the 'Hamilton Spectator' and got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for her. She does not have the least bit of trouble now, and we both recommend your medicine. She works in a candy-shop now and seems well and strong. I give you permission to publish this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. I. P. CLAUDE, 75 Walnut St., South, Hamilton, Ontario.
