A big Union Jack told the visitors of the whereabouts of the garden party given by the Y.M.C.A. auxiliary on Friday afternoon and evening in the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. J. Newman, William street, west. Mrs. W. Gill took the admission fee and the guests were received by Mrs. W. Jackson and the president, Mrs. John Wright. Around the garden is the best collection of shrubs in Kingston and many of them are now in blossom so the square of green grass had a charming background and overhead were gay flags floating in the breeze. Tea was served from a table on the verandah, where Mrs. D. A. Shaw and Mrs. H. J. Newman, Montreal, presided. A candy table was in charge of Miss Mildred Newman, Mrs. Frank S. Newman and Mrs. James Newman. At the home made table Mrs. Charles Baldwin, Mrs. S. McBride, Mrs. Rutland and Mrs. Roy Ward sold the good things, while ice cream was dispensed by Mrs. Robert Douglas, Mrs. J. E. Singleton and Mrs. G. B. Franklin. For the thirsty, there was delicious punch sold by Mrs. A. Van Luven, Miss Vera Van Luven, Miss Jean Douglas and Miss Elise Gardiner. During the evening the Y.M.C.A. quartette sang, Miss Jean Douglas played the violin and Miss Christine Douglas sang charmingly. An orchestra composed of Messrs. Madrand, Way and McKinnon kindly rendered most enjoyable music.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman

Does Your Interior Express Your Individuality? Every week brings me its quota of letters asking advice on interior decoration. "Please describe a tasteful living room," say some of these letters. "I do so want my living room to be restful and beautiful."

In reply to such letters, I am always glad to make suggestions regarding pieces of furniture which are universally accepted as having "good lines" and being "in good taste" (the gate-legged table, for instance, or the "wing-backed" fire-side chair, willow furniture with harmoniously-colored textiles used for seat and back-pads, almost any furniture in the Sheraton or Chippendale periods, etcetera). But I am always at a loss to know how to explain, to these Letter Friends, that there is a third principle of interior decoration which they have evidently overlooked.

They realize that their home-interiors should be beautiful and restful; but they do not grasp the fact that the home should also reflect the individuality of its occupants.

So, not knowing the talents or preferences of a home-maker, how can I plan a living room for her that is appropriate?

Mrs. A., for instance, may be a musician. Then the most natural thing in the world for one to find in her living room, is a picture of a great musician, or a row of "Lives of Famous Musicians" on the table held together, perhaps, by bronze book-ends of some great musician in bas-relief.

Mrs. B. is fond of traveling and has been to the Orient. What, then, is more appropriate than Chinese or Japanese tapestries, pottery or jade in her living room?

Detroit on July 3rd. The young couple will reside in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hughes, 312 Brock street, Kingston, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Laura Burnedette, to James Joseph Amo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Amo, Gananoque, the marriage is to take place the latter part of July.

Mr. and Mrs. Washington Graham have returned from Kingston, where Mr. Graham attended the Grand Black Chapter of British America. On their return to Carp they spent a few days with Mrs. E. Byington, Portland on the Rideau.

What the Editor Hears

That the triennial dominion convention of The King's Daughters opened in Vancouver on June 21st with a good attendance.

That the children are looking forward with joy to the 1 cent day at Lake Ontario Park. One of the happiest sights in Kingston is that of the children and their parents enjoying the healthful pleasures of this fine resort.

That thirty thousand Canadian girls-in-training will attend camps organized under this fine movement. Three thousand workers are in charge of the camps, which in Ontario alone will have five hundred girls under canvas.

That frocks of cotton crepes, embroidered in bright colors, are much worn at the seaside and summer resorts.

That we are always glad to hear from the women's institutes.

That it is easy enough to have a sand pile in the yard for the kiddies, even if you can't go to the seaside.

That newest Paris summer frocks are accompanied by little hip length capelets of matching fabric and trimming, mere little wisps of cloth that hang from the shoulders at back and often replace the fur scarf which has so often completed the summer costume of late.

That the trip among the islands is beautiful now, the vivid green of the grass and trees enhancing their loveliness.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JUNE 25-26TH.

Sunday's horoscope presages some hurried though important change of journey, which should prove of benefit if it be engineered with wisdom and precaution as regards financial outlay and also with consideration for the health.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of change, but they should safeguard the finances and attend to the health. A child born careless and unsettled unless carefully trained early in life.

Monday's astrological forecast is

Mrs. C. is the wife of a writer. In her living room one expects to find some evidence of the interest in things literary which her husband's talent would naturally awaken — pictures of great writers, their books, book-ends bearing the face of an author, and mementoes picked up at the birthplace of some great author.

Mrs. D. is studying arts and crafts and samples of her handwork would naturally be everywhere; on the table lies a hand-woven runner of silk, on the mantel stands a piece of her own basketry, and the shade on the droplight is perhaps one of parchment or pierced-metal which she has made.

As I said above, our home-interiors should reflect ourselves. Let us live among things that interest us! Let us not buy a certain piece of furniture or a certain ornament because the clerk in some store recommended it, or because "everybody else has one." Let us buy it because we like it! Otherwise we are all like sheep, following some other person's tastes, not our own.

As I once heard a professional interior decorator exclaim, "For goodness sake, if a woman has any individuality, why doesn't she let her home-interior proclaim the fact!"

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question — The Editor.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of a rather quiet year, with affairs running along in the routine manner. The Lunar sextile to Mercury is the only aspect, and this makes for fair activity in all commercial and professional matters.
