Just another day and a half to wait, and then the fans of Kingston will be all set for the big game on Saturday afternoon...

You say you never heard of the Kingston Stars? Well, few local fans were much wiser than you, until a short time ago...

That senior baseball in Kingston, even with Ponies split up, is no idle dream, is the honest and unanimous opinion of the organizers behind the "Stars"...

The K. of C. will bring their strongest team, and the visiting players need no introduction to Kingston fans. Is any further comment necessary?

ROYAL CANADIAN YACHTSMEN

To Sail on Lake St. Louis in Dinghy Regatta.

The invitation extended to the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto by the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, Montreal, to sail in a dinghy regatta on Lake St. Louis has been accepted by the former club and Saturday, July 29th has been fixed as the date on which the two clubs will meet.

It will be the first time in the history of yachting that these two foremost Canadian clubs have been able to arrange an inter-club race and there is no doubt that it is a big step forward in the development of the sport in the Dominion.

The arrangements are that the Royal Canadian Yacht Club will send two dinghy crews to Montreal and they will sail in two of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club's fleet of dinghies, it not being considered necessary to go to the trouble of sailing two craft from Toronto as both clubs sail the same type of boat.

LITTLE BITS.

Erigerio, of Italy, won the 3,000 and 10,000 metre walks in the last Olympic games.

At Montreal, Leroy Rennie, Toronto, defeated P. C. Hart in the provincial tennis championship.

The big game on Saturday will break the ice for senior baseball in Kingston, and the fans will be happy once again.

The Lake Views will probably withdraw from the Inter-county league, as the game with Wolfe Island was not played on Wednesday afternoon.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French tennis star, has definitely and finally decided to play through the singles at the Wimbledon tournament and that under no circumstances would she default any match.

Not content with winning the British open golf championship, Wally Hagen boarded a ship immediately after the cessation of play at Sandwich, and is now enroute to Chicago, where he will prepare for the United States open tournament.

BLACK SOX PLAY IN DISGUISE

Risberg, Weaver and Jackson Discovered Near New York on Semi-Pro Team.

Three of the Chicago White Sox players in the world series three years ago, with the Cincinnati Reds, exiled from organized baseball following investigation and trial on charges that they connived with gamblers and "throw" the series, have been discovered barnstorming in and near New York City, playing under fictitious names in games in which money is wagered and in which, more often than not, they, by their surpassing ability, can achieve a victory.

They are Joe Jackson, "Buck" Weaver and "Swede" Risberg. These baseball outcasts are in the employ of a prominent New York restaurant and cafe owner, and earning, as best they can, a livelihood on the diamond. But such is their situation that their best is linked with the intrigues of gamblers and unscrupulous promoters. Their unkempt uniforms, false insignia and sometimes unmatched stockings, together with their assumed names are intended to serve the purpose of disguise, so that wagers on the teams playing against them will not be so difficult to induce as they would be did the rival team's backers know they were wagering on sandlotters to defeat late stars of the major leagues.

Jackson, Weaver and Risberg have been operating in New Jersey for six weeks or more. Baseball rivalry is intense among small town teams and among semi-professional teams of some of the cities of the State. The star trio has been able to get in three games a week; one Saturday and a Sunday "double-header," regularly, and occasionally a mid-week or holiday date has helped out. A hundred dollars a game is the least any one of the three has been paid thus far, it is said, and Jackson is reported to be getting $150 for some of his appearances, and doubling that sum by wagering the whole of it.

OLYMPUS CAN BEAT.

Either Morvich or Whiskaway, Whitney's Stableman's Opinion. "Whiskaway beat Morvich easily, but I believe that his stablemate, Olympus, can beat either of them, and that coming races will demonstrate the fact."

That is the opinion of James Rowe, Jr., who, with his father, James Rowe, has charge of the stable of H. P. Whitney, from which came the runner that defeated the hitherto unbeaten Morvich.

Rowe does not entertain a high opinion of the crop of three-year-olds now racing. He says: "The three-year-olds running to-day are just an average lot."

"There is none of them that can be compared to Colin, Sysonby or Man o' War."

"True, some of them stand out from the rest, but not like the wonder horses of the past did."

"Morvich won the derby, but there was no class to the field he beat."

"Whiskaway won over Morvich, but there was nothing remarkable in the performance."

"The public in enthusing over the present day horses forgets or does not know what a great improvement has been made in the race tracks."

"Why the old tracks were like plowed fields in comparison with those of to-day."

"Contending against such conditions, the wonder horses of the past displayed phenomenal stamina and speed."

"At Saratoga, Colin, after going a mile, went the next quarter in twenty-three seconds, when pressed. "Yet to-day, if a sprint horse does six furlongs in 1.10, he is considered to be an exceptionally fast horse."

Races Spoiled.

The programme of races that was to have been run off on the Lansdowne track on Tuesday was interrupted by the downpour of rain and the Kingston horses entered did not start. There was much disappointment for many wanted to see Dictum Murphy in the 2.25 pace. This Kingston pacer is increasing
