About Kingston's Pageant. It was expected that C. Ross, one of the directors of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, would be in the city on Monday afternoon on business, and several local gentlemen interested in the pageant at Kingston next year to celebrate the 250th anniversary of the city, stated on Monday morning that they intended to have a talk with him.

Mr. Ross is intimately acquainted with the annual pageant at the exhibition in Toronto, and Major-Gen. Sir A. C. Macdonell, Mayor Corbett, and J. M. Campbell were anxious to discuss with him some plans they have in mind.

Two Auto Collisions. There were two minor accidents in the city on Sunday evening, resulting in slight damage to the motors concerned, but no injuries to the occupants.

The first one occurred about eight o'clock at Bagot and Brock streets, when an auto smashed the front fender of the car. A few minutes later, two cars came together at the corner of Princess and Montreal streets. The one car was driven by a woman, who turned rather sharply off Montreal, and collided with the other one, which was going up Princess. Very little damage was suffered by either car.

Letters to the Editor

Corporation Taste. Kingston, July 17.—(To the Editor): Some days ago when on my way to Portsmouth church with a member of my family we both remarked on the beauty of the Hawthorn hedge on the south side of Union street between Centre street and Livingston avenue, which a few weeks ago was a perfect picture in bloom.

These bushes were well inside the concrete walk and in no way interfered with its use. Yesterday we passed the same place and we noticed that some barbarian had made a clean sweep of every bush and even went as far as Livingston avenue to complete his work.

One can hardly imagine a sane man being guilty of such vandalism, and I wonder who is responsible for the job. The shrubs added to the beauty of the street. If the corporation would employ their men cutting down the unsightly weeds that fringe our streets three feet high on the opposite side of the road or use their men and money in repairing the streets, no one could or should complain. What I am now complaining of seems to be simply a piece of work for which a lunatic only should receive credit. Yours truly,

J. B. WALKER.

Boy! Page Mr. Einstein

THE shortest distance between a seller and a buyer is a straight line. If there is any shorter, let us page Mr. Einstein and ask him about it.

In advertising, the Daily Newspaper is the most direct line possible, and the customer you seek keeps the kinks out of it. He sees that he gets his newspaper at the earliest possible moment. He is not satisfied to wait until the postman delivers something that has been "directed" to him at his home address.

When the daily newspaper passes into the reader's hands, it is expected, welcomed and read. It has his interest before it even gets to him. He will complain loudly to the news dealer if an issue escapes him. He will stand in the heat and the cold while the news boy fumbles for change. When the delivery brings the daily paper to a home, it is taken in eagerly by someone.

Did anyone ever telephone your office to complain that your circular or form letter had not arrived? Have you ever noticed men waiting in line for the postman to deliver your printed matter? Have you ever seen the daily newspaper flipped off the desk or the supper table while second class mail is read to the family? Until you have, let us be honest and distinguish between "direct" advertising and printed matter "directed" to your address.
