FRANCE WANTS STOCK IN FIRMS OF GERMANY

The Only Way It Will Accede to Request For a Moratorium.

Paris, July 22.—With definite developments in the reparations situation not expected until the middle of next week because of the delay in the presentation of the report of the committee on guarantees, possible solutions of the problem are being discussed in reparations commission and official circles.

In French quarters it is strongly indicated that France will not consent to a moratorium unless a most rigid control of German finances is instituted and measures are adopted which would insure payment in cash at the end of the breathing space.

In certain French circles the suggestion which has met with considerable approval provides that Germany be forced to hand over a certain number of shares of German industrial companies which are now known to be extremely prosperous and paying large dividends.

One the other hand in British and Italian circles the moratorium has gained favor more and more. Belgium, it is said, will consent to a respite if it is only accompanied by the most rigid guarantee on future payments. The impression is constantly gaining ground that a settlement of the reparations question in an all-inclusive manner must be made sooner or later by the Allies.

The question of allied debts and reduction of the total indemnity with payment over a certain number of years remains a puzzle to observers, since French opinion favors a postponement of a general settlement to a much later date.

Why He Wished to Go Back.
An Austrian who had gone suddenly insane in 1913 and had been confined in an asylum near Vienna, blissfully ignorant of the war and of the revolution, was recently discharged as cured. To celebrate he hired a cab and had himself driven to the Prater. Upon arrival the cabman demanded eighteen thousand kronen. The cured man paled and grew faint. "This is terrible," he said tremblingly. "I did not dream of such extortion. I've only a twenty-kronen piece with me." The driver stared at the gold coin, but answered honestly enough. "That is all right. You get 18,000 kronen in change." The cured man was terrified. "Here, take it all," he said.

said, "and drive me back to the asylum."

Important Disclosure.
"John," said his young wife, "have you any secrets you keep from me?"
"Why, no," he replied, wondering what in the world was coming.
"Then I am determined I will have none from you."
"You have secrets, then?"
"Only one, and I am resolved to make a clean breast of it. I'm afraid it will disturb you, John."
"Go on," he said hoarsely.
"For several weeks I have had a secret, John—a secret longing for a new dress, with hat to match."

New Hatchery at Glenora.
Pictou, July 22.—The Ontario fishery department has secured property at Lake-on-Mountain at Glenora to establish a fish hatchery. A succession of tanks down the bank supplied by water from the lake, which is declared by officials of the department as the best water available, will make this a modern plant.
