HEARD LADY TWINING
IN THE CATHEDRAL

She Was a Favorite Kingston Singer in the Days Gone By.

St. George's Cathedral was filled to the doors on Friday evening when Lady Twining, England, and R. R. F. Earver, the cathedral organist, gave a recital of sacred music. Lady Twining, who was Miss Louise Daly of Nanpance before she married the late Sir Geoffrey Twining of Halifax, was a favorite soloist in Kingston when her husband was Major Twining of the Royal Military College and her beautiful mezzo soprano voice has gained, not lost in beauty and sweetness, in the years that have passed. After Mr. Harvey had opened the splendid programme with an organ number, "Ave Maria," (Bach-Gounod), which is a favorite with the public, Lady Twining sang "The Ninety and Nine," (Camplon), to an organ accompaniment no less beautiful than the song, her clear enunciation and the verve and ease with which she sings, being a delight. Her other numbers were "The Blind Ploughmen" (Coningsby-Clark) in which the singer's excellent lower register showed to advantage and her sympathetic rendering of this beautiful song was one of the gems of the programme. Gounod's "There is A Green Hill Far Away" which was a favorite song when Lady Twining sang here before; "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears From Their Eyes" Sullivan and an exquisite setting of the 137th Psalm, "By the Waters of Babylon," by Howell, and "Abide With Me," (Liddell). Mr. Harvey's numbers were "My Heart, At Thy Sweet Voice" (Sally-Saens) and by request, "In a Monastery Garden" (Ketealby), the singing of the birds, the chanting of the monks, being most realistic. "Serenade" (Wilder) Wheldon's "Nocturn" different and both gems, and then "The Eel King," Schubert's great descriptive song, played magnificently. The story of the child lured away into the dark forest by the sweet song of the evil spirit, its mad terror, and its cry for its father, were, to those who knew the story, interpreted upon the cathedral organ. By request Lady Twining sang an old favorite of her Kingston friends, "A Song of Trust," with exquisite sweetness and sympathy and then the audience rose and sang the hymn, "The Day Thou Gaest," and God Save the King, filling the great church with their voices with fine effect.

SEE WHERE COAL PINCH AFFECTS GRAIN TRADE

Fort William Has Enough Coal to Last Till Middle of October.

Fort William, July 22.—In keeping with other parts of Canada, Fort William district is beginning to see where the coal pinch will come. A careful survey of hard and soft coal stocks here show that there is enough of these sorts to last until about the middle of October. The efforts of local dealers to secure shipments from Buffalo, and other lower lake ports have failed of results. And both merchants and users are feeling the pinch of a famine. Usually this is when the great coal docks and storage plants are laying in reserves for the fall and winter demands, the time when lake vessels are occupied with the grain movement. But only two small cargoes are on hand since the opening of navigation and these were only soft coal. Some Alberta soft coal is coming in by rail, but this is an edible quantity and below the heavy requirements of this lake port. Consequently unless the Harding order is effective and the miners resume a quantity production basis, the outlook is for a famine that will affect trade in various ways.

His subject will be "The Growth of Canadian Autonomy in the Empire. Although all the other conference leaders are United States citizens, questions touching the British Empire will be widely discussed.

Miraculous Cures At Ste. Anne De Beaupre

Quebec, July 22.—Le Soleil publishes today the story of two young girls from the United States who have been miraculously cured at Ste. Anne de Beaupre. Emma Desrosiers, four years old, of Greenville, Mass., could not walk and it is reported that while visiting at Ste. Anne with her parents she went to kiss the relics at the holy table and immediately regained the use of her legs. The other girl, Nora McCarthy of Holyoke, Mass., was also miraculously cured of infantile paralysis.

The Redemptorist Fathers, questioned about these two cures, have confirmed the news, but declared that they had not given it any publicity for six months, as is the custom in such cases.

Frontenac's Fine Oat Crop.

Mr. Monaghan, Wellington, is engaged in judging the field crops of Frontenac entered in the field crop competition in connection with the Kingston fair. The entries are one hundred per cent. over those of last year, due to the interest stimulated through the fair. Mr. Monaghan says that Frontenac can well boast of its oat crop, which is the finest he has seen this year in any part of the province.
