

THE COUNTRY BEYOND

BY JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD. $2.00.

It is the story of a new section of the North Country; and of the cleanest souled outlaw you will find anywhere in fiction the amiable bandit Jolly Roger, who is first, last and all the time a thorough-bred sportsman in playing the game of life and death with the Royal Northwest Mounted. It's the curious story of one sportsman's grim pursuit of another; and each loves and admires the other. And also the story of Nada, a girl around whose faith in a bandit the plot is woven.

GAVE INTERESTING TALK FAR TOO MANY YOUNG PRISONERS IN THE "PEN"

Rotarian Howard Kelly Tells Members About Local Picture Frame Industry. Action Will Likely Be Taken Following Visit of Solicitor-General.

An interesting address on "Picture Frames," by Rotarian Howard Kelly, featured the weekly luncheon of the Kingston Rotary Club, held at the British-American hotel on Friday. Rotarian Kelly was asked to speak under his own classification at the club, and his talk provided some interesting information for his fellow members of the club. In the absence of the president Leman A. Guild, who was out of the city, the chair was occupied by the vice-president, A. N. Lyster. There was a fairly good attendance. Rev. Taylor Dale, who has been holidaying in Uncle Sam's domains, was given a warm welcome.

As is well-known, Rotarian Kelly is engaged in Kingston in the manufacture of picture frames. The industry, as he pointed out, is one of the "baby industries" in the city. It was started about eighteen months ago, and some predicted that it was an industry that would not last very long, but in spite of the hard times, the concern is making things go. It is employing from seventeen to twenty hands, and in the first nine months the firm turned out and shipped between 42,000 and 45,000 picture frames.

The speaker pointed out that in 1919, one firm in Chicago had turned out and disposed of 350,000 frames, and the speaker felt that there was a great opportunity for the manufacture of frames in Kingston, and to secure a portion of this business. While business at the start was not very brisk, the firm had been able to live up to its agreement, and the prospects for the future were very encouraging. At the present time, the firm had about 3,000 frames on order. The company had about 5,000 feet of floor space on starting and had added about 3,000 feet the first year, and there was every chance of the firm making still greater expansion. The firm had a pay roll of $1,000 to $1,200 per month.

Rotarian Kelly had several samples of the picture frames turned out by this Kingston industry and they were shown to the members of the club. Some weeks as many as 2,000 frames were turned out, crated and shipped.

Since starting in business, between 70,000 and 80,000 frames had been shipped out of the city, and something the local concern had good reason to be proud of, was the fact that not one complaint had been received about the frames turned out. The firm had recently added machinery to its plant for the turning out of mouldings. At the present time, the firm had an order from Toronto for 1,000 feet of moulding.

Following the address which was listened to with keen interest, Rotarian Nash moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, and it was carried amidst loud applause. Rotarian Nash paid a warm tribute to Rotarian Kelly for his business activity, and also for the able service he was rendering Kingston in the city council. Rotarian Nash said that he felt that Kingston was now making an advance along industrial lines, and he believed that all that was required to bring success, was that every citizen do his "bit" to help things along.

Secretary Roy Ward referred to the picnic held last week at Collins Lake, when the members of the club were the guests of Mayor Corbett. Everyone was agreed that the outing was a most enjoyable one.

Rotarian Bert Abernethy reported on the big excursion the club is holding next Monday night to Clayton. A big time is in store for all who attend. The Rotarians and their friends are expected to turn out in goodly numbers. Citizens are invited to take in the trip, and have a good time. There will be an orchestra on board, and an hour will be spent at Clayton, and there will be music there for all desiring to dance.

The members of the club were delighted to hear from Rotarian Rex Snellgrove, who has been, as he explained in his letter, "in the wilds of Quebec." The letter was read by Rotarian J. J. Stewart, and created much amusement. Rex also sent the club a very interesting souvenir, which speaks volumes for his stay in Quebec.

During the club's snappy roll call, Thomas F. Downing, Wheeling, West Virginia, and W. J. Regan, Toronto, were introduced as guests, and given a warm welcome by the chairman and members of the club.

BARN WAS DESTROYED; HIT BY LIGHTNING

William Dixon, Living Near Battersea, Suffered a Loss.

During a storm on Thursday night, a barn belonging to William Dixon, living about two miles from Battersea, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed. Between thirty and forty tons of hay were consumed. Mr. Dixon was just about to put some of his cattle in the barn when the building was hit by lightning. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Miss Mary Catherine Yourex passed away on Thursday at the home of her niece, Mrs. A. R. Vandervoort, Belleville. Deceased was born in Tyendinaga eighty-five years ago. She was of U. E. Loyalist descent. R. S. Foster, Lanark, died suddenly last Friday. He was born in the county in 1855. A widow, four sons and two daughters survive.

Hon. D. D. McKenzie, solicitor-general, in the King government, was in the city on Thursday, and paid an official visit to the Portsmouth penitentiary. Hon. Mr. McKenzie is head of the clemency branch of the department of justice, and has special supervision of the administration of the parole law. He has visited all of the penitentiaries since assuming office, beginning at British Columbia. Special attention is being given to young prisoners, as it has been persistently stated that the penitentiaries are crowded with young offenders that were not intended to be confined in the federal institutions. Some action is likely to be taken as a result of the inspection of the solicitor-general, with a view to relieving the present situation and to benefiting the inmates. During the past two years, it was found necessary to double up the inmates in cells designed for but one person and this is contrary to the regulations.

Letters to the Editor

I don't know of any nation that will ever dare attack us again.—Lloyd George.

Methodist Parsonage, Elginburg, Aug. 3.—(To the Editor): Seeing your quotation of a speech of the Prime Minister of Great Britain predicting another terrible war that may be possible, one has to ask himself this question: What has become of the once famous confident and boasting Lloyd George and his famous quotation, which heads this letter, made while still breathing the triumphant atmosphere of the Great Victory of 1918, over the foulest conspiracy ever attempted against the liberty of the world; what has caused the once confident Prime Minister of Great Britain, to lose faith in our Mighty God of a thousand victories, to utter such a dismal foreboding, as mentioned in your paper. It seems incredible that such an utterance should have ever come from the lips of a man, who once uttered such triumphant language.

Lloyd George has lost faith in God he has allowed the miserable and execrable enemies of the British empire to blur and cloud his vision, and hence to lose sight of that stimulating, never forgettable victory, which made the Huns say to our General, We are completely exhausted. Further is not such a fearful dread of another war, an insult to the memory of our gallant heroes who made the supreme sacrifice in the consciousness that our righteous God would never allow such a sacrifice to be trampled under the feet of our enemies.

The same God is with us to-day, to defend our glorious empire. The aftermath of the great storm has not completely subsided, and a little patience, and firmness and the days of calm and prosperous peace are upon us. Surely our history, Mr. Editor, is too glorious to allow the haters of the empire to cloud our vision of the mighty past, and to try and make us believe we cannot hold this great heritage for the unborn generations which are yet to come. We went into that war with unstained hands; we came out of that war with unstained hands. It produced a race of the greatest heroes and women that the world ever saw; we have not surrendered to the enemy, we have no intention of surrendering. Surely despotism will never dare to venture to raise her scepter and turn us back to the dark ages again. The spirit of the gallant men who made the supreme sacrifice speaks to us loudly to-day to still be men and carry on, for the protection of the widows and orphans and the cripples of this awful war. The British empire saved the world from destruction, she has been raised to her proud position by the Almighty, to be the great custodian of the world's liberty, and the councillor of the nations, and we say to Lloyd George "You are wrong sir; there will be no more terrible war while our glorious empire holds, fast and keeps her name unsullied and freed from the chains of slavery."

—JOHN PUTTENHAM.

MANY PARTIES AT T. I. YACHT CLUB

Over Forty Attended Children's Party Which Was Held on Thursday.

Entertaining at the Thousand Islands Yacht club, Alexandria Bay, grows more popular each day as the climax of the season is nearing. Thursday the children's party was given there, to which assembled about 40 of the junior members of society.

One of the interesting parties recently given there was one of a series of bridges, luncheons at which Mrs. Frederick Conde, Enchanted Island, was the hostess. The luncheon was given in honor of Mrs. Conde's guests, Mrs. E. C. Walker, New York. In the party, besides the hostess and guest of honor were Mrs. James H. Hammond, Mrs. C. M. Englis, Mrs. C. E. Johnson, Mrs. Alfred Costello, Mrs. John W. Butler, Mrs. M. C. Rogers, Mrs. W. Langdon Hayden, Mrs. Edward Alexander Pittcairn, Mrs. Harold Jaycox, Mrs. J. P. McPartland, Mrs. George C. MRS. E. H. WEST'S STATEMENT.

She Has an Action on Hand Against Conscience. With respect to the recent statement of M. Conscience Mrs. E. H. West, 15 Stephen street, made the following reply on Friday: "I take exception to the whole statement. Mr. Conscience in his remarks has made it appear that my daughter is a loose woman, hanging around street corners looking for men, whereas she is the victim of circumstances which were premeditated.

"I resent most strongly allegations against the morality of any member of our family and I am prepared to compare records with his by any public investigator when his intrigue may be fully shown for public judgment. Indeed, I have a charge of seduction, with claim for damages, pending in court; and when the case is heard his record and letters he has written will be broadcasted. Until that time I am not going to wash dirty linen before the public but I can state with absolute assurance that any allegations and aspersions he makes are untrue.

"His claim for public sympathy is unjustifiable, as I can prove that he returned to the city, not to put wrongs right, but because he believed that his wife had committed suicide and I would allow him to marry my daughter."
