ALL READY FOR GREAT CAMPAIGN

" Billle " Hughes Announces That He Will Soon Be Ready for Work.

In a letter to a member of the Whig's aporting staff, "Billie" Hughes, the efficient and popular little trainer of the Queen's University Athletes, announces that, after a summer of varied experiences, he is in shape to start in on the long winter training work again and that he has received instructions to report at Kingston on September 15th.

"Billie's" motto for coming season is "Championship Condition All The Time" and he intends to do his best to make the teams live up to that motto. He has been travelling around the various schools for training this summer and has picked up the very latest discoveries of those who make a careful study of training. These new slants, backed up by "Billie's" long experience and his inimitable way of handling the boys, will make the Queen's athletes second to none in the line of opportunities to get into and stay in condition this coming season.

According to the popular little trainer the Sault hockey team will be a strong one this coming winter and there is little truth in all the stories about weaknesses in that direction. From private information contained in his letter, we should judge that the Sault will be stronger than it has been in years. All the old players will be on deck and there are a few new ones who will make the hockey world sit up and take notice this coming winter, not the least of them being "Jack" Woodruff, former Queen's player, and Stan. Brown the great Varsity man,

It will not be long now before the Queen's players will be trooping in and then his friends in the city can expect to see "Billie" on the job again with the same old grin and the same old pep.
