Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin and there is only one safe and sure way, and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of peroxide powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition—anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should try this simple method.'

Mrs. C. L.: "Gelatin Ice Cream:—A tablespoon (more or less) of gelatine dissolved in one-half cup of milk, added to every half-gallon of cream, will make ice cream "stand up" like the manufactured product."

Mrs. L. B.: "My Grapejuice Recipe:—I used to take a 'week off,' almost, to make grapejuice every year, but now I make it as follows: Into a quart fruit jar put one cup of grapes picked off the stem—washed and dried, of course. Add one-half cup of granulated sugar, then fill the jar full of actively boiling water and seal airtight. I roll the cans around a moment, until the sugar is dissolved, and then turn them upside-down so as to be sure they do not leak. When they are cool, I store them in my fruit closet. I've never had a can spoil, although I was very skeptical at first. The juice is ready to use in a couple of weeks, but it can be kept indefinitely and will be found most beautifully clear and fine in flavor. And it is so easy to put up! One can do one can at a time whenever a cup of grapes is available. If you use more than one cup of sugar to a quart, it will be too sweet. I use Concord grapes, but it makes a fine change to have a few jars of other varieties also. Here is another recipe:

My Cake: Into one cup of sugar, stir one teaspoon of butter, then beat in one egg until the mixture foams. Now put one-half teaspoon of soda into one cup of milk, and when the soda is dissolved add this mixture to the above-given mixture. Then add enough flour to make a regular cake consistency, using one teaspoon of baking powder with the flour. Any desired seasoning may be used, but I find that grated nutmeg makes a good change. Men-folks who are utterly sick and tired of rich frosted cakes, will appreciate this one. Bake in loaf form, for 40 minutes in a moderate oven."

B. P. E.: "A Recipe for Removing Wall Paper: This hint may help women who would like to try papering their own rooms. I use a spray pump. It is a big help in removing old wall paper. Make a paste somewhat thinner than that used for pasting on the paper, and spray this paste onto the wall very hot. The paper will scrape off easily—indeed, it will almost fall off, unless unusually strong glue was used in pasting the paper on originally. The reason for using a flour-and-water paste instead of just plain water, is that the water alone is apt to evaporate too quickly. Also, clear water does not have the soaking effect that paste has. Do not make the paste too thick or it will not be able to go through the nozzle of the spray pump."
