ALL IS IN READINESS FOR THE KINGSTON FAIR

The Exhibit and the Attractions Will Be the Greatest Yet Offered.

A meeting of the directors of the Kingston Industrial Agricultural Society was held on Saturday evening for the purpose of hearing reports and completing plans for the Kingston Fair which opens here on Sept. 19th and will continue to the 23rd. A. E. Weller, first vice-president, occupied the chair, and there was a full attendance of the directors. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed and much satisfaction was expressed over the success of R. J. Bushell, secretary and manager, in securing splendid attractions. His report was heartily concurred in.

In addition to the usual purely agricultural features, such as contained in the prize lists, and which place the Kingston fair on a high plane among the agricultural fairs of the province, there will be attractions for all classes of citizens. The executive approved the suggestion to meet the requirements of all classes in the way of entertainment by having merchants' day, farmers' day, citizens' day and children's day. Thursday, the third day, is expected to be the biggest of all and Hon. Manning Doherty, Ontario minister of agriculture, has been invited to deliver an address.

The number of entries in the various classes of competitions is already large, in the live stock as well as in field crops, grain, roots, fruits, dairy products, but a resolution was passed extending the time for entries to Saturday, September 16th. The exhibition of cheese is attracting much attention, and the prizes offered amount to $200. There are 840 cheese factories in Ontario and as seventy-five per cent. of them are located in Eastern Ontario, the display is expected to be a notable one. D. G. Laddlaw donated $125 for cheese prizes.

One of the educational features this year will be a child's welfare clinic that is coming from the Toronto exhibition under special arrangements made by Mr. Buchell. Mr. Dushell has also secured an aeroplane service which will operate during fair week. The World of Mirth Shows which will compose the midway will consist of twenty separate marvelous features designed to please everybody.

There will be horse races every afternoon for which purses amounting to $3,000 are offered. Every effort has been made to give the spectators high-class racing and each year has seen a constant improvement in the character of the fair races until they are now recognized as superb. The grand stand will be occupied by three bands, the Gansnoque band for two days, the P.W.O. band two days and the R.C.H.A. band one day.

The various committees chairman were appointed as follows: Horse, J. B. Baxter, Edward Bradden; cattle, A. E. Franklin, Colin Rogers; James Henderson; swine and sheep, Thomas Doyle, J. A. Wilson; vegetables and fruit, Arthur Day, B. Lancaster; dairy, B. Cooke, H. C. Orser; grain, J. S. Sibbett; ladies' work, J. L. F. Sproule, A. E. Weller; superintendent of grounds, H. J. Simpson, H. C. Orser; poultry, Benjamin W. Whitney.

Mr. Simpson is engaged in superintending the work on the buildings and grounds and he reported hearty co-operation on the part of the city aldermen. He complained of the condition of the grounds and buildings necessitating considerable expenditure. "You can't leave a thing loose up there, but somebody will steal it," said Mr. Simpson. "We had some lumber looked up in our office building, but it is all gone. Somebody broke the lock on the door and stole the lumber." Mr. Simpson and Mr. Orser will have charge of the employment of constables and mounted guards.

The directors present were: J. L. F. Sproule, Thomas Doyle, A. C. Day, James Henderson, E. Cooke, E. Bradden, Colin Rogers, H. J. Simpson, A. E. Franklin, H. C. Orser, J. S. Sibbett, B. Lancaster, A. E. Weller, Robert J. Bushell.

AT THE POLICE COURT.

Two Week-end Tipplers Before the Magistrate.

When Thomas Shields appeared before Magistrate Farrell, on Monday morning, charged with being intoxicated, he stated that he had been drinking lemon extract, and named a local grocery store as the place where he had secured the lemon, but a lady from the store was called to the police station, and giving evidence, swore that Shields was in the shop about 10 o'clock on Saturday night, but that he was intoxicated, and that she had refused to sell him a bottle. Shields said he had been working hard and did not feel very well, and had an idea that lemon extract would do him good. The case was enlarged a couple of days. Thomas Donohue was also up for being intoxicated. His explanation was that he met a couple of men who stopped off in Kingston over the week-end, on their way from Montreal to Toronto. The visitors had a bottle and shared it with "Tom." The accused denied securing lemon extract at a local place.

Dumons and Prunes. And other better quality plums expected every morning this week at Carnovsky's.
