Rugby Squad Got First Heavy Stuff on Saturday Afternoon.

On Saturday afternoon the senior rugby squad at Queen's settled down to business and held the first heavy workout of the season. Previous to that the practises, while conditioning and hard enough to keep up with, did not involve going at it hammer and tongs. About ewenty-three or twenty-four players were on hand and they played and drilled steadily for a couple of hours. It is not a question this year of digging up and developing new material, but more one of placing the fine material available to the best possible advantage. George Awrey has the most beautiful field in Canada to arrange this year and should prove equal to the occasion.

It is no longer any doubtful matter that "Red" Batstone will be at een's this fall. Lou Marsh wrote his obituary—so far as Toronto rugby goes this season-in Sunday's Star, and when that happens the news can generally be taken as official. Toronto has certainly given him a great old sendoff but Kingston-always a little conservative, will wait until it sees him perform before passing any comments. The team this year has a choice from McKelvey, Batstone, Leadley, Harding, Campbell, Wilson (Petrolea last year), Muirhead, Lewis, Adams, Airth, Saylor, Veale, Walker, Mundell. Thomas, Evans, Nickle, and many others. The question asked around town, unaccustomed to so much ready-made material, is what are they going to do with them all?

We'll just sit back and see and the process will be an enjoyable one.

They'll Get There.

Limestones are keeping right at it, and that statement means a lot when you know what they are doing to back it up. Every night a big squad of the young rugby aspirants of the city gather on the cricket field in their classy uniforms and then practice starts, real practice, with hard knocks given and taken and the boys enjoying it all the time.

On Saturday Kingston's rugby season is inaugurated with the meeting of the Limestones and R.M.C. at the stadium in an exhibition game. Everybody knows that the cadets are a hard proposition at their worst and would be hard had they very little knowledge of the game. But they always have that down to a nicety and in training for them the city team management has not neglected to give them full credit for all their abilities.

The game will be some old battle and will draw big crowds.

13 Unlucky for Bentley. Jack Bentley had bad luck after winning his thirteenth straight for Baltimore. Acting Manager Otis Lawry sent him in to relieve Groves at Reading with several runs to the good, and then he allowed four runs the next thing, losing the game.
