A QUIET HALLOWE'EN; POLICE HAD NO TROUBLE

The "kiddies" held high carnival on the Street Tuesday Night.

While a number of pranks were pulled off, the police stated on Wednesday morning, that no report of any serious damage having been done, had been received, as a result of the Halloween celebration.

The "kiddies" had a grand time. They "dressed up" in various costumes made the rounds of the city, and came home with money, nuts, apples and sweets of all kinds in abundance. The children were certainly well treated, and the night will be one long to be remembered by the little folk.

Next to Christmas, there is probably no date to which the young folk look forward to with greater eagerness and anticipation, than Halloween. It is the one night in the year when they hold high carnival in the streets, and carry on the traditions of the festive night, which for hundreds of years in the old land and the new, has been celebrated with unflagging enthusiasm, by each successive generation of children, and young men and maidens as well.

The police generally are not very severe on the youngsters on this one night of the year, so long as they confine their merrymaking to harmless fun; but wanton destruction of property or any undue disturbance, of course, could not be tolerated. Many Halloween parties were held throughout the city. A number of boys, big boys on side streets, were a little rough at times in their celebration, but on the whole the order was very good. Some of the boys could not resist the old time practice of throwing tin pans at the front doors.

TEN DOLLARS CHEAPER PLUS TEN BETTER

Description of Physique Type System of Tailoring.

There are not more than ten makers of men's clothes in existence in Canada to-day who were in business a quarter-century ago, when Semi-ready tailoring was launched under the physique type system, said the Chief Designer.

And, of these ten, nine have frankly stayed with the old system of making clothes as cheap as they could be made from cloth as cheap as cloth could be woven.

The Semi-ready system revolutionized the tailoring of men's clothes—for it was $10 cheaper than custom tailoring and $10 better than ready-made quality.

The placing of the name and of the exact cloth value in the pocket of each garment has protected the name of Semi-ready, and marked it to-day as the survival of the fittest, said George Van Horne, of Princess street.—Advt.

INTERESTING ACTIVITIES.

Of Societies of Catholic Women in the City.

A very interesting meeting was held in the Hotel Dieu Hospital by the Ladies' Auxiliary in connection with a big bazaar being arranged for the week beginning November 20th. The location was favorably decided on as the Old Clarified Milk Company, or Millia Building, corner Brock and Bagot streets, and everything looks bright for a big success as it is many years since this well known institution held any affair of this nature, and all the workers are looking forward to a splendid bazaar.

Word has been received from Halleybury by the convener of the Catholic Women's League, that an arrival of sixteen boxes of clothing and a cheque for $100 were gratefully received by the committee in charge.

For Colds, Grip or Influenza and as a Preventive, take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. The box bears the signature of E. W. Grove. (Be sure you get BROMO). 30c. Made in Canada.

Death of Venerable Lady.

One of the oldest residents of the County of Leeds died on Tuesday at her residence, "Rockledge," third concession of Elizabethtown, in Mrs. Philena Manhardt, widow of Philip Manhardt who has reached the age of ninety-seven years. Practically all of her life had been spent in this vicinity. The deceased was born in the Manhard settlement, Elizabethtown, on Sept. 1st 1825, the daughter of John Dyer and Mercy McNish, daughter of Samuel McNish. Her husband, Philip Manhardt, died over thirty years ago, and there survive two daughters and one son, Mrs. Joseph Throop, South Augusta, Miss Anna and Horace Manhardt at home.

Did You Ever Stop to Think.

That the advertising columns are in the shopper's service.

That hardly a day passes that you do not find it necessary to make some purchase. Read the advertisements.

That no matter what you want to get, the advertising page is the most effective, economical and quickest way in which to find where to buy what you need.

That every citizen should realize the value of advertisements and read them every day.

That if you don't find what you want it is the fault of your merchants. Tell them about it and tell them to get up-to-date and then advertise.

That truthful, constant advertising has an extraordinary way of making warm friends for a business. That there is nothing gained by buying merchandise out of town. Buy it in your own home city.

That your local merchants carry large reasonable stocks and sell as cheap as the goods can be bought elsewhere, quality considered.

That the merchant who has confidence in the quality of his merchandise and the efficiency of his service, advertises.

That the advertising columns are interesting reading for they tell you where you can get the fullest value for your money.

That high quality merchandise, prompt service, reasonable prices and advertising will make any business grow.

M. Hamilton, E. Thomas.

The chief officials of the concours were elected as follows: Junior judge, R. C. Swerdfefer; senior prosecuting attorney, M. O. Inglis; sheriff, R. C. Laird; clerk, R. G. Sinclair; chief of police, J. W. Saylor; junior prosecuting attorney, S. O. W. Fowler; and crier, C. DeLantley.

Euchre and Dance.

One of the Halloween events that was very largely attended was the weekly euchre and dance held by the Ancient Order of Hibernians in their hall. Euchre was enjoyed by many until 10.15, when the dancing began to the delightful music rendered by McGrath's orchestra. The lucky winners in the euchre contest were Mrs. M. Muchmore, and D. Pelow. The less fortunate winners of the consolation prize were Miss F. Pelow and W. Clarke. At one o'clock, all too soon, the party broke up and the merry crowd repaired to their homes, to wait in eagerness for the next event of this nature.

Two lads appeared before Magistrate Farrell on Wednesday morning, charged with destroying the property of a neighbor. The charge was dismissed.
