What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

To-night, "Woman's Greatest Sin," "Woman's Greatest Sin," which will be seen at the Grand to-night, continues to win golden opinions. This play possesses all the elements to make it popular—flashes of humor, a dialogue which has been cleverly written by Charles A. deLima; powerful emotional scenes, and a bit of tragedy.

There is nothing in the play calculated, in the slightest degree, to give offence, yet still the subject is handled without gloves in order to bring out the strength it deserves.

There is a refinement throughout that is not always found in a problem play. There are left touches of real dramatic and good acting in every scene, and the producer, Arthur C. Alston, is to be congratulated on his selection of the company.

The leading lady, Miss Viola Leach, has many exceptionally fine opportunities in which to show her worth as an actress, while Walter Lawrence, in the role of Geoffrey Marshall, has no small part in developing a startling climax, the solution of which brings about many delightful surprises.

Rex Company in "Some Jane." The offering at the Grand the last three nights of this week by the Rex Stock Company, is another of those delightful comedies, "Some Jane." Those who remember Zana Vaughn in "The Brat," and later in "Peg o' My Heart," and then again in "Kitty Be Careful" and parts like that will welcome with delight, a glimpse of this charming little person, in perhaps the best part she has had since being here. As "Livy" in "Some Jane" Zana Vaughn has a complete and altogether captivating surprise for her admirers, and they are many. Of course, the rest of the Rex Company appear to advantage too. Rex has a part of quiet dignity, which will be a welcome change after his wild capers last week and from what we hear, more of them coming. Joe Kelly has another one of those "kid" parts and Bill Seymour has a great comedy role as the older brother. Incidentally, this is the first time for "Some Jane" at popular prices. Frank James has been preparing some quite wonderful scenery for this production, too.

PAT O'MALLEY HAS THE LEADING ROLE
All-Star Cast in Biggest Picture of Year, "My Wild Irish Rose."

"My Wild Irish Rose" is a production which requires fine character actors, and these were secured to make the production one of the outstanding pictures of the season and one which will appeal to all natives of Erin's Isle. Pauline Starke and Pat O'Malley head the cast. A special part has been written into the story for "Micky" Daniels, who made such a hit in "The Little Minister" as Mical Dow. In "My Wild Irish Rose" Daniels is cast as the young brother of Moya, a character taken by Pauline Starke. He will also be the nephew of Father Dolan, whose niece Moya is. This combination of Miss Starke and the freckled little Daniels should prove an exceptionally strong one. The part of Conn, the shaughraun, was given to Pat O'Malley. He proves a typical version in personality of the devil-may-care Irishman, for which the part originally was written. The story is based upon Dion Boucicault's famous play, "The Shaughraun," and describes the shaughraun as the soul of every fair, the life of every funeral and the first fiddle at all weddings.

SPORTING NEWS

Indoor Baseball Notes.

An added stimulus to the already great interest in the garrison indoor baseball league has been given by the recent announcement that after the local schedule has been completed and the garrison champions announced, play-offs will very probably be held with Ottawa, Peterboro and Belleville to decide the honors for this district which comprises eastern Ontario and a section of Quebec.

With the opening of the season on Tuesday evening, all the teams are getting into shape for their initial games which promise to be full of surprises. Indoor ball is a great game, and although not as scientific as the outdoor pastime, owing to the condition of the playgrounds, it is a mighty interesting game to watch.

A double-header is scheduled for Saturday evening next: Frontenac Regiment vs. Royal Military College and No. 3 Heavy Company, Garrison Artillery vs. P.W.O.R. After those two games a good idea of the respective merits of the two groups in the league may be obtained.

Story of South Seas.

Want to go to the South Sea Isles? Nearly everybody does, since reading the books of Frederic O'Brien, W. S. Maugham and others. Patrons of the Strand Theatre will find themselves carried away to this romantic region when they see Betty Compson in "The Bonded Woman," her latest Paramount picture. In this offering, the South Pacific archipelago is shown at its best, with enough of its worst to make the drama. Miss Compson, as Angela, goes to a dive in Honolulu to rescue the man she loves. This is a colorful scene, with dancing girls, sailors and native people fancy it. But fate, and the girl's wish, then remove the pair to a barren deserted island, where the denouement takes place. Miss Compson is supported by a very fine cast, including Richard Dix, John Bowers, J. Farrell MacDonald, Ethel Wales, William Moran and others. "The Bonded Woman" is based on a story by the late John Fleming Wilson, which was adapted to the screen by A. S. LeVino. Philip E. Rosen directed and James Van Trees photographed.

At The Strand.

In the big double attractions at the Strand tomorrow, Betty Compson in "The Bonded Woman" will be the picture presentation. The vaudeville offering will be "The Five Magpies," one of the biggest acts on the road and Kingston is surely fortunate in securing this splendid attraction. "The Magpies" are colored artists who play all sorts of instruments and who harmonize in voice in a most captivating way.

efforts of Col. Constantine, Major Lafferty and Sergt.-Majors Clarke and Gray they forged steadily ahead until they appeared to have a chance to tie the score. The battery men registered a little panic, and to show that their early runs were not altogether flukes, they drove in ten more runs in the ninth, and came right back and shut out their opponents.

For the winners, Parslow, Stout and Beauline were the stars, the latter scoring two home runs, the only four base clouts of the game, and did much to pull a win for their team. For H.Q., the members mentioned above were the mainstays of the team, and their efforts deserved better support. "Chuck" Coyne umpired the game to everybody's satisfaction. The teams:

H.Q. R.C.H.A.—Constantine, c; Clarke, p; Lafferty, ss; Roberts, 1b; Gray, 2b; Temple, 3b; Risk, rf; Marchand, cf; Adams, lf.

"A" Battery, R.C.H.A.—Stout, c; Crimmins, 2b; Greenway, p; Woods, rf; Poffley, lf; Beauline, ss; Sturges, 3b; Holmes, 1b; and Parslow, cf.

A COLLISION BLOCKS THE FIRE BRIGADE

People Are Warned to Give the Firemen the Right of Way.

A collision occurred at the corner of Charles and Rideau streets on Tuesday night between an automobile and a buggy. The wheels of the buggy were smashed and the traffic was interrupted. The worst feature of the accident, however, was the obstruction of the road of the fire department which was rushing to a fire in the neighborhood. The fire engine, hose wagons and ladder trucks were stalled until the road could be cleared. This accident, it is claimed, was due to the habit of the owners and drivers of automobiles rushing to fires when they hear the alarm. It is a practice that is most dangerous, and the public has been notified repeatedly that the roads must be kept clear for the fire department's apparatus to reach fires that break out. This cannot be done when automobiles and other vehicles all turn in the same direction and block the route.
