SPLENDID ENTERTAINMENT

Given by Woman's Association in Sydenham Street Methodist Hall.

With never a dull moment from start to finish, with stage settings a triumph of taste and ingenuity, acting so natural that seemed truly the real thing, and sweet old songs of long ago, sung charmingly by pretty women and stalwart men in costumes of a by-gone age—all this made the entertainment given in Sydenham street church hall on Wednesday evening by the Woman's Association, a most delightful one, and the peals of laughter that rippled through the hall, showed that it was fully appreciated by the large audience.

The stage was arranged as the best parlor of the country house of Aunt Mary Kelly, with a curtained casement with gay flowers, an old-fashioned clock on a shelf, draped with crazy patchwork, a sofa cushion of chest of old English black oak, and in one corner a huge album bought by Aunt Mary as a great bargain from an agent for 50c down and a dollar a month for two years. The ladies of Friendly Village are calling on Aunt Mary, who is wearing a lovely gown of white muslin and black ribbon and a fascinating cap. Mrs. De Vere is a cultured lady from Boston. Miss Jane Skinning, a man-hating old maid, in a perfectly splendid get-up, and they all admire the beautiful plush album which shows a life size portrait. So, Aunt Hetty, the soul of kindness, opens the huge cover as it stands on end and reveals a picture of Grandfather Kelly in side-whiskers and high-stock, followed by Grandmother Higgs, a dear old lady with a kindly smile on her sweet face. The bride and groom make a pretty picture, and so on through the family, all recognized by some of the visitors.

Between the first and second scene, while Aunt Mary is getting ready for the next great festivity, a quilting party, Miss Pollard and Mr. Alexander sang in costume, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." Both singers have delightful voices, fresh, true and sympathetic, and the soft light and the dear old song, sang so sweetly, made this an altogether charming number.

Then the quilting party, with the visitors from the city, Mrs. Good and Mrs. Vernon, and Mrs. Donnelly, who arrived bringing her two-months-old baby in a carriage, and all the rest of the guests admitted by Abigail gathered in the parlor and set to work at the quilt, entertained by songs from Jake's wife and the mother of the baby, who sang dear old favorites, and a chorus by the company. A paper on woman's rights read by Mrs. Vernon, who being pressed also recited "The Rag Mat Fever," and sat down amidst shouts of laughter. Deacon Sykes arrives and Miss Jane, who has never lost the opportunity of a sly hit at the men, falls a victim and upon his remark that he wanted some one to keep house for him, lures off to the kitchen to settle matters which she evidently does, for they return and the deacon sings with a sweet chorus, "Seeing Janey Home," while she hangs blissfully upon his arm. Then "Auld Lang Syne," and "God Save the King" follow.

The costumes alone are well worth seeing and every one of the twenty-five members of this company are actors, the by-play was remarkably good, and certainly Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe, who as well as taking a part and reciting, was responsible for this splendid entertainment, deserves great credit for its success. The list of characters was as follows: Grandfather Kelly, Dr. H. Simpson; Grandmother Higgs, Miss J. Shaw; Joshua Higgs and his bride, P. B. Chow and Mrs. H. Simpson; Her niece Arabella, Miss Pollard; Three sisters, Jane, Caroline, Mary (herself), Mrs. C. Lane, Miss M. Andrews, Mrs. F. Pense; Her brother Jake's wife, Mrs. H. Elliott; Her four sons, James, Michel, Rob, John Thomas, D. Simpson, Arthur Andrews, Jim Davis, Leslie Jolliffe; Mary Ann Smithers and Joram, her son, Mrs. D. Campbell and L. Day; Julia Ann Inobbs, (Mrs. Obediah Good), Miss McIntyre; An old beau, Donald Simpson.

Characters in play: Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. F. W. Coates; Mrs. Barton, Mrs. J. G. Ettinger; Mrs. De Vere, Miss H. Chown; Miss Jane I. Kinnaird; Mrs. Harold Day; Mrs. Goodsense, Mrs. T. Asselstine; Mrs. Runkle, Mrs. Boyes; Mrs. Lane, Mrs. J. Sparks; Mrs. Hicks, Miss J. Shaw; Mrs. Bond, Mrs. P. B. Chow; Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe; Mrs. Good, Miss McIntyre; Mrs. Donnelly, Mrs. H. Simpson; Abigail, Thomas' wife, Mrs. F. Pense; Jake's wife, Mrs. H. Elliott.

Would Meet Her Match. From Ballynea to Ballyfar the railroad is a single track. The stationmaster at Ballynea once started the train without consulting any one. While he was watching it disappear in the distance, the signalman stuck his head out of his box and said, "Did ye start her?" "I did," replied the other. "An' me us callin' the van from Ballyfar!" cried the signalman. The other rubbed his hands, saying, "Be gor, she'll meet her match!"

See Tweddell's $15 to $25 overcoats. H. R. Kirkpatrick, a brother of C. S. Kirkpatrick of this city, who recently died in Montreal left his estate of $129,000 to his widow, an annuity of $2,000 a year going to his sister Miss Annie Kathleen Kirkpatrick.

SIGNS NOT REMOVED

And a Wrong Impression Is Given the Public. From the appearance of the entrance to his headquarters at 205 Princess street, J. G. Evans continues to control the local branch of the Navy League, as well as the Kingston unit of Army and Navy Veterans. Although his grip on the Boys' Naval Brigade was broken by the Whig last spring, and the dominion executive of Army and Navy Veterans decided a few weeks ago to "depose" Evans in Kingston, the "Rev." "Dr." etc., appears to have no intention of doing anything to lend confirmation to the joyful news that he has been rapidly losing ground in this city.

Although it was announced through the Standard that the Evans party (or what is left of it) decided to link up with the G.A.U.V., no effort is made to promulgate this information. It will be remembered that the Grand Army of United Veterans was organized in Toronto, one of the "leading lights" being Harry Flynn, who led the cry for the $2,000 gratuity for all who served in France and lesser amounts for those who served in England and Canada during the great war. But of course the country could not afford this, and veterans, as a body, would not ask for it. Their patriotism was placed on a higher level than this. A few citizens have announced their candidacy for a municipal election. People are asking if this has anything to do with J. G. Evans still clinging to an appearance of influence.
