CITY'S NEW CURLING RINK

Is Nearing Completion—It Is One of the Best in Canada.

When the new curling rink which is in course of construction on the old Repton property at the corner of Division and Clergy streets west, is completed, Kingston can boast of having one of the best, if not the best, curling rink of its size in Canada. The workmen who are in charge of construction are doing everything possible to have the rink in readiness for a grand opening on Christmas Day.

On Friday afternoon a representative of the Whig visited the new rink and was delighted with the progress made during the past two or three months. It is stated that all records for quick construction have been beaten in the building of this rink. On August 22nd, R. J. McLelland, who was awarded the contract to do the mason work on the new building, commenced work. His first job was to cut down the trees and shrubbery and make way for the new edifice. When it was accomplished the workmen immediately got down to making the concrete blocks from which the walls were constructed. The blocks which have a hollow centre, are the best of their kind seen in years. All the bricks, sills and lintels were manufactured on the grounds. The blocks are of two varieties. Mr. McLelland is to be congratulated on the excellent workmanship.

On account of the non-arrival of the steel structure, which was delayed four weeks, the front portion of the building, that is, looking on Clergy street west, was first built. Upon the arrival of the steel, Mr. McLelland and his men got the steel structure in place in quick order. All the upright pillars were embedded in concrete to make a permanent job.

The woodwork was done by Hooper & Slater, Simmons Bros. are doing the plumbing and tin-smithing, and Thomas Mills, the painting and J. Harris the electrical work.

The new rink will have an ice surface of one hundred and forty-three by ninety-five feet, and there will be sufficient room for six rinks. There will be forty-two powerful electric lamps to light the ice surface, and two switches for each rink.

Upon entering the front door of the building, one passes through a cosy vestibule, which has a tiled floor, the gift of James Richardson. The vestibule is eleven by seven feet. A door leading from the right of the entry, takes one into a cosy room which has been built for the ladies. The room, which is twenty-six by twenty feet, has an up-to-date kitchen. To the left of the vestibule is the men's room and this is similar to that of the ladies', but not quite as large. Upstairs, the men have a handsome clubroom which is seventy-four by twenty-four feet, and the whole front has large windows and one is able to see any place in the rink, from where they sit. The walls and ceiling are finished with fibre board with fir trimmings, and the flooring will be birch. Hooper & Slater, have been on the job for six weeks, and they certainly have not lost a minute's time. The large roof was put on by this company. In the basement, there is a large hot air furnace and all the hose to be used for the flooding of the rink will be kept in a warm place here.

On the second floor of the building, which is the main clubroom, there is a beautiful fireplace, and without doubt it is the best of its kind to be seen anywhere. It is built of red pressed brick, and is visible by the curlers when they will be on the ice taking part in the games. The tiled floor in the lavatories is also the gift of James Richardson.

It is expected with the completion of the new rink, curling in Kingston will be more popular than ever before. Those responsible for organizing The Curlers, Limited, which was instrumental in the erection of the new rink, are to be congratulated.

Sons of Scotland.
The Sir William Wallace Camp, Sons of Scotland met Thursday night and there was a good attendance of members. Two new members were initiated after which the following officers were elected for 1923: Hon. Chief Gen. Sir. A. C. Macdonell; Chief, James Hendry (re-elected); Chieftain, Dr. D. A. Volume; Past Chief, George B. Scott; Chaplain, John Mills; financial secretary, John Mc A. Patrick; recording secretary, John Edgar; Marshal, John Cockburn; standard bearer, T. Mackenzie; senior guard, Mrs. Edgar; junior guard, Mrs. Hendry; organist, Mrs. Cockburn; pipe major, James W. Fraser; auditors, J. Macdonald and Halliday.

Work Well In Hand.
One of the brightest features of the past season is the fact that owing to the remarkable open fall, farmers have their work well in hand for entering the winter. Fall plowing was done last week in several counties. In some quarters both east and west, however, alarm is expressed at the scarcity of water for live stock and for household purposes, a number of wells having practically dried up for the time.
