Blonds Seem To Have It In Gerry Farrar's Life; First Jeritza, Now It's Peggy Joyce

NEW YORK.—When beautiful, yellow-haired Maria Jeritza replaced her as leading soprano at the Metropolitan Opera Company—when the new favorite sang her roles—drew her applause—won away her cherished "Gerry-flappers"—no one took the blow more gracefully than Geraldine Farrar. Farrar fans the world over could not but admire the way in which their loved Carmen dropped quietly out and left the spotlight to the beautiful young foreigner. Now Lou Tellegen, from whom Geraldine Farrar is separated after a stormy disagreement, is showing ardent devotion to Peggy Hopkins Joyce, and Broadway has it that they are engaged to be married—as soon as Gerry divorces Lou. Will Gerry give up her husband as easily as she did her operatic queenship? Broadway wonders, and treads lightly—listening for the tempest.

IRISH IRREGULAR LEADERS EXECUTED IN DUBLIN.

Left, Liam Mellows was the idol of the Irish republican youth and was said to be the genius behind the strategy of the republican forces. Right, Rory O'Connor was commandant of the insurgent forces in the battle of the Four Courts.

WAR MEMORIAL IN PADDINGTON SQUARE.

A memorial erected by the G.W.R. in the famous Paddington station in London. It was recently unveiled and dedicated by Viscount Churchill and the Archbishop of Canterbury. Note the unusual pose of the soldier, with his great coat flung over his shoulders.

FIRST SENATORS OF THE IRISH FREE STATE.

Included in the thirty members of the Irish Senate nominated by President Cosgrave Wednesday were the following: Top, left to right: the Earl of Kerry, the Earl of Granard, William Butler Yeats, the poet, the Earl of Dunraven, Sir Thomas Esmonde. Bottom, left to right: Lord Glenary, the Earl of Mayo, Professor George Sigerson, Sir Horace Plunkett and Gen. Sir Bryan Mahon.

A Decorative Pen

For the writing desk or as a companion piece to the guest book, a pen with a feather quill for a handle makes a beautiful gift. Natural feathers are as marvelous and beautiful in their markings as flowers and those in neutral colors can be tinted if one wishes to brighten them. Many kinds of feathers, including those of the ostrich, are used for these decorative pens and they make a gift suited to every grown-up.

Angel or Knight.

That famous journalist, Sir John Foster Fraser, was in America, and a youngster asked him why he was a knight.

"Well," said Sir John, "the King touched me on the shoulder with a sword and that made me into a knight."

"Oh!" said the youth. "My grandfather was touched on the heel by an Indian with an axe and that made him an angel."

"There's the rock of Gibraltar." "But where is the advertisement?"—L.A.

"Dollar Princess" Coming to Beg For Hungry Refugees of Near East

GREEK REFUGEES WHOM THE DOLLAR PRINCESS WILL SELL HER NEWPORT HOME TO AID—

PARIS.—America's "Dollar Princess," the former Mrs. William B. Leeds, who by her marriage to Prince Christopher of Greece became a power in European social and political circles, will sail for America in December to plead for dollars for the hungry Greek refugees in the Near East. With her royal husband, who has never seen his wife's native land, she will make speeches in this country to raise money for the Near East fund. While in New York she will superintend the sale of her magnificent home at Newport, R. I., the proceeds from which she will devote to feeding hungry refugee Greeks.
