WRESTLER-BOXER INTERESTING BOUT

Zbyszko Says He Could Trim Dempsey With Ease in a Mixed Match.

(By Billy Evans.)
Is the champion fighter a more formidable opponent than a champion wrestler?
Jack Dempsey is the heavyweight champion of the ring; Strangler Lewis holds the heavyweight wrestling honor.
What chance would Dempsey have against Lewis in a mixed match? Would the sleep-producing wall-packer by Dempsey prove more effective than the bone-breaking holds of Lewis?
This question has been revived by the recent wire report that Dempsey was not adverse to meeting Lewis in a mixed match.
A year ago, when Stanislaus Zbyszko was the champion, I raised the argument as to the superiority of the wrestler and boxer in two champions of the same class met in a mixed bout.
I put the question to Dempsey and Jack's answer was most emphatic. "I'll knock out Zbyszko and a half dozen other champion wrestlers on the same ring on the same night."
"All that would be necessary for me to trim Zbyszko would be to sink a couple of punches in that bay window of his, cross a couple of right hands to the jaw, and it would be all over."
"A good wrestler hasn't a chance with an equally good fighter."
The question of a match with Dempsey and what he thought of his chances was put to Zbyszko.
"In a match with Dempsey I would immediately force him to the floor," said Zbyszko. "That would enable me to get my deadly holds working and thereby render Dempsey's best punches far less effective."
"Dempsey is a great fighter, but he knows nothing of wrestling. It is an easy matter to force an inexperienced wrestler to the floor. Once I get Dempsey on the mat the contest would soon be over."
"The fighter will always be at the mercy of the wrestler in a mixed match."
The proposed match aroused so much comment, I asked a score of the leading sport writers for their opinions. Only one conceded Zbyszko the margin.
Later the idea was tried out in a half dozen matches between fighters and wrestlers possessing merely local reputations. In every case the wrestler was victorious.
A match between Dempsey and Lewis would settle no momentous question, but it would prove mighty interesting while it lasted, regardless of who was the victor.

Liniments Won't Relieve Pain Between the Eyes

That pain is not rheumatism or neuralgia. Many folks think so—it is due to Catarrh, plain ordinary Catarrh and needs attention right now. Catarrh is the name of a wonderful invention that is daily fixing up chronic cases of weak throat, bronchitis and catarrh. Every breath through the Inhaler is laden with soothing, healing substances that destroy all diseased conditions in the breathing organs. It can't fail to help, because it goes where the trouble really exists, and doesn't attempt to cure an illness in the head or throat by means of medicine taken into the stomach. There is no sufferer from a grippy cold or any winter ail that won't find benefit in Catarrhose, which is employed by physicians, ministers, lawyers and public men throughout many foreign lands. Large size lasts two months, and costs $1.00. Small size 50c. Sample size 25c.; all storekeepers or the Catarrhose Co., Montreal.

YALE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE LACKS ONLY ONE GAME.

Announcement from Montreal that McGill University will meet Yale on the gridiron here on October 20th next year indicates that the Yale football schedule for 1923 is virtually completed. If Yale cuts its schedule down to eight games, as Harvard has done, there remains but one open date, October 27th. The tentative schedule as made known so far is as follows:
October 6th, North Carolina; October 13th, University of Georgia; October 20th, McGill University; November 3rd, Army; November 10th, Brown; November 17th, Princeton; November 24, Harvard at Cambridge.

Joe Boley, star shortstop of the International League, for whose services several major league clubs have been dickering, has signed a contract continuing with the Baltimore Club for another year. His salary, it was said, will be $6,000.

Many fans who saw Kitchener beat Argonauts, Wednesday, are of the opinion that the Green and White will cut a wide swath in the O.H.A. senior race this year.

The recognized record for the 230-yards three-legged race is 27.15 seconds, held by C. Cassasa and S. C. Northridge.

CHICAGO CUBS PRESENT ARRAY OF YOUNGSTERS IN 1923 BATTLE LINEUP

The Chicago Cubs will go into the 1923 National league pennant race with a team made up of more young players than any other club in the major leagues. It also will be piloted by the youngest manager in the older organization, William Killefer, who was reappointed for a term of two years.
Forty players are on the club's roster to report for spring training at Catalina island. The majority were with the club in 1922, when Manager Killefer began the process of reconstructing the club, and with the exception of Marty Krug, who filled in at third base the latter part of the season, will be on hand when called together.

From this array of talent, a club of seasoned players is expected, which should be an improvement over the 1922 aggregation, which made a creditable showing despite the fact it finished in fifth place.

Fourteen pitchers on the Cubs' roster will strive for permanent positions. Of these, only one, Grover Alexander, is a veteran. Altho handicapped part of the season of 1922 because of a lame arm, he still has considerable pitching prowess. Four are southpaws.
The Cubs are believed to have secured star players in George Grantham and R. B. Barrett, who will contest with 10 other men signed up for infield positions.

Charley Hollocher, rated as one of the best shortstops in the majors, should have no trouble winning his regular berth, but Ray Grimes, one of the leading first basemen in the league in 1922, and an excellent batter, may find some stiff competition among the other young men.

Other candidates for infield berths include Johnny Kelleher and Joe Klugmann, who returns from Atlanta. Bernie De Veleiros also comes back for another trial. Ten men are slated to battle for outfield berths. The catching department should show to greater advantage in 1923 as Bob O'Farrell has developed into one of the best backstops in the league. He probably will be the first string receiver, but will find some strong competition in Wirtz and Leo Hartnett.
