REV. FATHER FLEMING THROWN FROM A CUTTER

Well-Known Wolfe Island Parish Priest Injured—in the Hotel Dieu.

Rev. Father Fleming, Wolfe Island, is in the Hotel Dieu as a result of minor injuries received on Saturday afternoon, when he was thrown from a cutter near his own residence after returning from a trip to Kingston. It is believed that no bones are broken, but owing to the severe shock he received, it was thought best to remove him to the hospital.

The roads are in bad condition on the island, as a result of the recent heavy snowfall, and as Father Fleming was turning into his home from the main road, his cutter overturned and he was thrown heavily onto the hard surface of the road. Fortunately, he was not driving very fast at the time, and the horse was not frightened by the overturning of the sleigh. Help was obtained from a nearby house, and the reverend father was later driven over to the city.

Upon inquiry at the Hotel Dieu on Monday morning, the Whig was informed that Father Fleming was much better, and was resting easily. It is thought, however, that he will be unable to leave the hospital for a few days yet.

AN AGED RESIDENT DIES.

Mrs. Margaret Wartman, Centreville at Rest.

Napanee Beaver.

Another of the aged and highly respected residents of the Township of Camden passed peacefully away at Centreville on January 20th, in the person of Mrs. Margaret Wartman. She was the daughter of one of the pioneer Methodist local preachers of Tamworth and vicinity, viz., James Bell and his wife, Matilda Gunsauls, and was born in Sheffield township, on Nov. 22nd 1836.

On February 5th, 1874, she was united in marriage with Charles Wartman, and for twenty years lived a happy, useful and godly life in the home at Colebrook. Her husband predeceased her thirty-two years. In 1894, she came to live at Centreville with her only daughter, Mrs. Mortimer Lockhead, and during her remaining years endeared herself by loving deeds and wise counsel to many friends. Many who have been helped by her kindness will cherish the memory of her holy life.

In addition to the faithful daughter who cared for her in her declining years, there survive a stepson, Charles W. Wartman, of Phoenix, Arizona; her nephew, J. C. Bell, B.S., of Cowallis, Oregon, and three nieces, Mrs. Joseph Peterson, of Hilger, Montana; Miss T. A. Bell, of Shaughbol, China, and Mrs. H. L. Wallis, of Drumheller, Alta., all of whom had been trained and brought up by her. Four brothers also remain, viz., William M. Bell, of Enterprise; Andrew E., of Tamworth; E. W., of Mountain Grove, and John N., of Vancouver, B.C.

The funeral service was held at the home on Monday last, and was conducted by her pastor, Rev. M. W. Leigh, B.A., of Enterprise, and attended by a large number of relatives and friends. The pall bearers were Horatio, Alfred M., Fraser and Frank Bell, all of Desmond, and John L. and Cephas Bell, of Enterprise, and the body was placed in the Centreville vault.

DIED OF NATURAL CAUSES

Penitentiary Convict Passed Away as the Result of Heart Disease.

"That A Oleymick came to his death as result of natural causes and that no blame can be attached to anyone in connection with his death" was the verdict of the jury empaneled to inquire into the death of this prisoner confined in Portsmouth penitentiary. The jury met at the prison on Saturday afternoon and evidence was taken. It was clearly shown that no person was responsible for his death. The prisoner was found dead in his cell on Saturday morning about 4.40 o'clock.

Coroner D. E. Mundell conducted the inquest.

Warden J. C. Ponsford was the first witness called. He stated that deceased was sentenced at North Bay, to a two-year term and had entered the institution on December 7th, 1921. He claimed that he was a well behaved prisoner.

Convict No. K 55 who occupied a cell next to the deceased, said that he heard Oleymick moaning early in the morning but he did not pay any attention, as the prisoner was in the habit of moaning. He stated that deceased had not said anything about being sick.

Convict No. K 74 said that he heard Oleymick groaning during the early hours of the morning, and he made quite a noise.

Guard H. Woodhouse, who was making his rounds in the section of the prison where the late convict was confined, said that he noticed there was something strange about the appearance of the man and he reported to the chief night keeper, who in turn summoned the hospital nurse who pronounced the man dead.

Night Nurse Arthur Raven told of examining the body and pronouncing the prisoner dead.

Dr. W. G. Anglin surgeon said that during the time the prisoner was confined to the institution he had twice reported sick. On one occasion he had advised the convict to cease smoking as it was making him vomit.

Dr. James Miller, pathologist of Queen's medical college, who performed the post mortem said that the cause of death was heart failure due to the heart being dilated and getting no blood. He said that death was due to natural causes and that the convict could go about for some time without showing any serious symptoms.

The members of the jury were: J. N. Dolese, foreman, Frank Purdy, Fred Beaudry, F. B. Pense, Ralph Adair, Ernest Hughson, Jack McGill, John Johnson, "Jack" Welch, Fred Hunter, John d'Esterre and Mark Dine.

AT ST. JAMES' CHURCH.

Interesting Services By Rev. C. E. Jenkins of Brantford.

Rev. C. E. Jenkins, M.A., M.C., St. James' church, Brantford, was the special preacher at St. James' church on Sunday, and gave eloquent sermons at both the morning and evening services. In the evening he took his text from St. Matthew, V: 14 "Ye are the light of the World," and St. John, VIII: 12, "I am the light of the World." He declared that all great musicians, such as Mendelssohn, Chopin and Handel; great poets like the Brownings and Colonel McCrae; great artists and writers, were torch-bearers, lighting the world, while steadfast friends who were always present with counsel and assistance in every contingency, were torch-bearers to the individual. These we all appreciate but above them all is Christ, the great torch-bearer who casts his light before and behind, lighting up the way to the grave and beyond it to the palace beautiful.

Rev. T. W. Savary conducted the service and special music was rendered by the choir under the direction
