THE KIWANIANS LEARN SOMETHING ABOUT TURKS

Address Delivered by Prof. D. A. McArthur of Quéen's University.

"British interests have been best served by an alliance with Turkey as shown by a study of past relationships, and it ought to be our aim to promote a good understanding with Turkey," declared Prof. D. A. Mac-Arthur, of Queen's University, in an admirable address before the Kiwanis club at the weekly luncheon in the Frontenac Hotel on Monday even-

"The Turkish problem is not of recent origin as you will find by reviewing the history in Europe, There are two general factors that must be kept in mind. First, her relationship covetous eyes on Constantinople, and her desire to obtain an outlet from ways been a matter of concern. There her policy must, therefore, take into tition of Turkey. It appears that In the Crimean war Britain fought when the war broke out Britain comtime Russia espoused the cause of that had not been delivered. At the the Christian minority and Britain same time two German cruisers had the Christian minorities in Turkey; l'ag." and she did not want Russia to fortify the Black Sen for purposes of defence and offence. In this she won. Turkey was admitted to the concert of Europe and to a place at the council table. She was to place her house passage of commerce through the straits, but war vessels were not ad-

The Balkans.

"Russia encouraged the Balkans against Turkey and assumed a position of protector. Britain was not consulted. This period marks the beginning of the Bulgarian atrocities following the slaying of one hundred Turkish civilized officials. England was greatly stirred by these reprisals on the part of the Turks and Gladstone's attitude had much to do with shaping British opinion following the late seventies." British public opinion has been much colored by the effect of Gladstone's policles." The war of 1878 was recalled by the speaker. "In the treaty that followed an attempt was made to provide for the protection of minorities. Here Britain objected, and at the Berlin conference British prestige was high as a result of Disraeli's statemanship. It was at this time that Queen Victoria was proclaimed Empress of India. "But Gladstone returned to power in 1880 and British policy changed and Turkish interests
