GALLANT GOO IN “GAME OF LIFE”

Super-Cinema From England Opens Run Here To-night.

One of the most remarkable scenes ever staged in pictures is found in “The Game of Life,” the immortal charge of the Light Brigade. We see the 600 light cavalrymen charging into the mouths of Russian cannon at Balaclava.

The famous charge was staged by permission of His Majesty King George V., who loaned the producer of “The Game of Life” 600 light cavalrymen from the very same regiment which performed the glorious exploit on the battlefield of the Crimea 67 years ago.

“The Game of Life,” which since its opening in Great Britain three months ago has smashed all cinema records in England, will open at the Grand Opera House to-night.

The Old London Music Hall of the 50's was the sporting rendezvous of England. It was here that all the romantic characters of Victorian England assembled. Here we would find lords and earls hobnobbing with bookies and jockeys, and hussies.

This is the picturesque setting for some of the drama and comedy in “Game of Life,” and it is here that we see the dramatic meeting of Travers, the plunger, and the bookies who never sets a limit, and it is here that we find that hilarious pair, the irrepressible cobbler and that lovable urchin The Nipper, who by a strange turn of fortune have been lifted from a coterie barrow in the slums of London to a baronet's castle with 30 servants and money to burn.

JACKIE COOGAN SPLENDID IN “PECK'S BAD BOY”

“Peck's Bad Boy,” starring Jackie Coogan, six-year-old motion picture celebrity, will be the feature attraction at the Allen Theatre opening its engagement today. The little youngster who carved a niche in the hearts of all picture fans who saw him as “The Kid” is said to have done even greater work in “Peck's Bad Boy,” than he did in the Chaplin masterpiece, if such a thing can be possible.

In this screen version of the volumes of the late Governor George Peck, Jackie is seen as an all-round American lad who is constantly making trouble by his ingenious boyish pranks. How he manages to get to the circus at the expense and mortification of his “Pa,” causes the escape of a lion and general furore at the tent show, and throws a church into an uproar by introducing a collection of live ants, are some of the high-lights in this comedy. The subtlety is the working of Irvin S. Cobb, famous humorist. Doris May has the role of the Girl in the Case (Jackie's sister). Wheeler Oakman portrays the Man in the Case. James Corrigan is seen as Mr. Peck and Lillian Leighton as Mrs. Peck. Raymond Hatton is the village grocer and Baby Gloria Wood is Jackie's “affinity.” “Peck's Bad Boy” will be shown especially for school children Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Admission, ten cents.

NEW PICTURE HAS POWERFUL THEME

What harm newspaper publicity and notoriety can do, persons in public life when scandal turns its forces against them, is the central theme of William de Mille's latest production for Paramount, “The World's Applause,” featuring Bebe Daniels and Lewis Stone, which comes to the Strand Theatre to-day.

Bebe Daniels has the role of Corinne d'Alays, a successful actress, whose high place has been largely due to her insatiable search for publicity. Lewis Stone, finished stage and screen artist, makes his debut as a contract player under the Paramount banner in the role of John Elliott, a dramatic producer, who becomes enmeshed in emotional situations of compelling force when his sister (Kathlyn Williams) allows jealousy of her artist husband (Adolphe Menjou) to drag them all into a quagmire of scandal and tragedy. From this point on the drama proceeds to an unexpected conclusion, creating, it is said, a typically well-rounded, dramatic William de Mille entertainment.

An ultra-modern note is struck by Miss Daniels in her costumes, which are unusually elaborate. Mr. de Mille considers the cast assembled for “The World's Applause” one of the best in his career as a motion picture director. Other supporting roles are filled by such well-known players as Brandon Hurst, Bernice Frank, Maym Kelso, George Kuwa and James Neill. Special attraction, Miss Beatrice Horton, soprano, and other reels of quality complete the bill.

Mary Pickford Coming.

A true case of “rags that led to riches” is that of Mary Pickford and her handling of the leading role in “Tess of the Storm Country,” which she recently refilled, and which will be featured at the Strand Theatre next week. When Miss Pickford first essayed this role before the camera nearly a decade ago, she was recognized as a star in her own right, but no one could possibly foresee the heights to which she would

British Ambassador Asks That Arkansas Murder Charge Be Given Preference.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—The attorney-general's department, through the medium of the department of justice at Ottawa, has received a request from the British ambassador at Washington that the province of Ontario waive their extradition proceedings on Lewis Austin, who is wanted here in connection with the Mount Forest bank robbery. The British ambassador at Washington states that the state of Arkansas is pressing a charge of murder against Austin, and they are urging that he be allowed to try him before he is brought to Ontario.

“The department has not reached any decision on the matter as yet,” stated Deputy Attorney-General Bayly to-day.

GUARD NEW YORK CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Special Police Protection Given on the Edifices During the Lenten Period.

New York, Feb. 22.—Every Roman Catholic church in New York will have special police protection at all services during Lent, it was learned to-day when Chief Inspector Lahey issued orders to all district police heads to detail men to work. The orders instructed patrolmen to prevent the entrance to churches of all persons carrying suspicious appearing parcels. Men also were instructed to prevent all loitering in the vicinity of Catholic churches.

The first police guard was posted this morning. Every Roman Catholic church in Greater New York was guarded by bluecoats. Monsignor Lavelle, vicar-general of the diocese, said to-day the church authorities had not asked police protection for the churches. He declared that he knew of no threats to burn the churches, such as have been received in Canada.

Radio Listeners Need Imagination

When a radio drama is broadcast every listener must set his imagination working to construct his own scenery and setting. The listener hears a telegraph key and the lines refer to a railroad station in a small village as in the case of the first act of “The Travelling Salesman.” At once is created in the mind of every fan a picture of a railroad station and to him all the succeeding action denoted by the voices of the players takes place in the mind-picture of the listener.

In the radio drama only sound “atmosphere” is possible. Telephone bells, closing doors, thunder, an automobile horn, the whistle of a train or the whistle of the wind, the rattle of dishes or the rattle of a typewriter all help to convey pictures to the listeners and these pictures are made fairly definite by the lines.

Players of radio drama are handicapped by the necessity of conveying all emotion by the voice, by intonation and shading. The real artist of the stage need not utter a word to express emotion; the clenching of the hand or the twisting of a handkerchief are stronger than words.

The radio audience of to-day gets his drama exactly as the blind man formerly “saw” the stage play, entirely through the ears but supplemented by imagination and experience. Radio drama is the direct opposite of motion pictures; the former depends upon sound, the latter upon sight. It is reasonable to expect that the growing popularity of the radio drama will result in a revival of interest in the spoken drama. After every play presented by WGY Players the studio receives from 800 to 1,000 letters from radio fans, expressing appreciation and enjoyment. It is interesting to note that a great many of these letters come from those who have seen the stage production of the broadcast plays.

REGRETS THAT THE U.S. DID NOT PLAY PART IN THE PEACE SETTLEMENT

London, Feb. 22.—Premier Bonar Law expressed regret before a gathering to-day, which included many United States citizens, that the United States had not played her part in the peace settlement as she had in the war. The occasion of the premier's remarks was the celebration of Washington's birthday. He believed that when another opportunity presents itself the “United States government will no longer stand aloof from the troubles of the world.” He paid tribute to Canada for its great contribution to the struggle. Hon. H. C. Larkin was among the guests.

LINE OF DEFENDERS BEGINS TO CRUMBLE

Washington, D.C., Feb. 22.—The line of defenders holding out against the filibuster on the administration shipping bill to-day began to crack and crumble, under the fear that the session might end without an opportunity being afforded to get through legislation which some senators feel is more important to them than the subsidy bill is to the administration. Notice was served on Senator Jones, in charge of the bill, by several republican senators who have stood by him, that if he was unable to break the filibuster by Friday or Saturday they would be forced to support a motion to send the subsidy bill back to the commerce committee.

BEEKEEPERS' ASSOCIATION.

Being Organized in Kingston For Co-operative Marketing.

The co-operative marketing of honey was the subject of an address of Allan T. Brown, Peterboro, before a gathering of local bee-keepers in the agricultural hall on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Brown is carrying on a campaign simultaneously with other organizers whose object is to have all the producers of honey sign contracts to dispose of their produce only through the one central provincial co-operative organization. Mr. Brown contends that this will result in a stabilization of price and the standardization of grade. There will be three grades of honey established for marketing purposes. At present there is a penalty for adulteration only.

He argues that by carrying out a warehousing plan it will be able to extend the honey market over the entire year, where as it now runs only from October to April. Last year there was an enormous crop of honey and the market is now gutted because all producers are flooding the market in an effort to dispose of their stocks. Consequently the bottom fell out of the price.
