"OLD DUMBELLS"
IN "FULL O' PEP"
The world's greatest theatrical organization, the "Old Dumbells" will present their splendid new revue "Full O' Pep" at the Grand Opera House for three days, starting Thursday, March 1st. This famous band of Canadian actor-entertainers are now operating their own company which comprises fourteen out of the sixteen original Dumbells. The beauty and sumptuousness of the new revue easily outrivals any former offering the boys have presented to the Canadian public. Those who say "Biff, Bing, Bang" or the "Dumbells Revue of 1922" should not fail to see "Full O' Pep" when it comes here for there are several numbers that are more merry and delightful than anything they have ever yet attempted.

"CHILD FOR SALE"
AT THE ALLEN
It has been left to Ivan Abramson, the famous author and motion picture director in his latest dramatic creation, "A Child For Sale," the feature attraction at the Allen, Tuesday and Wednesday to center the attention of the general public to the intense issue of the hour. It is rather a daring piece of work and Mr. Abramson did not stop to think a minute whether he would be praised or condemned. Every angle of the story set forth is outlined with unerring precision in the various situations with the result that rarely a work, be it orally or literally, or a feature picture, has been witnessed that has so perfect a sequence as "A Child For Sale." Mr. Abramson possesses one big advantage over other producers in that he is his own manager, author, scenarist and director, and in this way is enabled to put his ideas upon the screen exactly as he conceived them. "A Child For Sale" is perhaps the strongest of his long line of photo dramas, with beautiful love interest masterly interwoven which no doubt will command the close attention of every kind of audience.

One of the remarkable accomplishments of the picture is the evolution of Creighton Hale into dramatic artist of high order, as critics of the press have carefully noted. The young man therefore essayed juvenile roles, invariably playing the young lover, but this time the director cast him in a serious role that called for entirely different kind of screen acting. In using the expression of one of the press critics "Creighton Hale's work is wonderfully clever. He is not only superb but shows capability of taking care of any big serious role that might be assigned to him." The further admission of Creighton Hale who is costarred with Gladys Leslie, was "For the first time in my life I was given the opportunity to play a part I always longed to play and whether or not I have succeeded I am willing to leave to the opinion of the great movie fan, and I certainly appreciate Mr. Abramson's efforts in drawing forth my talent qualities."

MARY PICKFORD BACK
Mary Pickford as the Tess of tattered raiment in the memorable "Tess of the Storm Country" is back again. America's Sweetheart has re-enacted the role which made her famous eight years ago and presents the world's theatre-goers with a most elaborate revival of a photoplay which bids fair never to die. Once more this most popular of all screen stars wears the rags which led to such great riches for her, and it is a foregone conclusion her characterization in restoring her most cherished character to the silver-sheet canvas devotes to the cinema and to posterity as well. When Miss Pickford first essayed this role before the motion picture camera nearly a decade ago, she was recognized as a star in her own right, but no one could possibly foresee the heights to which she would rise as the result of a single dramatic effort. Within a few weeks after this initial version of Grace Miller White's popular novel was released, Miss Pickford was proclaimed the foremost exponent of the silent drama and from that time until the present she has been the undisputed queen supreme of the screen. Moreover, one of the effects has been most monetary; this film triumph of years bygone placed her firmly on the high road to much wealth and there has never been the slightest lull in the applause which her each succeeding picture elicits throughout the civilized world. There are two outstanding reasons which actuated Miss Pickford in producing a new picture and her own picture "Tess of the Storm Country," now showing at the Strand Theatre. One was the persistent demand of tens of thousands of motion picture fans and editorial urging of the press; the other was her desire to give her most loved character a chance for even longer life through the advantages of the countless improvements available in the film-making industry now. "This restoring of Tess of the Storm Country to her place in the cinema sun is the realization of a rather fond ambition of mine, because I regard her as the most vitally important character I ever portrayed on the screen," Miss Pickford says. "I enjoyed every minute I was toggled out in her rags, because I love the beautiful spirit which survives all her wretchedness and misfortunes; the spirit which inspires her to do such humanly noble acts in behalf of the right with so little consideration of self-sacrifice involved in the deeds."

Action of Real Estate Dealer Called Premature by Judge.
On Saturday morning, Judge H. A. Lavell gave judgment in the case of George A. Bateman, real estate dealer, vs. William Taylor, which was recently heard in the Division court. The judgment is as follows: Plaintiff claims from the defendant the sum of $199.31, being the balance alleged to be due him under an agreement for the sale of certain lands to the defendant.

The purchase price, amounting to $420 plus interest and taxes, was to be paid in monthly instalments of $10 each. If default was made the vendor had two remedies. He could either cancel the agreement or bring action to recover the overdue instalments.

Defendant says that the agreement was cancelled but the evidence does not warrant such a finding. At no time did the plaintiff take such action as would have the effect of rendering the agreement null and void, nor indeed was he ever in a position to do so as will shortly be made clear.

It is admitted that the plaintiff has received on account of the purchase price the sum of $258, the last payment being the purchase price of one of the lots which at the request of the defendant was sold by the plaintiff to one Bocking in October 1921. But the total sum of all the payments which have fallen due under the agreement to date is $688 than the sum so received and credited. It cannot be said therefore that there are any overdue payments. Indeed on the contrary the purchaser has paid more than the agreement calls for to date.

That being the case the plaintiff has not yet acquired the right either to cancel the agreement or bring action for any part of the purchase price.

The action, being premature, is therefore dismissed with costs.

THERE ARE LOTS MORE LIKE THIS IN IRELAND.
In their systematic destruction of property of sympathizers and supporters of the Irish Free State Government, the rebels under de Valera made an attempt to raze the home of Sir Horace Plunkett. The attempts did not meet with sufficient success to satisfy the rebels, so they returned the next day, again fired the house and completed its destruction.
