"OLD DUMBELLS"
IN "FULL O' PEP."
The season's most popular theatrical offering will appear here at the Grand Opera House for three days commencing tomorrow night when the new revue "Full O' Pep" with a cast comprising fourteen out of the sixteen members of the old Dumbells, will present all the old favorites who are so well known everywhere in Canada. The cast of the new company includes the inimitable "Red" Newman of "Oh it's a lovely war" fame; Ted Charter, originator of the famous "Kit Inspection" sermon; Arthur Holland, the famous female impersonator, who will be remembered in "Something Original" and "In-cense, Hear My Prayer." The other artists include Jimmy Goods, Charlie McLean, Alan Murray, Fred Fenwick, Jerry Brayford, Bill Tennant, Tom Young, Bertram Langley, Percy Campbell, Ivor Ayre, Bob Anderson and Leonard Young.
All the above mentioned Dumbells have parted from Captain Plunkett and organized their own company, known as the Khaki Productions Limited. Their new revue "Full O' Pep" is conceded to be the boys' greatest theatrical triumph. The members themselves are responsible for all the acts, sketches, scenic and lighting effects, dances and skits that have made all the Dumbell shows in the past. The boys are, therefore, carrying out the same ideas in their own new production which is meeting with the greatest success everywhere. The names of all these soldier artists are so well known here that they need no introduction to local theatre fans. Patrons are requested to make early reservations so as not to be disappointed at the last minute.

SAYS THE SCIENTISTS SHOULD BE PENSIONED
And Encouraged to Pursue Their Investigations in Interests of Mankind.
London, Feb. 23.—Urging that Britain pension scientists who have been successfully engaged in research work and encourage them to pursue their investigations, Sir Ronald Ross, eminent authority on tropical diseases, told the British Science Guild yesterday that the world threw its genuses on the dust heap. After naming numbers of men who had made great discoveries in the cure of dreaded diseases, Sir Ronald declared that it had often been said that the man who could find a cure for tuberculosis or who could discover the cause and cure of cancer would become a millionaire, "but on the contrary it is more likely that he would die in the workhouse."

AN ECHO OF WITLEY CAMP RIOT OF 1919
Surrey County Council Loses Appeal—Must Pay Shopkeeper For Damages.
London, Feb. 23.—An echo of the riot by Canadian soldiers at Witley camp in February 1919 was heard to-day when the court of appeal dismissed an appeal by the Surrey county council against being mulcted in the sum of five hundred and fifty pounds which had been awarded by the lower court to a shopkeeper of Witley camp for damages as the result of the riot. The council held that the camp was solely under military discipline and that the civil police were not responsible. In the judgment the court states that it was natural and just that the council should be liable for the damage done to the shopkeeper by the riot. The council should be liable for the damage done to the shopkeeper by the riot.

MISS PICKFORD WINS ROTARIAN APPLAUSE
Five Thousands Cheer Her as She Greets Them in the Costume of "Tess."
On the occasion of the thirtieth international convention of Rotarians held at Los Angeles, the Pickford-Fairbanks studios were thrown open to them and as a consequence thousands of the members of this great organization swarmed to this favored spot of Filmland. Mary Pickford was in the midst of the task of re-filming "Tess of the Storm Country," her great triumph of eight years ago and which is the feature attraction all this week at the Strand Theatre. Due to the necessity of sticking close to her work in the enclosed stage, Miss Pickford intended to leave most of the entertaining of the guests to her husband, Douglas Fairbanks. She had a good reason for this—she was living the life of Tess, the wife of a lowly fisherman's village, and not only was she attired in rags, but her ankles and feet wore bare. Modesty forbade her parading before strangers in such a make-up.
However, when something like five thousands visitors had succeeded in getting inside the grounds there started a very decided clamor for Miss Pickford. This clamor soon developed into a collective demand, good-natured, but none the less insistent, and when it became apparent there would be no let-up in it, Mr. Fairbanks ordered a recess in his own work and disappeared.
Upon confronting Miss Pickford on her "set" and enlightening her as to the state of affairs precipitated by the numerous Rotarians, she demurred. He laughingly insisted that she accompany him for at least one "bow." She begged for enough time to change costume, but he dissuaded her from this idea with a lot of fast talking.
This it came to pass that in less than five minutes she had "America's Sweetheart," rigged out as the humble Tess, in the presence of the guests, and leading her by the hand, secured for the full length of the

PRINCE ARRESTED.
By French at Essen — A German Nationalist Agitator.
Essen, Feb. 23.—Prince Frederick Wilhelm Von Lippe, German nationalist agitator, was arrested to-day by the French authorities at Essen where it is charged that he had been particularly active in stirring up an agitation against Franco-Belgian troops in the Ruhr. The prince was an active factor in the campaign for retention of Silesia by Germany and papers found in his room showed that he was a member of the secret order of Swastika and a notorious reactionary organization.

Anti French Movement.
Washington, D.C., Feb. 23.—More trouble in Ruhr was forecast to-day by the French embassy which announced that it had "reliable information" indicating an anti-French movement calculated to culminate in an "armed uprising." The embassy statement declared that the German government was "known to be backing the enterprise" and that volunteers were entering Ruhr.

ULSTER PROMISED HELP BY BRITAIN
Premier Sir James Craig Says Troops Will Be Sent if Needed.
Belfast, Feb. 23.—Premier Sir James Craig told the Ulster parliament yesterday that the British Government had pledged itself at a moment's notice, to place at the disposal of Northern Ireland any troops necessary for action along the border. The troops, it was understood, would be instantly offered as, and when required.
The premier said he was well aware of the regret which had been caused by the removal from Ulster of the British regiments.

Free State to Collect And Retain All Duties
Dublin, Feb. 23.—President Cosgrave announced in the Dail Eireann last night that to April next the customs and excise revenues for the whole of Ireland would, under an arrangement with the British Government, be divided between the Free State and Northern Ireland on a basis to be agreed upon between the British Government and the Free State. From April, continued President Cosgrave, the duties on dutiable goods entering, and the excise duties on dutiable goods produced in the Free State, would be collected and retained by the Free State without question of allocation.

C. P. R. Desires to Be Exempted From Order
Washington, D.C., Feb. 23.—The Canadian Pacific Railway company to-day petitioned the Inter-state commerce commission to be exempted from the provisions of the commission's order requiring class one carriers to issue interchangeable mileage books. The inclusion of the Canadian Pacific in the order, the railroad's application stated, would result in a complete disruption of the international passenger rate fabric.
